J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s
ELECTRIC DOOR OPENERS
For Apartment Houses.

PATENTED APRIL 29, 1884; other Patents Applied For.

A large number of J. H. BUNNELL & Co.'s Electric Door-Openers are now in use in apartment houses in this city. Experience demonstrates their great practical superiority over the usual kind known as "the Mechanical Door-Opener."

With the Electric Door-Opener, the front door is instantly unlatched by simply pressing an electrical button, placed wherever convenience requires it; and as the connection can be made with any number of buttons, they may be so located that the door may be unlatched from any point on any floor of the largest house with equal ease.

This Electric Door-Opener completely obviates all the well known difficulties and expenses arising from the stretching and repairing of "pull-wires," as the work is perfectly performed by the electric current which passes through stationary wires.

Architects and owners are invited to inspect the operation of this device at our office, or at any of the apartment houses where it is in use. For information, prices, or reference regarding those in use, communications addressed to us will be promptly answered by mail or personal call by our Agents, who will also furnish estimates upon other electrical work of every description.

AUGUST 16, 1884.

The stock market continues dull but strong. The wisest leaders in the street believe in higher prices just as soon as the corn crop is assured, and the conditions exist for a lively time in the fall. Our banks never had so much idle money on hand and gold has begun to come from Europe. We may import thirty millions of the yellow metal before the season is over. Yet it must be confessed that general business has not improved as yet, and there may be a plentiful crop of failures among merchants. However, as there are fully seven billions of railway securities in the country an advance in their price will make many people feel happy and will have a beneficial effect upon a great many industries.

The corn crop upon which so much depends, so far promises well. Here about New York we have had a wet and cool summer; conditions that if they prevailed all over the Union would have put the corn crop in peril; but the August report of the Agricultural Bureau is reassuring on that point. The corn in all points where it is an important crop is in excellent condition, and the poorest report is from Ohio, yet even there it is rated at eighty-six in a possible hundred. A corn crop of 2,000,000,000 bushels, which now seems likely, will give the railroads all they can do after November. True, we do not ship much corn abroad, as it is mainly consumed at home; but as it is carried from one point to another, and being charged local rates in addition to being bulky, it is a more valuable crop for the railroads to carry than even wheat. An untimely September frost may again dash the hopes of the farmers but it is reasonable to expect that Wall street will soon begin to discount the effect of the coming great corn crop.

But let us not deceive ourselves in discussing the future. Even if we have a large corn and cotton crop in addition to our splendid wheat crop, there will still be no assurance of the return of good times. The liquidation that seems to be complete in the stock market has not yet culminated in the business world. The depression in the price of iron tells the story of the as yet dismal outlook in manufacturing circles. We shall want another great crop year as well as better prices to get back to where we were in the summer of 1881. Even then there will be no prospect of any such times as we had in 1879 and 1880. These will not come again until the commercial world abandons the gold unit of value and re-establishes bi-metallism.

The hope that the Asiatic cholera would die out in Southern France will now have to be given up. It is spreading into Italy and into Central and Eastern France, and will undoubtedly make its appearance in Germany and Austria before the close of the year. The season is so far advanced there is no danger of any visitation to this country this year; but in all human probability a centre of infection will be established on our shores by the opening of the summer of 1885. It is for business people to determine what measures they will take to save themselves from loss in a year of pestilence.

And now the Brooklyn Common Council have given permission to a cable company to build an elevated road connecting with the Fulton and South ferries. But surely this is not what is needed. No system of rapid transit in Brooklyn will be satisfactory which does not aim at a connection with the New York elevated roads via the Brooklyn Bridge cars. The end to be kept in view should be the carriage of a passenger from any part of Brooklyn to any part of New York without change of cars and vice versa. A cable road on one side of the river will not fill this bill.

The New York journals persist in predicting disaster from the continued coinage of the silver dollar. All the newspapers which represent the financial leaders of this city, and indeed of all the seaboard cities, unite in declaring that the time must come when we will get on a silver basis, and that some day gold will be quoted at a premium. They do not adduce a solitary fact to prove that position. Three-fifths of the precious metal money of the country is gold. We export more silver than gold. The issue of silver certificates based upon coined dollars has saved us from a ruinous contraction, for they have helped to take the place of $28,000,000 of bank notes withdrawn during the past year. Then the financial history of France is full of instruction. We have but little over $3 per capita in silver, while France has over $14.50, yet gold is not driven out of France but attracted there, and it has more of the yellow metal per capita than any other commercial nation. Were we to keep on coining silver dollars till the beginning of the twentieth century we would not have as much in circulation, relatively, as France has to-day. Our newspapers predict that chaos will come again whenever Secretary Folger complies with the law of the land and pays the indebtedness of the treasury to our Clearing House in silver as well as gold certificates and greenbacks. Yet it is evident that whenever he does this he will help the finances of the country by retaining the gold in the treasury and circulating the representative of the silver dollar. In paying over gold exclusively to the Clearing House he weakens the Treasury reserve, and violates the law in letter and spirit by discriminating between the precious metals.

President Gage, of the Bankers Convention, emphasized a point frequently made in these columns—we need a national bank. He did not say so in so many words but he showed that our system was less elastic than that of Great Britain, because there was no authority to alter the rate of interest or to issue credit notes to relieve the pressure during a crisis. The powers ordinarily lodged in a national bank are divided in this country between the treasury department and the united banks of New York. This division of responsibility and authority is unfortunate. No government official like the Secretary of the Treasury should have the power to make money easy or tight at his volition. Authority of that kind should be vested in a financial board representing the banking interests of the country. President Gage's recommendations as to the proper attitude of the banks in a crisis are all wise and timely. Financial institutions should be in a position to lend and to sustain all solvent interests during a panic. There is a bitter feeling against our national banks because of their attitude to the mercantile community when the May monetary cyclone was under way. If they heed the warnings given at Saratoga, it may help them to recover the confidence of the commercial classes.

Upper Fifth Avenue.

Three houses of very different degrees of architectural merit are now going up opposite the park, between Seventy-fourth and Seventy-fifth streets.

The northernmost of these three is much the most interesting; it is the only one, indeed, which can be said in its present condition to be interesting at all. It is a "double swell front" of some forty or fifty feet wide by three stories and a half high. The swell front is the typical old Boston house, and there are many examples in New York to show that it may be made a very comfortable interior and a very comfortable-looking exterior, with no other merit of design than unpretentiousness. Mr. Harney has reproduced it very agreeably in lower Madison avenue. The dwelling we are now considering, which was designed, we believe, by Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, follows the main lines of the old swell front house, with more architectural elaboration than any old example shows. The materials are red brick and New Jersey sandstone, the latter forming the basement, and introduced as belting in the brickwork through the first story. This belting, together with the placing of the door-way in the centre, recalls the well-known citadel at Cairo, though the resemblance is in these points alone, and is doubtless accidental. There are round arched openings in this story in each of the projecting bays, which are of unequal width, and the failure to mark the impost of these arches gives them the indecisive look which this failure always entails with arches the lines of which melt imperceptibly into the perpendicular lines of the jambs. The two next stories are grouped by string-courses above and below, and each has square-headed openings—two in the wider bay, one in the narrow—with stone jambs and lintels. In the centre the upper window is enriched, the spandrils of its round arch being carved in stone, and opens upon a balcony protected by a pretty railing in wrought iron. In the story above the openings are square holes in the brickwork, moulded and doubled over the single openings below, and between them is a decorative pattern in raised brickwork forming a sort of frieze to the composition. A cornice and balustrade completes the building, architecturally, although it has a roof of a good pitch, only visible from the street in the chimneys which emerge from it.

The detail throughout has an old-fashioned, sober and comfortable character, which enhances the effect of the general design. The house makes no pretensions to picturesqueness, but it looks very livable and respectable. One is glad to note that it has been made no deeper than could be done without sacrificing the thorough lighting of the interior. This could not be done on a single lot. It is indeed a condition of comfort that a house, except a corner house, shall not be more than two rooms deep, which is as much as to say that a house with more than two rooms on the first floor must occupy more than a single lot. The ingenious devices adopted by various architects to overcome this difficulty are not so effectual as the increase of area which leaves no difficulty to be overcome.

Of the next house to this, which has some architectural pretensions, and is evidently to cost money, it would be unfair to speak critically in its present state, which exhibits only a brown stone basement with two openings, one on each side of an oriel window in the centre of the brick wall above. The detail of these features is certainly not promising.

On the northeast corner of Seventy-fourth street is a house virtually complete as to its exterior, which is extremely and even comically bad. The architect would probably describe it as neo-Gothic, and it is one of the numerous buildings which explain a dislike of that style. It is of brick and dark brown stone, with numerous features, and is singularly cheap and shabby for this part of Fifth avenue, with its cornices and dormers in sheet metal. It is overdone with features, and what makes it worst is the attempt to animate the skyline of a mansard roof. One of the chief devices to this effect is a peaked roof over the front, with which the draughtsman may have been enamored when he saw it in his front elevation, without foreseeing that an oblique view would expose its entire irrelevancy to the building. Another is a preposterous steep hood over a projection on the long side which the hood does not cover, but is merely set upon, like a great candle-extinguisher. It has the appearance of having been bought cheap as a misfit.

The southeastern corner of this same street is signalized by a huge unfinished pile of brown stone which has remained in its present condition for months, if not years. The front is concealed by hoardings as if there were something very precious, but from the exposed parts we are unable to believe that there is anything of the kind. In general composition it is a reproduction of the most hopeless brown stone palaces of lower Fifth avenue thirty years ago, when an owner had an unusual amount of money to spend and desired to make proclamation of that fact, but did not employ an architect who could show him how to spend it effectively. He used to cover his house with superfluous features, and fill all the available spaces with carving, without reflecting upon the appropriateness of the features or the quality of the carving. A legible statement of his bank balance hung out on the wall would have served every purpose. Besides, the balance would have been larger. In general composition, we say, this is that kind of a house, the fronts packed as full of pilasters and things as they will go, and none of them having any structural meaning or decorative effect. The carving, however, which is inordinately profuse, is mechanically very well done, and in design is carefully modelled, apparently from nature. The trouble with it is that it has no architectural fitness and so does not constitute artistic detail.

Hereditary Descent in Business.

The famous banking house of Coutts & Co. has just been reorganized in London. It is said to date back to the time of Queen Anne. One of the members of the firm married an actress, and subsequently succeeded to the dukedom of St. Albans. Queen Victoria's fortune is entrusted to this great banking firm. There are similar establishments in England, and a few in this country, where the credit of a banking house has lasted for several generations. In this connection the history of the Rothschilds and the Barings is recalled. But the bankers alone seemed to have learned the secret of hereditary ability to transact a certain kind of business. There are doubtless many firms of bankers in our leading cities whose credit will be as good at the beginning of the twentieth century as it is at the close of the nineteenth. But is it possible to transmit or preserve those qualities in any other kind of business? The Lelands have been famous as hotel keepers in the United States for fully two generations. Will the third be equally fortunate? Our two leading book-publishing firms give promise of being continued. The second and even the third generation of the Harpers are successfully managing the various enterprises of that firm. All the original members of the firm of Appleton Brothers have not yet passed away, but the business of that great establishment is understood to be controlled by their sons, nephews and grandsons. In both of these houses it is stated that unworthy or unfit relatives have been excluded from active participation in the business.

In politics families have so far not counted for much in our history. True, John Adams, and his son, John Quincy Adams, were both Presidents, and the next two succeeding generations would have supplied creditable candidates for that office, if family names had much hold on the American people. The Washburne brothers all achieved distinction in politics. They were members of Congress and governors of the State in which they settled, but so far none of the next generation have been heard of.

Owners of large estates have given us families which have lasted for generations. Of these the Astors are the most notable. The present generation seems to show quite as much business ability as the founder of that house. The names of other families which have held possession of real estate for long periods of time are so numerous that they need not be recalled here.

Vast fortunes based on personal property are of such modern growth that it is difficult to say whether the needed ability can be transmitted from father to son. William H. Vanderbilt is not regarded as a very acute operator, yet he has not only been able to retain his inherited wealth, but has even added to it largely. His son, Cornelius, is reputed to be the ablest of the third generation, and if he survives his father will undoubtedly largely increase the holdings of the Vanderbilt estate, for he is honest and wise as well as prudent.

George Gould is said to inherit much of the ability of his father, Jay Gould, but his capacity cannot be tested until the father leaves the scene of action. Wall street fortunes are generally evanescent. Nearly all the great operators of the past have seen their fortunes disappear where they were made.

But undoubtedly attempts will be made to continue fortunes in families, and the experiment will be tried in all manners of business. But it will be found in the future, as in the past, that the owner of real estate will be better able to transmit his possessions than the banker, merchant, manufacturer or speculator.

Will Alabama Replace Pennsylvania?

1. Of the seven hundred and three furnaces in the United States only two hundred and seventy-nine were in blast on July 1.

2. Nearly all the four hundred and twenty-four furnaces out of blast are situated in the North, while none of those in Alabama have been forced to stop.

3. Bradstreet's publishes extracts from the books of Leslie Warner, who has an office in this city, showing shipments of Alabama iron to factories in Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Boston, Massachusetts, Delaware, Ohio, Rhode Island, Michigan, and in fact to iron manufacturers in every State where they exist.

4. These facts would seem to prove that pig iron can be produced cheaper in Alabama than in Pennsylvania, and would indicate that the great iron region of the country will hereafter be in the Southwest.

5. If this is so we may expect a vast increase in the manufacturing activity of the South and a great addition in her wealth. The manufacture of coarse cottons has been transferred from New England to the Southern States. Should the iron industry follow we may look for a marvellous revival of business at the South, and a social as well as industrial revolution among its people.

The people of New England, Pennsylvania and New York will not be permanently injured by this transfer of the industries they formerly monopolized to the South. Other manufactures than those of cotton and iron will be prosecuted. The people of the North and East are wealthy, ingenious and enterprising, and will discover new ways of making money, but it is not likely that they will be so wedded to prectionist theories if they benefit a section of the country which is their rival in occupations of which they formerly had a monopoly.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I don't know whether you are in the habit of answering questions or not, but would like to know what works there are explaining the causes which make values differ in real estate in cities. Also, if there are any which give a history of prices in this city. A SUBSCRIBER.

NEW YORK, August 11, 1884, 359 West 92d street.

The only history of prices is the official record of the transfers of real estate, such as is to be found in the columns of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. Political economists have given explanations as to why certain portions of the earth's surface have a greater value than other portions, but even they do not agree. There is room for a work summarizing the experiences of real estate owners and dealers on the subject of values in real estate. This is a far more complex matter than is generally understood. A wise judgment in purchasing is rare. Accident, of course, plays its part in determining values; but, after all, the reason why some men are rich through their real estate investments, while very many make no money at all, is due to the mastery by the former of the principles or causes which effect real estate values. In the absence of an authoritative work on this subject there is nothing better than a file of THE RECORD AND GUIDE since its existence.

The most offensive trade union in this country is the New York Stock Exchange. Every regulation in the trades unions which is decried as arbitrary and against business equity has been incorporated into the by-laws of the Stock Exchange. Brokers are forced to charge an arbitrary commission irrespective of the business they do, and to exact 6 per cent. for the use of borrowed money from their clients, even though the money costs them only 1½ or 2 per cent. Members are expelled and lose valuable seats if they exercise their own judgment in dealing with their customers irrespective of the rules of the Exchange. The Gold and Stock Telegraph Company is forbidden to furnish prices to any rival exchange. A desire has frequently been expressed to adopt the French and English plan of making ten-share lots the unit of delivery. This would kill the bucket-shops and give small investors an even chance with large operators. The Petroleum Exchange is about to attempt to break the monopoly of the Stock Exchange. It will deal in ten-share lots, and its brokers will have the privilege of making their own bargains with customers both as to commissions and the rate of interest for carrying stocks. The great stock trade union has opened the war by cutting of facilities for getting quotations. This is a monstrous thing to do and their action cannot be legal. It is to be hoped the Petroleum Exchange will contest the matter in the courts and break down this odious monopoly.

Our Prophetic Department.

OBSERVER—As politics are dull and business presents no new features why not discuss some new topic? You have supposed that the completion of the Panama Canal would probably be the turning point which would force the United States to adopt a more aggressive foreign policy. But is there no Asiatic power or powers to be considered, in addition to the great nations of modern Europe?

SIR ORACLE—You have touched upon a point now which I have long wished to discuss. The Pacific is a vaster ocean than the Atlantic and I have no doubt but that in the distant future there will be at least three powers greater than any European powers now existing, which will contest the supremacy of the vast body of water which lies between America and Asia and extends from the south to the north pole.

OBSERVER—You said three nations. Surely there are more than that which are populous and have great commercial possibilities. I now recall the United States, Russia, China, Japan, Hindostan, and, should they ever be severed from Great Britain, the colonies of the latter in the Southern Pacific and Indian Oceans. Of course Chili, or any of the South American nations, will never be in a condition to become great naval powers.

SIR O.—When I spoke of three powers to contest the primacy in the Pacific Ocean, I had not in mind either China, Japan, Hindostan or Chili. The great nations of the future in my view will be the United States, Russia and a confederacy of the English speaking peoples in the Southern Pacific. I judge that Australia and New Zealand, with the other English colonies, will in time form a mighty maritime power, which will, I think, make itself master of the commerce of the Pacific.

OBSERVER—What, a possible greater naval power in the Pacific than the United States? How can you think so?

SIR O.—The United States has no naval ambition. With Great Britain, France and Germany straining every nerve to extend their possessions and commerce in every part of the globe, our government steadily refuses to aid our shipping interests or even to defend our own shores. Mr. Lincoln purchased Russian America, it is true, but his desire to secure St. Thomas was defeated by the Senate. Grant, when President, came to grief in endeavoring to purchase Samana Bay as a naval station for our fleet. Cuba commands our whole southern coast and the mouth of the Mississippi, but were an American candidate for the presidency to favor the annexation of that island, he would be defeated by an overwhelming vote. While absolutely dependent upon selling our agricultural products to the rest of the world, as a nation we are determined not to have a merchant marine or a navy.

OBSERVER—What makes you think that the English colonies, composed of the same race substantially which occupies this country, will care to be a naval power any more than does the United States?

SIR O.—The temper of that inchoate nation is the very opposite of that of the United States. It is eager to extend its commerce. The government of New South Wales subsidizes its steamship lines. It even pays a subsidy to the American Pacific Mail Steamship Line for carrying American letters. Our Congress has blackmailed the only steamship line which carries its flag. That is, it has forced it to carry letters for less than cost.

OBSERVER—Has anything occurred recently to call your attention to the growing maritime position of the South Pacific colonies?

SIR O.—Yes, a very significant event. Some time since, at a convention held by delegates representing the different local governments, a demand was made upon the home government to annex New Guinea. Lord Derby, representing the Gladstone government, very curtly declined, saying that her majesty's government had enough to look after. This answer was received with indignation by the colonists, and the colonial minister was very promptly informed that the island must be annexed, or very serious consequences would follow. Gladstone's cabinet then yielded, and it is now considered certain that the policy of annexation will be steadily pursued, and that even Borneo is in danger of being annexed to the British crown. It is clear that the governments of New South Wales and New Zealand will continue as they have begun, expanding their commerce and influence, extending their territory from island to island, until finally they will be in a position to sever their connection with Great Britain and claim the sovereignty of the mighty oceans in which their possessions lie. Russia's power and fleet on the Pacific is steadily growing. She is encroaching upon China, extending her commerce to the south and east, and it is inevitable that some time or other the three powers I have indicated will join issue as to which shall be supreme in the oceans which lave the shores of Africa, Asia and North and South America.

OBSERVER.—I apprehend that contest will not come in our time; not until long after we have passed away. But the contrast you make between the naval ambition of the Southern Pacific colonies and the want of it in the United States is worthy of observation.

An Electric Underground Railway for Broadway.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

SIR—All real estate owners in the city of New York are interested in having the usefulness and beauty of Broadway restored, and fortunately the progress of mechanical and electrical science has rendered this not only possible but profitable to do.

The beauty of Broadway is the one surviving indigenous tradition, and an occasional citizen is found, who, familiar with that tradition, fails to comprehend how nearly complete is its destruction. Its walks, which should be unobstructed, even and clean, are occupied and disfigured by poles of all sizes, shapes and materials, bearing aloft wires and cables in grotesque festoons and bewildering confusion. Its roadway, which should be even, clean and noiseless, is broken, dirty and resounding. Sustained conversation upon the street is impossible, and in the rooms adjoining difficult.

Projects for elevated, cable and surface roads are now under consideration, and it is quite time that the citizens took the preservation, restoration and perfecting of Broadway in hand.

Fortunately the problem is now an easy one. The investigation of the committee on underground wires has shown how that difficulty may be met. The perfecting of soft steel manufacture has placed an infinitely strong and tough material in hand for an underground railway tunnel, and indestructible, non-resonant railway carriages. The uses of electricity are so far developed that it supplies the motive power for transit, while working with automatic precision the necessary switches and signals, and illuminating subterranean tunnels, stations and cars as perfectly as the light of day.

The elimination of sulphurous gas, carbonic acid, dust, cinders, ash and steam from the tunnels makes complete ventilation easy of accomplishment, and the minute-headway of trains of approximate cross section, after the fashion of a loose piston in an open cylinder, furnishes perfect ventilation. The roadway overhead is composed of a surface of concrete upon a layer of Trinidad asphalt, overlaying the steel buckle-plates which rest on iron beams and form the roof of the tunnel and the foundation of the roadway. Over all is placed a carpet of wood blocks, thoroughly creosoted and set in asphalt to take the wear and muffle the sound. The pipes, wires, sewers and water are placed in galleries by the curb line, and access furnished by doors at the railway stations.

Here is the permanent, noiseless, clean, unobstructed "scientific street," with its surface capacity fully restored and a rapid transit capacity under the roadway more than equal to the four existing elevated structures combined. Agreeable, silent, swift and freer from possibility of accident than any method of travel yet inherited or devised.

115 Broadway. ROWLAND R. HAZARD.

Owners of property in Yonkers have a strong cause for complaint against the assessors. Farm lands within the city limits are taxed at city rates and valued out of all proportion to the uses which can be made of them, and much higher than similar property in adjoining towns. The result is that within the past five years parcels of property valued by the assessors at $15,300, $7,650 and $30,810 were sold for $8,000, $3,500 and $4,000 respectively. The latter, though subject to arrears in taxes of over $2,000 at the time of sale, is a very flagrant instance of the unfairness of the assessment. That a piece of property which only brought $6,000 should be valued at $30,000 seems a gross piece of injustice. It virtually amounts to a partial confiscation. Some six years ago a number of highly respected property owners in Yonkers addressed a petition to the assessors to cause a re-valuation to be made based on the worth of the land and not upon the prospective and fictitious values placed upon it in the speculative era of the past, but this request was not complied with. A powerful organization is soon to be effected with the object of creating a change in this state of things, and we doubt not but that it will result in remedying an abuse which would not be tolerated in this city. In any event, the property owners should see to it that no future assessor shall enter office without being pledged to a re-assessment of realty in Yonkers at its present value, and not upon the inequitable basis which has existed for so many years.

The bricklayers' strike drags its slow length along. It will probably continue until the days become so short as to put an end to the contest naturally. It seems very foolish for the men to remain idle and accept $2 a day rather than stay at work and receive $4. They have done much injury by alarming capitalists, and thereby reducing the number of contracts for new buildings, and in addition have worse than wasted their money. There does not seem to be any compensation for this very useless strike.

Home Decorative Notes.

—For libraries are low book cases of mahogany or of dark oak made very plainly with bevelled glass doors and flat tops for pottery and bronzes; for rooms that serve both as library and sitting-room there are book cases and cabinets combined, with the upper part enclosed with glass for ornamental china while the shelves for books are left open or else pretty little curtains of India silk or chintz gathered on a brass rod are drawn across them to protect the books from sun and dust.

—English sideboards richly carved and with glass doors of irregular panes in Chippendale design are chosen.

—Colored glass globes soften the light and have a very pretty effect.

—Embroidered bed spreads and round bolsters are quite indispensable in an artistic chamber; some of these spreads are very sumptuous and expensive, both in material and decoration; satin sheeting and serge are the fabrics most used; one of the most luxurious spreads is of olive plush, covered with a bold conventional design in which the chief outlines are traced in heavy filoselle conchings of different tints of olive; the flowers which nearly approach to yellow have the petals in solid stitches, and the outer edge in heavy conchings.

—Thermometer panels of plush are made, while sprays of apple blossoms and other floral designs are painted or embroidered in the corners.

—Coverings of oil silk are made for the finest furniture.

—Many of the latest screens have a frieze of netted cord with ravelled ends.

—An elaborate brass lamp is mounted on a tall leg of a stork and above is an opened crimson satin parasol trimmed with white lace and ornamented with bouquets of lilies, the edge finished with a flounce of white lace and wide chenille.

—Embroidered aprons are very fashionable for home wear in the morning, they are made of black satin, colored satin, pongee or Bolton sheeting, and are decorated as the material suggests, silk, wool or crewel in contrast, a black satin apron has large showy sprays of yellow jessamine with dark green foliage, the waist-band and bows are of yellow satin ribbon; another very pretty style is of pure white pongee worked with knots of violets and tied with satin ribbons of a tender shade to match.

—Chamois is a new material for embroidery, it is used in covers of portfolios, cigar cases and blotting books and is suitable for many small conveniences pertaining to masculine tastes.

—Some very artistically hand-painted lamp shades of glass and porcelain are shown.

—Amongst the prettiest of humble flowers for the decoration of rooms is the common buttercup, the golden flowers have the advantage of enduring and looking perfectly fresh for a week or more, it may be often noticed how the stems lengthen, thus giving the appearance of buttercups really growing in water.

—A very delicate tea-cloth is decorated with the pansy crackle design, the veinings are of pale violet silk, and at the intersections are pansies in deep violet silk.

—The most delicate designs are carried out in gold thread conchings on silk and satin for sofa pillows and smaller pieces of embroidery, it may be mentioned how graceful a ribbon is made to look with a spray in gold on the end, waste paper baskets of flat straw burnished in different metallic tints, are tied about with ribbon, one of whose ends has some such simple adornment.

—Piano backs are draped with richly embroidered plush hangings.

—Creases in engravings may be removed by laying the paper face downward upon a sheet of smooth unsized white paper, covering it with another sheet of the same, slightly dampened, and then iron with a warm flat iron.

—Butterflies and birds are now embroidered in Russian and cross stitch on canton flannel for bed-spreads and shams.

—For halls furnished in French style hammered brass is used for the hat-stand, which may be merely a hanging frame for a bevelled mirror, or else it may be standing with brass balls for feet, slender standards and ornamental frames with hooks for top coats and hats.

—Bay windows form a very attractive feature to any room, helping to correct the monotony of a rectangular or square shape, and at the same time forming a pleasant nook for work or recreation.

—Rocking chairs and arm chairs of our grandfathers days are closely imitated by modern furniture dealers in rosewood and mahogany, they are not luxurious objects, but very strong and apparently light, the backs are formed of a dozen or more slender rods strengthened by two other rods that are set into a log of wood behind the seat, the upper ends of all fitting into the top piece, the seats are ingeniously hollowed and no upholstery is allowed.

—An extremely delicate and lovely bureau set has for a foundation light blue pongee, decorated with strawberry vines, leaves, flowers and fruit, wrought in solid embroidery in natural colors.

—Japanese leather ornamented with impossible flies and reptiles is a novelty for writing cases, pocket-books, card cases, etc.

—Marquetry as a means of decorating furniture has been out of favor for some time back, but there are signs of a revival in the near future.

—Mosaic patch-work of silk and satin has been made to assume a more artistic guise than was ever dreamed of by our grandmothers; the colors are well chosen and patched together in patterns imitating stained glass, then overwrought with gold thread or silk embroidery. In this way some very rich window shades have been made, baffling investigation except at close quarters. For the window of a hall or reception-room, whence it is desired to exclude an unattractive rear view, this is a very good device.

The New Wooden Pavement.

The problem of noiseless and durable street pavements which has been so difficult to solve in New York has been successfully grappled with in London and Paris. In the former city it is possible to travel from London Bridge to Hammersmith, a distance of seven miles, without driving over stone, the entire route being laid out with wooden pavements. The old macadamized roads which were at first so popular in England were found to work unsatisfactorily. The Nicholson pavement in this country, once equally popular, also proved a failure. The Paris correspondent of the Evening Post recently gave a description of the new wooden pavement adopted by the municipality of that city, which is the same system as that now being laid down by the Kerr Paving Company on the Beaver street front of the Produce Exchange. The process here adopted is as follows: A layer of six inches of concrete is placed upon the earth. This is made smooth and practically forms an arch of granite from one side of the street to the other. On this small blocks of wood are laid, 3x6x9, about half an inch apart. Boiling asphalt is then poured into the interstices, which holds the blocks securely together. Then the joints are filled with cement grouting, containing one part of cement to four parts of sand. Over all a covering of small gravel is thrown, which gets into the wood, thus making as it were an upper protection. When the first traffic has gone over it, the pavement is perfectly smooth, strong and almost noiseless. The foreman in charge of the work on Beaver street, who superintended a great deal of this work in London, states that on Ludgate Hill, where there is a deep incline and over which there is a heavy and crowded traffic, the wood pavement lasted seven years and was only recently relaid. This was done at a small cost, the wood simply being stripped off and new timber being put down, the original cement foundation being, of course, quite intact. This pavement deadened the roar of the traffic and had the advantage of being lasting, and in the long run, both for scavenging and durability, was by far the most economical. The failure of the Nicholson wood pavement was owing to the fact that it had no foundation of cement. Boards were laid on sand, and the blocks were secured to the boards by asphalt. The moisture thus easily soaked through the wood from below and percolated through the interstices from above, and so rotted the wood and made the pavement useless. This of course could not happen with a cement foundation 6 inches in depth and by the process adopted described above. The new wooden pavement has been laid on Fifth avenue, from Thirty-second to Thirty-third street, and a ride over it in the stage coach seems to establish its noiselessness and desirability as compared with the stone pavement.

Silver at Saratoga.

As The Record and Guide is almost alone among the papers of this city in advocating bi-metallism it is with peculiar satisfaction that we reproduce the following from the able address of Hon. Hugh McCullogh at the Saratoga Banker's Convention:

Until 1879, when it became my duty to give the subject a more careful examination than I had done, I was a mono-metallist, since then I have been a bi-metallist, and I have by observation and reflection become stronger and stronger in my new faith. Alexander Hamilton was right when he said in his masterly report in 1792: "Upon the whole it seems to be most desirable not to attach the unit to either metal, because this cannot be done without effectually destroying the character of one of them as money, and so reduce it to the character of mere merchandise. To annul the use of either of the metals as money is to abridge the quantity of circulating medium, and is liable to all the objections which arise from the comparison of the benefits of a full with the evils of a scanty circulation." The world is not and probably never will be, in a condition to dispense with the use of either gold or silver as a standard of value and a circulating medium. Both are indispensable, and neither can be reduced in comparative value by artificial means below the other without prejudice to local and international trade, nor without increasing the burden of debts by decreasing the amount of metallic money (which is the only real money of the world) in circulation. As every dollar of gold and silver in existence has cost in labor and machinery more than its standard value, neither can be depreciated except by artificial means. Silver coin is now depreciated in comparison with gold, not by natural causes, but by the action of European nations. A few years ago gold, by the large productions of the United States and Australia, was depreciated in comparative value with silver. This being the result of natural causes the difference in the value of the two metals was of short duration. National law speedily adjusted the difference which natural causes had produced. The existing depreciation of silver is not the result of the large production of the silver mines, but of the action of Germany in demonetizing it and the restriction of its coinage by the Latin nations. Had not these causes been at work the depreciation of silver, which is now disturbing the financial condition of the world, would not have occurred. The Congress of the United States acted wisely in monetizing silver. The only mistake it then made was in not adopting the French standard.

The significance of the last remark will be understood when it is remembered that the French silver coin equivalent to our silver dollar contains three per cent. less silver.

John Thomson made the following remarks on a topic about which all our papers have been generally wrong:

Again the silver dollar question is agitated, and again the prediction is advanced that gold will soon be at a premium. I do not apprehend such a result until the foreign trade balance runs heavily against us. Should imports exceed exports, and the United States treasury continue to make all its disbursements on the gold basis, ignoring silver, except holding it on storage, then gold may be driven into the category of merchandise and be withdrawn from circulation. Premium gold rests on these conditions. Fortunately, the foreign trade balance is in our favor, with good promise for a year and more. Unfortunately the treasury and the banks continue to discriminate against the currency that is based on silver (silver certificates), and most unfortunately Congress neglected to authorize an issue of silver certificates in one, two and five dollar denominations. The French government finds no difficulty in holding silver and gold on a par with each other, because they are treated alike by the treasury, by the bank and by the people. There is no discrimination, hence the gold and silver reserve in the Bank of France is about equal in amount and fluctuates very little. The French people hold the silver in coin or in Bank of France notes, and the gold is left in the Bank of France for foreign trade purposes. With us, unfortunately, there are parties, politicians and papers constantly endeavoring to perjudice the people against the silver dollar currency by asserting the fact that a silver dollar is not a dollar in the bullion market as compared with a gold dollar. Theoretically they are right, but practically both dollars are the same. They are equal in payment of debt; equal in purchasing property; equal at the Custom House, tax office, and at bank; equal everywhere except in theory and in foreign trade. In France, the difference between gold and silver coin is greater than with us, and as yet we have a larger per cent. of gold than they. Let the treasury and the banks stop discrimination and it will be a long time before gold will be merchandise and disappear as money. The commerce of the world and the dealings between man and man can only be carried on with both precious metals. Turn either into merchandise and let values and the credit system rest on the other, then disaster and distress would follow.

John Russell Young, the American Minister to China, will practically be the arbiter between that country and France, should the two governments agree to let the United States decide the points at issue between them. Young is a very remarkable person. From being a copy-holder in the proof room of the Philadelphia Press he became the managing editor of the New York Tribune within a few years. He is a writer of great fluency and brilliancy, but he did not prove much of a manager, as he excited unnecessary antagonism, was over-ambitious and lacked conscience. He did not scruple to appropriate the Associated Press news for a paper of his own in Philadelphia. This lost him his place on the Tribune, whereupon he entered into the service of the Herald, and would have been managing editor of this paper were it not that Mr. Bennett tolerates no able man in that position. The theory of the Herald is to have no personality known to the outside world save James Gordon Bennett. Young owes his appointment as minister to General Grant, with whom he traveled round the world. He may make as good a diplomatist as he did a working journalist. He is adroit, able and not over scrupulous. He can be all things to all men, but would not succeed in politics, as he could not inspire personal confidence. Should he be the mediator between China and France, he would try to get the best of both powers and would please neither. He was not the kind of minister to send to a nation with which we should be on the best of terms. The United States should be represented by a wise, prudent and trust-inspiring statesman. John Russell Young does not fill that bill.

Contractors' Notes.

Bids will be received by Inspector of Buildings Esterbrook at 155 Mercer street until September 1st at 10 o'clock, for placing fire escapes on building No. 67 Forsyth street, front and rear, owned by James B. Brady, as ordered by Judge Barrett of the Supreme Court.

Bids will be received by the Commissioners of Public Parks, at 36 Union Square, until Thursday, August 21st, at 10 o'clock, for erecting a carriage shed at Mount St. Vincent, Central Park, and a ladies' cottage at Central Park, also for regulating, grading, paving, constructing sewers and laying crosswalks.

Real Estate Department.

This has been the dullest week of the year so far, both on 'Change and in the brokers' offices, nor will matters mend before September. The Conveyances still make a good showing as compared with last year, but much of this is due to the numerous deeds recorded by the purchasers at the Deane sale. These are numerous because in some instances each transfer required three deeds, hence the Conveyances make a better showing than the number of transactions warrant. Twenty-four of the 154 conveyances recorded during the week convey or release property in which John H. Deane had an interest.

The dealers in town speak hopefully of the fall season. It is known that some valuable properties will come upon the market. Brokers argue that if with a depressed stock market they had so good a season last spring, what may not be expected with a better feeling in Wall street, with gold coming from Europe and large sums of money lying idle in bank. It is believed that in the race for the favor of investors real estate will have the advantage of the securities market.

Mr. C. W. Luyster, the well-known builder, returned to town on Thursday from a Western tour. At Chicago and other points he found business quite active and business men in the building trade very confident. Here in New York, Mr. Luyster says, he finds trade very dull and many people over-anxious about the future.

Many of the brokers and builders report that during the week there has been considerable inquiry for houses, and one builder's time was so occupied showing his houses the other day that he had to forego his usual noonday meal.

The recorded transfers of last week again show an improvement over last year, both in numbers and amount of consideration. The Mortgages are also heavier. It will be noticed that the great corporations are lending freely at 5 per cent., which is quite natural in view of the large sums seeking investment. Here is the table:

Out Among the Builders.

W. H. Hume has the preliminary designs on the boards for a large addition to the building of the St. Vincent de Paul Orphan Asylum on Thirty-ninth street and Seventh avenue. The new structure will have a frontage of 62½ feet and a depth of 80. It will be four stories and basement high, the material being of Philadelphia brick with stone trimmings. The cost has not yet been estimated.

Messrs. Heywood Brothers, of the Rattan Furniture Co., intend to erect a two-story addition, 50x100, to their warehouse at Nos. 201 and 203 Cherry street, at a probable cost of $10,000. The plans are being drawn by Albert Wagner. The same architect has the designs for alterations to the Albemarle Hotel and for an extension to the residence of Chas. Gulden, on Eighty-third street, near Park avenue.

A five-story tenement and store will be erected by Messrs. O'Gorman & Wien, on the east side of Eleventh avenue, 49.5 north of Thirty-seventh street.

The excavations for the first crematory erected in the United States will be commenced next week. It will be situated at Newtown, between the Mount Olivet and Lutheran Cemeteries. The front will be of marble and the sides of Philadelphia brick, the dimension being 40x74. The structure will contain a crematory, sollicularium, calibarium, refrigidarium and other accessories. The architects selected in competition with three others, are Messrs. Cleverdon & Putzel. The cost has not yet been estimated. The building will be erected by the United States Crematory Company, Dr. Felix Adler, it will be remembered, being one of the principal promoters.

Thomas J. O'Kane will shortly commence the erection of five three-story and basement brick and brown stone private houses, 18.6x46 each, on One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street, between Willis and Brook avenues. Architect, J. H. Valentine.

Trinity Cemetery is having an additional 150 feet added to the ornamental enclosing fence of granite and iron on the One Hundred and Fifty-third street front. The plans are being drawn by Vaux & Radford.

Lederle & Co. have the plans for a two-story attic and basement brick dwelling, 44x46, to be built on Harrison street, Stapleton, S. I., for Philip Wolff.

Brooklyn.

Captain William Tumbridge intends to erect a seven-story apartment house on the northeast corner of Hicks and Pineapple streets. It will contain an elevator and steam heat, and be mainly fire-proof. The dimension will be 25x100, and the cost $70,000. The material will be of Philadelphia brick, with brown stone and terra cotta trimmings, and accommodation will be provided for two families per floor. The building will be done by day's work. Architect Augustus Hatfield, of New York, is now engaged on the plans.

Lederle & Co. have the plans for a four-story brick and stone tenement and saloon, first story fire-proof, size 22x65, to be erected on Broadway, Williamsburg, for Otto Huber, brewer, at a cost of $16,000.

Special Notices.

The Fifty-third Annual Exhibition of the American Institute will open on September 24th. Inventors and manufacturers intending to exhibit should make early application, so as to secure proper space and classification. Heavy machinery will be received August 27th, and other goods September 15th. Blanks and other information can be obtained from the general superintendent at the Institute.

A sample can of either light or dark wood filler will be sent free on application. It will not change the natural color of the woods and is guaranteed a superior article as a filler and surfacer. The manufacturers are Billings, Taylor & Co., 16 Platt street, New York City.

Mr. T. Judson Kilpatrick, real estate broker, has just opened an office at the "Hoffman Arms," on the corner of Madison avenue and Fifty-ninth street. This gentleman is the son of one of the oldest builders in the city. His manager, Mr. Wm. L. Genin, was for several years with Mr. F. Zittel at his Madison avenue branch office. Mr. Kilpatrick invites a call from his real estate friends.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The most noticeable feature on the market for Common Hards is the absence of anything in the way of fresh or interesting items. Operators generally appear to report about the same features and characteristics as for a couple of weeks past, and on the average we do not discover that it is worth while to make much if any change in the line of quotations. There is some difference in the figures mentioned by operators, the variation amounting to as much as 25c. per M in a few instances, and mostly in buyers' favor, but as extremes are mostly for exceptional parcels it appears best to adopt a conservative rate. During the greater portion of the week the supply has continued full, and while receivers manage to keep a good proportion in motion, they did so only through careful management and a constant watch for every customer willing to handle cargoes. There has been no noticeable increase in the consumptive demand, as few if any contractors have submitted to the terms of the bricklayers. About all the small jobs have been kept moving along and so has work on the larger buildings, but some of the latter have now come up above the large foundation piers, etc., and are using brick in the side walls only. Dealers, however, have again offered a place for considerable stock, and though careful in selection and as a rule wanting only the best cargoes, are strong enough to about exhaust the surplus over builders' wants. Recent shipments from points of supply have been slightly curtailed through the absence of desirable transportation facilities, but we are told that manufacturers all continue at work, and in some instances are commencing to closely fill up storage room. As yet no signs of shutting down on productions are given and doubts are expressed about the recent agreement upon that subject proving as effectual as hoped for. Pale Brick are without any certain market, and there is the usual decided variation in price according to the momentary influences under which sales are made.

GLASS.—The general demand does not appear to be very active at the moment, and some dealers are evidently rather disappointed over the volume of trade. The selling interest, however, retains the advantage in view of the scant offering of domestic and the reduced and broken assortment of foreign stock, with reports of probable small additions for some little time to come. Full former figures are quoted all around and sellers are comparatively indifferent operators, except upon a direct and possible call for goods.

HARDWARE.—The inquiry continues to show more or less of the old cautious form, but is rather increasing, and business has a promising appearance in many respects. Manufacturers, agents and dealers all appear to be hopeful, and the reports coming in from travelers bring substantial records of their labors in the form of many good-sized orders. Local consumption is also fair, especially in the way of builders' hardware, and larger quantities will undoubtedly be wanted as fall approaches. The outlet is very well met, but without shading on cost, and no new list changes are made public.

LATH.—The business of the past week has been fair and was conducted without much variation in the line of values. At one time appearances were rather soft, but not enough so for buyers to gain a positive shading on cost, and as we write $2.15 appears to be an inside rate again and strong evidences that good stock would bring at least 5c. more if here. Local wants continue full enough to exhaust a pretty large quantity of stock, and receivers tell us they are commencing to find a greater number of inquiries from out-of-town customers, "up the river," Jersey, etc., and without balancing advices of supplies to come forward.

LIME.—The market has had a more business-like appearance, owing to somewhat increased arrivals. Against these was found a waiting demand, and receivers experienced no difficulty in placing about all the stock and obtaining full former rates. Shipments have been resumed at the Eastward, but under such restrictions, it is thought, as will prevent an over supply.

CEMENT.—The market for domestic continues only moderately active and without much strength, though no further shading of a positive character. Best grades of Rosendale are not maintained above $1.00 per bbl., steadily or otherwise. Just about as good can be bought for 5@10c. less, and so-called inferior stock can unquestionably be obtained at a much lower figure. Foreign Portland remains in the same steady position it has occupied for weeks past, and all the leading brands of stock are closely sold up, but there has been no recent influence either here or abroad to create additional firmness.

LUMBER.—Business in all descriptions of lumber continues of very erratic character, and the general market has an unsatisfactory tone. Occasional demand appears quite promising, but just about the time sellers are ready to build up a little hope customers disappear, and matters lapse into the old, dull and stupid condition. Investment, in fact, is rarely a matter of choice, but simply stimulated by the most imperative necessity, and if buyers step beyond the latter bounds they are attracted by what appears to be remarkably low figures on positively standard qualities. Reports of contemplated cutting off of production, light shipments and a refusal of manufacturers to accept lower rates continue to be dished up in the usual variety, but without attempting to deny any of those chances, and even admitting them to be generally well founded, buyers do not allow themselves to become at all alarmed or hurried, and have to be met upon an easy basis. Stocks in dealers' hands appear to be growing rather than diminishing, and in a general way the assortment will admit of any ordinary selection, and consumers are promptly served on all new calls and find no delay in the tenders on contracts.

Eastern Spruce finds a market offering but little encouragement to sellers. There is considerable effort made to give matters a prominent outlook, so much so in some cases as to defeat the object in view through the very absurdity of the statements made, but most receivers candidly admit that for the present they labor under a disadvantage and have no very clear idea of the time when positive relief may be calculated upon. Since the heavy amounts added to dealers' stock through the receipts commencing about the middle of last month, it has required only a very few cargoes to form a surplus and, until customers have reduced and broken their assortments, it will be useless to look for any revival of natural demand. Some specials came under consideration, but upon these as well as randoms the rate must be very low from the outlet to insure successful negotiations. The current line of valuation as named differs little from last week but quotations just now are of very nominal form, and we have intimations that within the past thirty days stock has gone into yard at a figure very much under anything publicly admitted. The line of quotations currently named ranges from $11 up to $14 or possibly $14.50 for random and thence up to $16@16.50 for specials.

White Pine has gone out on shipping orders to a sufficient extent to reduce the immediately available supply of some dealers, but not enough to admit of general idea of scarcity. Indeed a much larger outlet could easily be met and is wanted on a basis of about old cost. It may be fair to call the position steady at the late decline, but claims for a stronger tone are not at the moment well supported. From primary sources the advices continue more or less unsettled but as a rule the indications are tame for all except the best stock. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do.

Yellow Pine is again "just about to be cut down in production," and "manufacturers determined to stand out for better terms," etc., etc., with usual variations. Buyers, however, do not appear to care much what manufacturers intend doing, and most receivers, after so many previous disappointments over similar reports, are in no way sanguine. About the only demand is a little export call here, and now and then a special, but the latter are apt to show such exacting requirements that most manufacturers are afraid to touch it. Manufacturers at the South are still cutting a large amount of stuff as an absolute necessity, for it is generally conceded that unless such a course is adhered to and production I allowed to cease, a positive abandonment of the plant would be the sure result at a great many of the mills. The output is being sold wherever it can be placed, and the foreign markets have been most favorable for some time. West India orders are now less plenty but free sale have of late been made for South America, about all to east coast points. Shippers, however, are becoming more careful in regard to the latter trade, in view of the fear that the heavy amounts forwarded may have a tendency to break down the foreign markets. The European trade is understood to be moderate. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19.50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $20@22; Dry, do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $13@15 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $12@14 for rough, and $20@21 for dressed.

Hardwoods of choice quality scarce and wanted at full rates, but poor grade plenty and difficult to place even on easy terms. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M.; ash, $33@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

Shingles plenty enough for the light current demand, and holders generally willing to accept about old rates on all grades. A little stock continues to be taken for export. We quote Cypress at $8.00@8.50 per M. for 5x20 and $11.00@12.00 do. for 6x20 regularly assorted shipping. Pine shipping stock $2.00@2.50 for 18 inch, and Eastern saw grades at $2.00@2.50 for 16 inch, as to quality and to quantity. Eastern shaved cedar $4.00@4.50 per M. Machine dressed cedar shingles quoted as follows: for 30 inch, $15.00@20.00 for A, and $23@28.50 for No. 1; for 24 inch, $13.00@15 for A and $18.50@20.50 for No. 1; for 20 inch, $8@9.50 for A and $11.00@12.50 for No. 1.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending August 12 as follows:

The ordinary trade for this season of the year was realized during the week with a fair attendance of buyers. The stock on the yards is good and well assorted, so that all kinds and qualities can be readily obtained seasoned and fit for immediate use. Receipts of pine from Michigan and Canada are continuous. In both places the mills are in full operation, though in the latter there is some talk of suspending sawing for the season, as the stock of lumber is accumulating largely in the mill yards. Spruce and hemlock are coming in freely, and although sales are steady, there is considerable accumulation in the yards. Hardwoods are selling steadily, and the assortment is kept up by continuous arrivals by rail and canals. A large proportion is well seasoned. Shingles go off fairly, and are in sufficient stock. Lath arrive daily by water and rail, and are in good stock and demand.

THE WEST.

The Chicago Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The condition of the market during the week has been as dull as that of any week since the opening of the season. The pivotal point in this season's market seems to have quite or nearly arrived. The market hangs on the value of dimension. As long as piece stuff holds, the market can be saved. When that breaks, and a point or two is lost, there is much doubt as to the result. The peculiarity of the present position is that the imminence of the peril has made a common cause between the sellers and the buyers as regards anxiety. It may be asked, then: Why do not the merchants come forward freely and buy in order to uphold the market? Simply because they cannot in safety to themselves, and self-preservation is the first law of existence. They realize that they must purchase as cheaply as possible, and at the same time they would like to have the actual state of the market hidden from the world. In this attitude we see the reason why "p. t." was written on transactions for the last three weeks up to the beginning of the present week. Now the actual condition can no longer be suppressed, and secrecy is relaxed. The price of short piece stuff has fallen off a point, so that lumber that sold last week at $8.50 can now be bought at $8.25. As we go to press the market is trembling in the balance, and we will not undertake to say how much the decline will be before, in the fall, it catches on something that will hold. If only a point is lost, the market may rally at $8.25 and stay there until a revival of the yard trade, which, in all reason, cannot much longer be delayed. A brisk outward movement from the yards would put a much brighter phase on affairs.

Common inch lumber, having enjoyed none too good health all the season, is no better on account of the weakness in dimension. No. 2 stock of the coarser quality that is now flooding the market is freely quoted at $9 to $10 a thousand, which are figures that were not freely quoted a short time since. A better quality will range from $10 to $11. There is such a variety in the cargoes of No. 2 stock offering on the market that an exact statement of prices would have to include each transaction. The best that can be done is to give a range that includes the highest and lowest prices.

As an indication of the extent to which weakness has seized general lumber values, the sale of a cargo of inch lumber this week is in point. It was offered at $14 at first, and hung fire for two or three days at that figure. It finally sold at $12.50. This cargo would class as high medium or ordinary No. 1 stock.

It is openly stated that thick clears and selects in the general market have declined to the extent of $2 to $3 a thousand. This is one of the most noteworthy features of the present condition, and is exciting a good deal of comment.

No. 1 boards and strips are still holding up well, considering the weakness in other lines of lumber. One mill cut comes to the market here regularly that sells uniformly at $17, which shows the strength of No. 1 lumber when its quality is well understood.

The Minneapolis Lumberman and Manufacturer says:

The trade of St. Louis is light, the shipments reaching about 600,000 feet daily, with large receipts from the South and fair accessions by water from the North.

In the Northwest there is a steady trade with improving money collections. The rivers are getting so low as to almost suspend operations on the water and yet the log and lumber sales on the St. Croix are better than for months. Large quantities of logs will be hung up on the upper Mississippi and the mills will have far less to take care of. This will reduce the cut nearly 50,000,000. As to prices we are satisfied they are as near firm as they were a year ago, and some of the heaviest sales ever made have occurred this week, notably one 12,000,000 lot which could not find a purchaser a month ago. There are no log sales on the upper Mississippi.

Several mills in Minneapolis have been shut down on account of low water this week and the cut for the month will fall below last month's figures. The scale for July will hardly exceed 38,000,000 against 48,000,000 for June. The shipments and receipts from the city last week ought to give tone to the market.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

There is undoubtedly an improvement in the lumber market, although inquiry reveals a very contradictory tone among manufacturers. Some will tell you with a doleful look that there is "nothing doing," while others will say "lumber is moving more briskly, and there is an increased demand both from buyers on the market, and by letter." There is a large quantity of lumber leaving the river daily notwithstanding the rise of freights on Wednesday, the 6th inst. One heavy shipper informed us to-day that there is a large amount of lumber changing hands, induced by concessions on coarse stock, but first class lumber he said was selling as high as last year, and this is about the actual condition of things here. Quite a number of sales have been reported since our last issue, among which we mention the following:

S. O. Fisher sold on Saturday last 1,000 feet at prices as follows: One lot at $8.50, $17 and $36; another at $9, $18 and $38; another at $10, $20 and $40; another at $11, $22 and $40; and still another at $12, $24 and $40, the last two lots being extra fine; C. H. Bradley reports the sale of 6,000,000 feet in the last three weeks to customers, mostly in the east, none of which has been reported yet, at prices ranging from $9, $18 and $38 downward, according to quality; Carrier & Heath of this city, have sold within the past week 4,500,000 feet to Ohio and Illinois parties; 3,500,000 of this was purchased by the Sturtevant Lumber Company, of Cleveland, which has been represented by C. C. Burnett, of the house. A portion of this purchase is of lumber to be cut, and Mr. Burnett, who has been to Cleveland since the purchase, is here again for the purpose of supervising its manufacture. Sales are reported at Saginaw of 1,500,000 feet of good stock at $9 for shipping culls; $18 for common, and $38 for uppers; 800,000 feet at $8, $16 and $36; 350,000 at $8, $16 and $36, and 440,000 feet of coarse at $10 straight; 940,000 feet at $10.15; 150,000 feet of good stock at $9, $19 and $39; 150,000 feet of coarse at $10 cash; 400,000 feet at $8, $16 and $36; and 100,000 feet of Norway at $10 straight; J. H. Hill & Sons sold to eastern parties 300,000 feet at $9, $19 and $38; 1,000,000 feet were also sold at Saginaw at $8, $16 and $36, and 300,000 feet at $11 straight.

FOREIGN.

The London Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

If it were not for the large public works in progress there would be next door to nothing doing to carry off the large surplus stocks that are continually accumulating. It is the same cry everywhere, business slack and trade seemingly at a standstill. If you speak to any one about buying they will hardly stop to inquire the particulars of the goods you are offering, and even though the arrivals are slackening it will take a long time before the benefit of the diminished supplies will be felt.

American black walnut has been coming in rather freely, and the trade seems somewhat languid, but nevertheless the consumption in the cabinet making trade is as large as ever, and we hear that prices are firm in the States, where this wood is appreciated at least as highly as it is here.

American whitewood.—The prime parcels of planks in Wednesday's sale did not seem to command the attention which we anticipated. We suppose this is partly to be accounted for by the fact that ebonized cabinet work, for which it is so well suited and has been so largely used, is fast going out of fashion. For other branches of the trade the consumption has not yet attained to the same proportions as recent supplies.

NAILS.—Demand does not expand to any great extent, and the majority of buyers remain in an indifferent mood. Claims are put forward, however, for an improving market, and operators talk more hopefully. The supplies, it is said, are steadily coming under better control, with chances for additions materially reduced, and manufacturers, it is claimed, are so much in unison as to insure a more general adherence to a uniform line of valuation. The present quotations are $2.30@2.45 per keg for 10d to 60d, according to quantity.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—A good fair seasonable distribution of stock, both as to quantity and assortment, is reported, with some tendency toward an increase, but nothing of an unusual character shown on the market for paints, colors, etc. Samples can be found for all calls, but evidently so well under control as to prevent any undue effort to realize thereon, and values may be considered quite steady. Linseed Oil meeting with fair trade demand, and ruling steady at 55@56c. for domestic, and 58@59c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine is lower, but closes fairly steady at decline with quotations at 31@32½c. per gallon, according to quantity, package delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—Demand moderately active, the offering fair as against the outlet available, and rates about as before. We quote: Pitch, $2 25@2.80 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

ONE YEAR, in advance, SIX DOLLARS.

Communications should be addressed to

C. W. SWEET, 191 Broadway.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

AUGUST 23, 1884.

In June we ventured to predict that stock values in Wall street would show a decided advance in July, and early in the last named month we said August would see still higher quotations. Nor were we mistaken. So far the advancing tide of prices gives evidences of no retiring ebb. Should there be no disaster to the corn crop, September will be another bull month. Sometime ago it was said that Wall street was the only blue spot in the country. But the current stock speculation makes that locality the most cheerful and hopeful of all the business centres.

The bears keep on croaking, with all the factors in the street operating on the bull side. The public, they say, is not in the market. This may be true enough, but somebody owns the stocks in Wall street. These are held at figures generally below their intrinsic values, and the owners form a public themselves large enough to maintain prices. It is further stated that at the present price of grain the farmers are impoverished and not benefited by large crops. But this is nonsense. A great crop here, no matter what the price is, fills the barns and elevators and gives the farmer credits if not money. His stacks of wheat and corn is his bank, for some time during the year it will pay to sell it. The shrinkage of all prices has practically made money more valuable. The farmer can buy more with the wheat he sells at 80 cents a bushel than he could when wheat was 25 per cent. higher, for he can purchase more cotton and woollen goods, tools, groceries and other necessaries than he could two years ago. Price is a relative term. A penny could buy as much in the reign of Edward IV. as could half-a-guinea in Victoria's reign. Just as soon as the corn crop is assured up will go stock values.

The three letters of acceptance of the presidential candidates are now before the public. That of James G. Blaine was by far the ablest. It was not a candid statement of the issues before the country, but it was full of suggestion, and its style was luminous. The assumption that the prosperity of the country was due almost exclusively to the tariff was, it is true, a trifle absurd, but on the whole the Blaine acceptance was a document its author could well afford to be proud of. Butler's letter was a disappointment. In a way he is quite as great an adept as Mr. Blaine in the art of putting things. But this ex-Republican and double ex-Democrat is conscious that he cuts a ridiculous figure as a labor reformer. He is, in fact, a man without any convictions, and has but one political programme —how to advance the personal fortunes of Ben. F. Butler. His letter is the plea of a lawyer making a case where there is none. Mr. Cleveland's letter evinces no ability whatever. Anxious to please all factions he uses platitudinous phrases which may mean anything or nothing.

Readers of the three letters of acceptance will notice how anxious are all the candidates to placate the workingmen. In whatever else they differ Messrs. Blaine, Butler and Cleveland unite in declaring their anxiety to approve any measures for the benefit of the toiling millions. This is all the more curious in view of the past inability of the working people to make their influence felt at the polls. Workingmen's parties have been tried time and again, but their votes always figure among the scattering after the election is over. There are workingmen in the French Assembly and in the English Parliament, but no laboring man was ever chosen to our Congress. Yet to read the letters of the candidates one would suppose that the day laborers were the most influential section of the voting population. The demagoguery of the three candidates in this matter is simply nauseating.

Can we cry Eureka? Has the air navigation problem really been solved? Captain Renard, in Paris, has, it seems, propelled a balloon against the wind; it obeyed the rudder at every point of the compass. This is really the most important event of this century. Scientists have said all along that air navigation would be practicable whenever a powerful motor could be used in a machine of light weight. In this case, it seems, the force was obtained from an electric accumulator motor of ten-horse power, the balloon being cigar-shaped. The inventor claims that he can carry a hundred men anywhere through the air. It is only a matter of time and money. From this time forth we may expect that prodigious efforts will be made to bring about aerial navigation.

Houses and Railroads.

While we can know and tabulate every mile of railroad ever built in the country and give its cost, we are quite in the dark as to the existing number of houses, their cost, as well as the annual supply needed by our growing population. The periodical financial panics have been traced to the locking up of vast sums of floating capital in such improvements, yet no one seems to have realized that house building consumed as much capital as railroad building, yet such must be the case.

Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Boston, has just published an interesting paper on "Railroad Building," in which he estimates that under normal circumstances we will build 6,000 miles of railroad annually, at a cost of $150,000,000. This, he thinks, will meet the requirements of the two million which is yearly added to our population. But, adds Mr. Atkinson, we will need to spend $200,000,000 per annum in the construction of new houses, without counting the cost of the repairs and additions to the old houses. If this estimate is anywhere near correct we must have spent over $300,000,000 on new structures and repairs during the past year, but it is probably less than the truth.

In this city it is known that over $40,000,000 is spent per annum in new residences, stores and factories. As New York contains something over 1,500,000 inhabitants, a corresponding expenditure in the rest of the country, with its 56,000,000 of inhabitants, would give us a sum total of over $1,000,000,000 for building purposes. Of course there has been no such outlay of money, for there is no correspondence between the costly structures of the metropolis and the cheaper edifices put up elsewhere; but, taking the data of New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Kansas City, Denver and other growing cities, Mr. Atkinson's $200,000,000 for new structures is far too low an estimate. We have no doubt that for the year ending July 1, 1884, more than $400,000,000 must have been expended on new structures and the betterment of old ones. Hereafter, in accounting for depressed times by capital being changed from a floating to a fixed form, it will be necessary to keep in mind house building as well as railroad making. So far economists and statisticians have overlooked the importance of building statistics in accounting for the temporary withdrawal of capital in land and building improvements.

Our Near-by Summer Resorts.

New York is fortunate in being so situated that it affords a greater variety of attractive resorts in the summer than any other great city on earth. It has the ocean at its doors, a noble river with scenery equal to that of the Rhine on its west, and a great sound to the east. Railroads run north and west, penetrating all sorts of regions, and giving the excursionist a choice of mountain, valley and stream surroundings.

This advantage over other cities is proven by the enormous local passenger traffic to what may be called near-by watering places. Every ferry and railway station is thronged in the evening with tens of thousands who sleep over night eight to forty miles away from the city. The growth of some of these near-by abodes has been simply phenomenal. Anyone who recalls Long Branch, for instance, ten years ago and compares it with the present time, will be filled with amazement. Ocean avenue was a fine drive even then, but from Sandy Hook to Deal there were but few hotels, and the cottage population was very small. The sand heaps on each side of the drive were absolutely forbidding in appearance. To-day they are covered with charming residences, surrounded by grounds of surpassing beauty. The drive from Seabright to lower Elberon is probably the finest of the kind in the world, and the owners of the villas are among our richest New Yorkers.

The region about Babylon and beyond on the south side of Long Island has also wonderfully improved within the past seven years, and yet its growth has apparently scarcely begun. The number of trains run during the summer months on the west half of Long Island is surprisingly large, but the population as yet has not increased in the same proportion as it has on the seacoast on New Jersey below Sandy Hook. It would seem as if improvement on the latter must continue until the whole seacoast between Long Branch and Cape May will be developed after the pattern of Seabright, Elberon, Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. There seems less and less need for New Yorkers leaving town in the hot weather when they can spend their nights in the hilly regions to the north and west, or be rocked asleep by the ocean surges on the eastern coast of Jersey, or the southern shores of Long Island.

It is understood the directors of the Broadway Underground Railroad are considering a proposition to go right on with their work under their present charter, which authorizes a tunnel for steam transit. They prefer the Arcade plan which was vetoed by Governor Cleveland, but a year would be lost before the matter could be acted upon by a new Legislature. Then if the tunnel was constructed there would be nothing to hinder the adoption of the underground street scheme subsequently. We believe the only permanent solution of the Broadway transit problem to be an underground street, accommodating all kinds of motive power.

Our Prophetic Department.

CITIZEN—As this is an off season, why not a short discussion on an entirely new topic—the future of religion in this country.

SIR ORACLE—That is too vast a subject to handle in a chance conversation. Something might be said, however, anent the killing of the Mormons in Tennessee. This Mormon question will enter more or less into our politics for many years to come, and from my point of view the American people will probably put themselves decidedly in the wrong in dealing with that delicate matter.

CITIZEN—What, you are not, I hope, about to defend these beastly polygamists, those dishonorers of the other sex?

SIR O.—You express the ordinary feeling on the subject, but unfortunately very few use their reason in considering the merits of the question. In dealing with this subject the American people have forgotten all their traditions of civil liberty and religious freedom. The average man of to-day is, it seems, just as cruel, bigoted and unreasoning as was his ancestor who fed the fires of the inquisition or burnt the witches in Salem.

CITIZEN—What proof is there of this?

SIR O.—The fact that the recent wanton and outrageous murder of the Mormons in Tennessee failed to provoke the slightest outburst of indignation throughout the country. The press very generally made use of the incident to warn the Mormons what they had to expect in future. This was the position taken by the Tribune and Herald in this city, and very fairly reflected the general sentiment. Now, what are the facts about the Mormons? They are really a new Protestant sect, who accept the orthodox traditions, theology and Bible, with additions of their own. Like every new order in the Catholic church and the Protestant sects of the past, they have met with warm opposition and persecution, but they have shown a zeal and devotion which has so far triumphed over all obstacles. All we know of them is in their favor. Their recruits are the poor of other nations, who, on being transplanted to the arid plains of Utah, have by sobriety, hard work and zeal for their church made the wilderness blossom like the rose. There is not an equal number of people in the United States who are so moral, on the whole, as the Mormons, or whose domestic virtues are greater.

CITIZEN—Well, that is a bold statement. How about polygamy?

SIR O.—Polygamy is not practiced by more than one in twenty of the Mormons. It is a form of marriage which has been accepted by mankind through countless ages. It was in vogue among the Jews; there is no word condemning it in the Bible, and it is an honored institution to-day in the Mohammedan world. Understand me, I am not its apologist or defender. Monogamy has produced far better results in the way of civilization and race culture than any other form of marriage. But man in his life on this earth has had to "prove all things" before he could "hold fast that which was good," to quote the language of the Scriptures. In barbaric and semi-civilized stages he tried free love and polyandry. When in the patriarchal stage of evolution he tested polygamy, it was a vast improvement upon the preceding marriage institutions. The Greeks, Romans and modern civilized nations have settled the question that monogamy has produced better results than polygamy. But we should not forget that in the bosom of our civilization all forms of marriage co-exist, though the older forms bear different names, and generally produce pernicious results. The married man who keeps a mistress is practically a polygamist. The "social evil" is a degraded survival of polyandry, which in the past together with polygamy had its high human and religious sanctions. In view of our social shortcomings in large cities, we have no excuse for criticising or condemning polygamy among the Mormons.

CITIZEN—As you have said, this is a matter of feeling rather than of reasoning, yet I do not think the American people will ever tolerate the legalizing of unions which will practically give a man two or more wives.

SIR O.—But if men will form these outside connections and bring children into the world, should there not be a legal as well as moral claim on the man for the care taking of the mother and his child. Take the case of Governor Cleveland. I restate the facts as given by his own defenders. He forms a connection at the ripe age of 37 with a widow, already a mother of two children. There was no case of youthful passion on either side. It was simply the gratification of desire on the part of the man and the wish to get money on the part of the woman. A child was born which is acknowledged by the father, who sends him to an orphan asylum. The mother tries to recover her offspring and steals it from the asylum. Whereupon lawyer Cleveland, acting through a legal friend, incarcerates the woman in an asylum without any warrant of law. He charged her, it seems, with being intemperate. Now in Utah no such cases occur. All the marriageable women are provided for. They are given homes and they and their children have the protection of the law. There is no "social evil" in Utah among the Mormons. That and crime are confined to the so-called Christian population of that territory. These Gentiles, as the Mormons call them, are not, it is true, good specimens of Christian training. They are adventurers, miners and border ruffians, but the fact remains that they furnish inmates for the penitentiaries in Utah, while the Mormons, originally recruited from a very ignorant and rough population, are law-abiding, sober, chaste and under the strong discipline of their church. Yet it is these God-fearing people who are killed, abused and legislated against by our national congresses.

CITIZEN—If what you have said about Governor Cleveland is true, will the American people elect him as President of the United States?

SIR O.—That is the puzzle. If they do, what hypocrites are they to object to polygamy, which, after all, is confined to less than a thousand persons; for it is only the rich Mormon who can support more than one family, and as a people they are relatively poor.

CITIZEN—What do you predict?

SIR O.—That our country will not profit any by the history of the past in the matter of toleration for differences of opinion and action in religious matters. They will be as blind and as bigoted, and probably as conscientious in the matter, as was Torquemada and Cotton Mather. The close of the nineteenth century will show the modern Yankee reproducing the folly and crime of his ancestors of the seventeenth century.

CITIZEN—How does the election canvass open up from your point of view?

SIR O.—It is too early to give a definite opinion, for we cannot tell the drift of things until after the Maine and West Virginia elections. Cleveland's canvass does not look by any means as good as it did within the three weeks after he was nominated.

The Mayor did right in vetoing the grant of the Aldermen to a private company for a horse-car road on Broadway. The franchise is a valuable one and it should be paid for in a way suggested by the law under which horse-car companies are chartered. In that enactment it is provided that certain percentages of the gross receipts should be paid over to the city treasury. Now this franchise should be given to any responsible company that would pay the highest percentage of the total receipts.

But it should be borne in mind that no company should be given a monopoly of the surface of Broadway. The true solution of travel upon that thoroughfare is an underground street, such as is outlined in the Arcade plan. If a franchise was granted for a lump money consideration—a million dollars, say—it would give the company a moral if not a legal right to a monopoly of the travel of that thoroughfare. Then it really seems as if the days of horse-cars were numbered. If propulsion is not to be by steam, then electricity is to be the motor of the future. The Cleveland and other experiments will shortly settle this question, and so we can perhaps afford to wait before disposing of the surface of Broadway to any company.

The financial writer in radstreet's seems to be demoralized by the criticisms on his articles in this publication. All we did was to point out the obvious fact that any writer who attempted to fight the figures on the tape was sure finally to come to grief. "Everybody," as Bob Hutchings often remarked, "is wiser than anybody." When the market drifts in a certain direction all the leaders combined cannot reverse the current permanently. Gould, Vanderbilt and other leaders of the street have from time to time tried to rally the market since the fatal summer of 1881, by "pegging" and other devices, but without success. They would make a partial rally and perhaps get rid of some of their stocks, but the current of events was against them, and they never had any luck except in the summer of 1882, when there was a large wheat crop to help them. At present there is not only a large wheat crop, but a prospectively large corn crop, to restore confidence in railway values. There are other causes at work to stimulate prices, such as an undue depreciation of railway securities in the past and a prospect of very cheap money and an influx of gold in the future. Our criticism of the writer in Bradstreet's was that he did not appear to understand the significance of the May cyclone. That explosion marked the culmination of the liquidation which has been under way since that fatal Second of July when Garfield was shot. We may yet have a crisis in general business, and further along one in the real estate market, but unless some great national disaster occurs we have seen the lowest prices in the stock market for some years. The "bear" writers in Bradstreet's, the Wall Street News and the Sunday Times have not realized that the crisis has passed, and hence the mess they make of it in trying to interpret the current financial news. People read newspapers to be instructed and guided, and not to be bedevilled and put on the wrong track.

Home Decorative Notes.

—Fine ladies' cloth forms an excellent foundation for embroidery.

—A unique table bell is of polished brass, and in shape like the homely cow bell of the New England farmers' pattern.

—Very delicate chair backs are of blue batiste, one end of which is embroidered with a bunch of white daisies in filoselle.

—Very pretty panels to the doors of cabinets may be formed of Japanese lacquered trays, the rims should of course be first cut off.

—Peacock blue is a pleasing color for bed-rooms; a carpet with a border in which this color predominates is very bright and attractive, the mantel lambrequins, table-spreds and chair cushions may all have this for the prevailing color; it is an unusual color for a bed-room, and for this reason will please many who are tired of red, pink or pale blue.

—The whole secret of keeping furs is to beat all the dust out of them, and then keep them in a close closet, impregnated with the odor of tar, in old times camphor was used, but it has been discovered that it had a tendency to detract from their color and make them much lighter in hue. There is something in the dyes used for sable and other dark furs that camphor influences.

—Portieres of hand-painted Chinese matting are gaining admirers daily.

—Lamps and candlesticks used on the table are after antique designs, and are in silver or brass.

—Ice cream dishes are in heavy cut crystal and are either oval or square in form.

—The fashionable stationery for short letters and informal invitations is in imitation of birch bark; trailing arbutus, wood violets and little clusters of anemones and other wild flowers are painted on the corners with the best effect.

—Crape may be renovated by thoroughly brushing all dust from the material, sprinkling with alcohol and rolling in newspaper, commencing with the paper and crape together, so that the paper may be between every portion of the material; allow it to remain so until dry.

—Bandana is used with good effect for covering furniture and making portieres.

—The fashion for making one's dinner table a place for bric-a-brac and china curiosity display is still in high favor, and there certainly is more reason for this craze than for many another; it gives one's guests an opportunity for showing their knowledge of faience and artistic trifles; it also serves as an antidote for monotony when one can at each course astonish one's guest with new surprises in the way of rare, beautiful specimens of the china decorator's art.

—Small chip baskets, gilded inside and out, make pretty catch-alls for the dressing table.

—The demand for bric-a-brac and novelties in household decoration apparently does not abate, and designers in all parts of the world are kept busy pushing their inventiveness to the last degree to turn out new combinations, for instance a lamp has the form of a white owl, from whose head rises the stem of an immense rose, with closely folded leaves, which entirely conceal the globe; an elephant of porcelain is arranged with an opening in the back for placing cut flowers; lamb's horns most curiously twisted are disposed of for library and smoking sets; a very beautiful liquor set is a gold-timbered ship, with silver sails and a cargo incased in Austrian glass, and so the variety increases, and there seems to be no limit to the fertility of the designs.

—Fancifully painted crepe sachets decorated with bright ribbons are used for looping back curtains.

—Brass crescents that have been used for decorative purposes and have become tarnished may be made to do further service by covering them with embroidery silk, it is a trifling matter to accomplish this with the aid of a crochet needle.

—Lincrusta Walton is subject to many devices combining both ornament and use, for screen panels it is exceedingly rich; very satisfactory umbrella stands and picture frames are also made of this material.

—The embroidering of luncheon cloths and doilies is a very fashionable industry at the present moment, a very pretty style has the threads pulled out to form an inside square, from one corner very delicate twigs embroidered in silk of the natural wood shade are seen, and from which a shower of apple blossoms are falling, the cloth has a knotted fringe edge, the doilies are embroidered to match the cover.

—One of fancy's freaks for decoration is a stork in flight with its wings spread out and its legs extended; the graceful creature is suspended from the chandelier by invisible threads.

—The operation of stoning raisins may be hastened greatly if a glass of water stands conveniently near so that you can dip your fingers into it at intervals.

—The most elegant buffets are made of oak in the Queen Anne style.

—A pretty fashion is to put some very highly perfumed flower in the finger bowl, which is crushed in the fingers as they are dipped in the water; jasmine, heliotrope and orange flowers are the most used.

—Of making table spreads there is no end; a beautiful one is made of peacock blue felt, in each corner is a bunch of roses in ribbon embroidery, pink roses are more effective than red ones; the fringe of this spread is made by cutting the edge to the depth of four inches in narrow strips about a third of an inch wide, this not being heavy enough to look well, a piece of olive felt should be cut into fringe after the same fashion, this is to be put on the under side of the table cover and caught there with invisible stitches, the edge of the olive fringe must not extend below the blue, but it should be put on so that it will be exactly even

It is quite true that Jay Gould often makes serious mistakes. He was caught out in Northwestern stock and lost a heap of money in supposing that the resumption of specie payments would cause a fall in prices in Wall street. He made his big money as a bear and as an organizer and consolidator of railway systems. He has to all appearances been trying to sustain the market since 1881, and is just scoring his first great success as a pronounced bull in the stock market.

Murat Halstead is one of the great editors of the country, but his "Extra" has done him no credit in New York. Typographically it is an abomination, and so far it has made no mark in any direction, nor is it likely to. As we said several weeks ago there is room in New York for a Blaine campaign paper, but it should be dashing, bright, aggressive and good-looking, like Mr. Halstead himself, but the Extra is a botch. George Crouch says that his Dial is doing very well, and that it is far ahead of the Mail and Express in circulation. There are too many New York papers, and too few good ones.

It is strange what a hold Puck has upon the American public. Its artists are all Germans, and their pictorial treatment is German also. Its cartoons are over-elaborate and singularly brutal. The finer French art which makes a pictorial point with a few dashes of the pencil is not understood or appreciated by Germans or Americans. Harpers and the Century show how admirable is our art in serious or descriptive work. These magazines vie with the very best of Europe, but Americans have entirely deserted the field of comic illustrated journalism, and so our public patronizes the coarse productions of imported Dutchmen, who malign our public men and use clubs instead of rapiers in dealing with party leaders.

Real Estate Department.

Although the real estate market is dull, brokers report that during the past week or two there was quite a demand from out-of-town people, mostly for houses ranging from $1,000 to $1,500, which bid fair for renting in the fall. One firm states that to their surprise they had more inquiry in the past nine or ten days than they had for several months past, both for buying and renting. During the last few days, however, things have slackened off a little, betokening a disposition on the part of those residing in the country to stay away longer, owing to the unexpected appearance of warm weather. Some of the dealers are coming back to town, and in a few weeks Pine street and lower Broadway will look more like old times. There was scarcely anything done at the Exchange Salesrooms this week, nor will there be any sales of note next week. There is, however, more inquiry at the brokers' offices.

The official list of Conveyances during the past week shows an increase over the corresponding week of last year, as indeed has every week this summer so far. The additional sales in the annexed district are noteworthy.

Out Among the Builders.

P. Braender will shortly commence the erection of five five-story brick, brown stone and terra cotta trimmed flats on the northeast corner of First avenue and Eighty-third street. Four will be on the avenue and one on the street. Three of them will be 25x70, the corner 27x85, and that on the street 26x85; the estimated cost is $82,500; the plans are being prepared by John Brandt. The same architect is drawing the designs for two five-story brick, brown stone and terra cotta trimmed tenements, 27.6x76 each, to be built on the south side of One Hundred and Thirty-third street, commencing 80 feet east of Madison avenue, for Frank M. Clemens, at a cost of about $35,000.

Alfred Zucker has the plans under way for a six-story and basement warehouse, 23x130, to be erected for Morris H. Rosenstein at No. 102 Bleecker street, 49 feet east of Greene. The material will be of Philadelphia brick, with stone trimmings, the front being of iron. The building will contain an elevator, steam-heating and other improvements, the cost being estimated at about $65,000.

W. B. Boyd intends to erect a five-story brick and stone tenement and store, 25x81, at No. 385 First avenue, to cost about $18,000. Architect, Jobst Hoffman.

Mrs. Inslee A. Hopper will shortly erect for her own occupancy a handsome two-story, basement and attic brick and frame villa at Orange, N. J., the dimensions being 46x90. The plans are being drawn by Alfred H. Thorp.

Richard Claffy will complete the four four-story and basement Philadelphia brick and brown stone tenements on the south side of Ninety-eighth street, 110 feet east of Third avenue. Elbert D. Howes has the plans.

Mr. V. Henry Rothschild is about to have elaborate interior decorations made to the front parlor of his house No. 4 East Sixty-seventh street, in the Louis XVI. style, on which he will expend some $6,000. The plans are being drawn by Alfred Zucker.

Park Commissioner John D. Crimmins has just received the contract for laying the surface road tracks on Forty-second street, from Seventh avenue to the East River, work on which will be commenced forthwith.

It is expected that ground will be broken next week for the laying of tracks to run from First avenue and One Hundred and Ninth street, through One Hundred and Tenth street to St. Nicholas avenue, thence through Manhattan street and terminating at the North River.

Brooklyn.

Capt. William Tumbridge intends to erect a three-story and basement brick and brown stone private dwelling for his own occupancy on the south side of Pineapple street, commencing 150 feet east of Hicks street. The dimensions will be 25x68, the interior being trimmed in hardwood. The cost is estimated at $25,000. Architect, Augustus Hatfield, of New York.

Joseph F. Knapp will shortly commence the erection of a four-story and basement brown stone house, 20x60, on Bedford avenue, near Ross street. The interior will be in hardwood, and contain the modern improvements. Estimated cost, $28,000. Architect, Arthur Crooks, of New York.

E. F. Gaylor has plans under way for three five-story brick stores and tenements, 29x65 each, with three four-story brick tenements in rear, 29x30 each, to be erected on the east side of First street, 37 feet south of South Second street.

Corn.

The Department of Agriculture reports the condition of corn August 1st to have been 96 per cent. of a wholly good condition, against 89 at the same time last year, 83 in 1882, 77 in 1881, 99 in 1880 and 1879. To appreciate this we must consider the acreage, which is 2 per cent. more than last year, 6 per cent. more than in 1882, 8¼ per cent. more than in 1881 and 10 per cent. more than in 1880 and 1879. In 1879, when the census gave more accurate returns than we have for other years, and the condition when ripe was estimated at 99, the average yield per acre was 28½ bushels. A condition of 96 means, if continued, an average yield of about 27¼ bushels per acre, which applied to the present acreage would make a crop of 1, 899 millions of bushels, against 1,551 last year, 1,617 in 1882, 1,194 in 1881, 1,717 in 1880, and 1,755 in 1879, the latter being very much larger than in any previous year, and so far the largest ever harvested.—Railroad Gazette.

New Publication.*

We have received still another volume by Professor J. Croumbie Brown, this time dealing with the forest lands and forestry of Northern Russia. It contains the results of the author's observations while on a visit to Russia some years ago, together with information gathered by him in the course of his extensive reading and study of this important science. There is a good deal to be learned in this publication about forest exploitation in Northern Russia. Chapters are devoted to sartage, jardinage, the views entertained in Russia in regard to different methods of exploitation, the export timber trade, forest industries, and house building and carpentry. Several chapters are devoted to the physical geography of the country, in which flora, fauna, quadrupeds, birds and insects are treated upon, while in the chapter on palæontological botany the views of Dr. Oswald Heer are advanced, expounded and illustrated by Count Saporta, relative to vegetation having originated in the far north and diffused itself southwards. Mention is made of insects injurious to forest trees in Northern Russia and the book concludes with a highly valuable list of coleoptera and lepidoptera collected by Mr. Guenther in the government of Olonetz. The book is interspersed with anecdotes of the people and descriptions of Russian scenery. It is satisfactory to learn from the preface by the author that the International Exhibition of forest products and other objects of interest connected with forestry, which was opened in Edinburgh last month, has tendered to assist the establishment of a school of forestry in Scotland, with a view of furthering and stimulating a greater improvement in the scientific arrangement of woods in Great Britain. It has been impossible for us to give extended notices of the various books on this subject, by the same author, which have been reviewed in our columns, but we look with pleasure upon publications which contain such valuable information to the large agricultural population of this country. No one can peruse these volumes without being impressed with the necessity of schools of forestry being instituted in the United States, so that we may learn to understand the causes of the great floods which annually devastate large tracts in this country, and thus be enabled to avoid the recurrence of these destructive visitations.

Special Notices.

Mr. George R. Read, so long and favorably known to the real estate public from his connection with the firm of E. H. Ludlow & Co., has opened an office for himself at No. 19 Nassau street, as will be seen from his card on the front page of this paper. He will transact a general real estate business, including the sale and leasing of dwelling, vacant and business property, the loaning of money on bond and mortgage, and the care and management of estates. Mr. Read's experience with the above firm, extending over seventeen years, is a sufficient guarantee to his friends and patrons that all business entrusted to him will be ably handled.

The card of A. B. See & Co. appears in another column. Mr. See and Mr. Harris, the two members of the firm, are mechanical experts, and were for years in the employ of Otis Bros., the former as inspector, and the latter as foreman. Many of their workmen were also for a number of years in the employ of that firm. Their works are equipped with the latest and most improved machinery. They make a specialty of repairing elevators, both steam and hydraulic.

The passenger and freight elevators manufactured by L. S. Graves & Son have acquired a sound reputation in this city, and especially in Western New York. Among the buildings to which they have been supplied, are the Seventh Ward National Bank, corner John and Broadway, De Graaf & Taylor's, Fourteenth street, and Best & Co.'s, Twenty-third street. Messrs. Graves have been established ten years. A number of their machines can be seen at work at their office, 46 Cortlandt street. Their representative in this city is Mr. Frank M. Reynolds, who can be communicated with at the above address.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Following our last report careful buyers managed to obtain a few moderate favors on Common Hards, but the market has since changed for the better. The line of quotations will not range much higher than a week ago, but the "cutting" of rates seems to have been pretty well abandoned, and on the average there is a gain of about 25c. per M. With work resumed on some of the heretofore idle jobs the actual consumption has increased just so much, and this, with a continuation of buying on the part of dealers when they could find a desirable cargo, has kept a good outlet open, while on the other side the offering was somewhat smaller. This latter result does not appear to be due to any concerted movement looking to that end, but rather as the outcome of natural causes, among which the condition of the weather is cited as a factor of some importance. Vessels running between this city and points of supply, it is said, have been unable to make their trips with the usual regularity, and in some instances receivers found themselves temporarily short of stock, and this was not without its effect upon buyers. Manufacturers, too, have been somewhat indifferent about shipping, as the favorable conditions for working at the production were more tempting than the return likely to be obtained for time devoted to loading and forwarding. Some small differences of opinion prevail, we notice, in naming quotations, but the most authoritative sources of information generally agree that current top rates on cargo lots outside of specials should be placed at $5.50 for Jerseys, $5 75 for "Up Rivers," and $6.50 for Haverstraws. For Pales there is no corresponding improvement, as business is too much a matter of chance, but for some of the best lots sellers are inclined to show a somewhat stiffer tone. Fronts are reported in good demand and steady.

LATH.—It has been intimated that some sales took place, at about the time of our last issue, showing a small shading on value. If so, the gain for the buyer was small and temporary, as the market is now back again to old figures and showing considerable firmness. The operating basis on last transactions was $2.15 per M, and about all the immediately available stock appears to have been sold out. There is a little afloat, some of it not very distant, but a place indicated for it all and one or two receivers talk about getting higher figures.

LIME.—Further arrivals have continued to sell readily and the market at the present writing is again cleared of stock, with some buyers waiting for additional offering. Thus far there appears to have been no change in cost, but the feeling is firm and receivers talk confidently of obtaining 5c. advance on the next arrivals.

LUMBER.—Neither in a wholesale or retail way does there appear to be any great change in the situation. The distribution from yard is evidently going on about as usual, some of the dealers doing very well and others grumbling loudly over the absence of trade one week, and the next week changing places, with here and there a few who, through fortunate location manage to keep men and teams quite steadily at work. Indeed, in the aggregate the consumption for any given period would probably vary little, with the chances slightly in favor of an increase just now, yet there is an absence of snap and vigor on the market, and the general feeling is by no means cheerful. On wholesale operations the same state of affairs prevails. Buyers move in a languid, indifferent sort of way, entirely impregnable to attempted stimulating features, and still seem to give little heed to future wants. They have not, however, deserted the market by any means, and in fact when properly managed are induced to provide an outlet for the bulk of the offering, with now and then a pretty good price—as prices stand—paid for stock that is thoroughly standard and attractive. The suspension of an old wholesale house especially connected with the yellow pine trade, announced during the week, creates both surprise and regret, and raises some apprehension as to what may follow.

Eastern Spruce is generally reported as "about the same." Occasionally we hear of a pretty full figure, and again something that appears quite low, and the indications are that business is, to a very large extent, simply a matter of chance. An arrival at a propitious moment just when a buyer may happen to be ready to negotiate affords an opportunity for a fair sale, yet the same cargo or better at hand a day earlier or later would be quite as likely to go begging, even if offered at lower figures, until the receiver could search out a customer who, as a sort of favor, would take it off his hands. Manufacturers very naturally are more or less dissatisfied with going rates, and there is the stereotyped reports about diminished production, but enough leaks out to fully satisfy all open calls, and few of the mills are in any way hurried on their specials Two or three large dealers continue to absorb desirable cargoes against future wants. Random ranges anywhere from $11 up to $14, and as high as $16.50 is "asked" on specials.

White Pine still shows more or less of an irregular undertone, and in one way or another the buyer gets a great many advantages. This probably is less marked on the better qualities than a month or so ago, but will hold good on coarse stuff as a direct reflection of a corresponding condition of affairs at most primary points. There are also a great many parcels of "intermediate" stock originally sold by manufacturers at a comparatively good price, but now competing with their subsequent production because holders are compelled to realize at a loss. The export trade is generally less promising, and occasional full sales made are all closely competed for to the advantage of the buyer. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do.

Yellow Pine gives no evidence of changing for the better so far as prices are concerned, most sellers showing sufficient anxiety over all calls to keep the tone easy. There is, however, said to be some indications of a strictly increasing outlet opening for supplies on both random bills of good quality and specials, as well as on a few new shipping orders, and receivers draw as much comfort from that prospect as they can. Some of the yards are said to have made sufficient distribution of late to materially break their assortment. If the indications amount to anything, however, no one expects that they will be lasting and the market gains nothing in tone. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19.50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $20@22; Dry, do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $13@15 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $12@14 for rough, and $20@21 for dressed.

Hardwoods between a fair home consumption of standard stock and more or less shipping trade are finding a well maintained line of business. Prices, too, rule about steady and holders manifest no special anxiety to realize on either the fine quality or stock next below, but some of the very poor grades culled out from time to time could probably be picked up comparatively cheap. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M.; ash, $33@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending August 19 as follows:

There has been the usual August attendance of buyers in market, and although no large transactions have been reported the shipments have been considerable The stock and assortment of pine, were never larger or better than they are now in the district, and the receipts are continuous from Michigan and Canada. In both these sections there are mills shutting down in order that the supply may be curtailed for the remainder of the season. Shipments by rail from Albany are larger than usual, as many places can procure their supplies in that way as cheaply as by water routes owing to the exceptionally large amount which the railroads now allow to be carried on each car. The supply of spruce and hemlock is larger than usual, but prices are well maintained and the market may be quoted as fairly active. Hardwoods are not in their usual stock, but a constant good assortment and supply is maintained by the dealers, who are filling orders by mail freely, besides those obtained from personal selections in the market. Shingles are selling slowly, but lath are in good demand.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

It is safe to assert that the lumber market on the river is ordinarily good. Plenty of lumber is selling, and good stock is bringing good prices. Cash transactions induce concessions, especially on the coarser grades. Not only is lumber being sold here direct to dealers themselves, but commission dealers are purchasing large bills to fill orders received from their customers by letter. Inquiry for a large amount of stock was received by telephone yesterday morning from Saginaw, and the price demanded was $9, $18 and $38, which was at once acceded to.

Freights have been as fickle as possible during the past week and this condition has interfered somewhat with shipments. Vessel men themselves are responsible for the disorder which has prevailed in freight rates, which have fluctuated from $1.50 to $1.75 to Buffalo and Tonawanda, and $1.25 to $1.50 to Ohio ports. About a week ago rates went up to $1 75 and then receded to $1.62½, and finally yesterday the Leuty and tow were chartered at the rates—$1.50 to Buffalo and Tonawanda. Where the folly of vessel men is to end it is impossible to predict.

CARGO QUOTATIONS.

Shipping culls	$7 50@10 00
Common	14 50@20 00
Uppers	35 00@40 00
Bill stuff	7 50@ 8 00

The Chicago Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

As was stated last week, heavy receipts, compared with the demand during the first three days of that week caused a weakness, and piece stuff settled to an acknowledged basis of $8.25 a thousand, which had not been willingly conceded before. It has remained at about that figure since.

During the week six or seven more cargoes of Lake Huron lumber have come to market. One house received five cargoes, containing about 2,500,000 feet of lumber. It was mostly inch stuff, and was held for sale at Saginaw inspection, on a basis of $9, $10 and $36, and $10, $18 and $38 a thousand. This is how the commission men give it forth to the world. When the lumber was sold, "p. t." covered the transactions, and it was supposed that the sales were made straight at an average price. Since neither commission men nor purchasers will give prices, it must be concluded that the lumber sold dog cheap. Whenever prices are concealed it is certain that high figures were not realized, and presumably that they were too low for utterance.

No. 2 inch lumber continues to be sold at our quoted range. It is asserted by one commission house that the lumber that is quoted at $9 does not properly belong to No. 2 stock, but should be more justly classed as coarse common, including much that is cull. A large proportion of the inch lumber arriving is of this class. Hence we this week have given a distinct line and quotation that is simply denominated "coarse common." A fair article of No. 2 stock is worth from $9.50 to $10, and better more than that, up to the limit of the quotable range.

Of hardwoods the Lumberman says:

Prices show no fluctuations which would warrant a change in quotations. Concerns that have an outside trade make more favorable reports than those relying on the city requirement, though some of the latter are doing well. Heavy woods meet the greatest demand, the requirement for machinery purposes being fairly good. Maple is in slow demand. Whitewood is in moderate request, with some heavy sales reported. One bill for 1,000,000 feet was recently placed. Cherry is, as usual, wanted if of good trade, but there is an oversupply of poor. Good thick ash is asked for, but oak plank and timber is not so strong.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The usual midsummer dullness is visible in all the lumber markets of the West. Harvest season is upon us in the Northwest and at least a month more must elapse before the movement of grain will bring enough money into the country to start trade up briskly. The prospects are exceedingly bright that an enormous, unprecedented demand for lumber will have to be met this fall and if there is any surplus above what would fill last year's orders we are unable to discover it. The condition of our rivers is such that the mills of the West cannot do hardly an average business during the next eighty days, which will end the season, leaving only a stock approximating last year's. All we glean among lumbermen and from exchanges satisfies us that the market grows firmer and holders more confident every day. Every one can now perceive that if they had held the stock of last January they could be disposed of at advanced prices. The outlook justifies us in predicting an advance of at least $1.00 early this fall.

The trade of St. Paul and Minneapolis is just about the same as last year so far as bulk is concerned, with a continued local trade that surprises all. There is scarcely a road man out at present from either city and no active hunting for orders, and nearly all leading houses are disposed to hold on. Much good is anticipated from the Chicago convention. Log sales are slow, and poor logs hard to give away at Minneapolis and very cheap at Stillwater.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trade's Journal says:

LONDON.

The deliveries from the London docks have for several weeks been exhibiting a continuous decline as compared with what was done in this way last year, and this is now getting to be a serious affair. It is not as if we had to make the comparison with a prosperous season, the contrary being the case, as last year was notably a disastrous one for prices almost as unfavorable in that respect as the present. Then the fall brought with it some slight reaction, even though of a temporary kind, but this year the older it gets the worse the position of the market seems to be.

We are now nearly 8,000 standards of deals and boards and 7,000 loads of timber short in the deliveries as compared with the same date of last year. It is said that a great deal of the difference in manufactured stuff is due to the large overside deliveries that have taken place this year, but we understand last year also stuff left the docks in this manner on an equally large scale; so that we cannot view the present shortage without feeling that prices must further suffer if the import remains unchecked.

American Black Walnut.—We cannot yet report any improvement in this article. Supplies continue to arrive more freely than the stock is taken into consumption; restriction of quantity and discretion in quality would be very desirable and certainly greatly to shippers' advantage, as better class logs command more than proportionate prices.

American whitewood also seems dull, and we do not hear of any sales worth mentioning having taken place, although it is certainly not because there is insufficient stock for buyers to choose from, as a walk through the sheds at the West India docks would show.

GLASGOW.

There are two auction sales to note since last writing, one of American log timber and deals at Greenock on the 31st ult., when a considerable quantity was sold, some portions realizing very fair rates, though offers for several lots in the catalogue were refused, being in view of exposers too low. At the sale held in Yorkhill Yard, Glasgow, on 5th inst., the goods offered comprised a novelty to the trade here, viz, a cargo of Californian redwood. It was sawn to various dimensions, sufficiently large for practical purposes.

The bulk of the cargo was sold, prices ranging from 2s. 1d. to 3s. 3d. per cubic foot. At the same sale there were offered American walnut logs and yellow pine and spruce deals. The prices offered for deals not coming up to exposers' views these goods were withdrawn with the exception of two lots of spruce, 8x3, at 8¼d.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has sold mainly in small lots as wanted in the ordinary course of trade and the market was without features of special interest. Supplies remain under very good control with about former rates asked. Lake is quoted at 14c., and other brands down to 13@13¼c. Manufactured copper in slow uncertain demand, and nominally unchanged, but some cutting on rates is hinted at. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary size, over 16 oz. per sq. foot, 22c. per lb.; do. do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 24c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per sq. foot, 27c. per lb.; do., do., lighter than 10 oz. per sq. foot, 29c. per lb.; circles less than 84 inches in diameter, 25c. per lb.; 84 inches in diameter and over, 28c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 25c. per lb.; locomotive fire-box sheets, 23c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 20c. per lb., and Bolt Copper, 23c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig has slow sale, but importers appear to have so well guaged the requirements of the market as to prevent any serious accumulation of stock, and current arrivals go off at about the old range of prices. We quote at $19.00@22.00 per ton according to quantity and brand. American Pig has about the former average moderate demand, which is fairly met at old rates. Most of the standard brands selling on this market appear to preserve a steady tone, but reports are current of considerable cutting at other points. We quote $19.50@20.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry, $18.50@19.00 for No. 2 X do. do., and $17.00@18.00 for gray forge. Old Rails have been very quiet and prices rather lacking in strength, but no actual reduction made. Scrap iron in small lots has sold very well and commanded about former rates, but it would be impossible to place large invoices except at a concession. We quote at $18@19 for old tee rails, $20@21 for double heads, $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap ex ship, $21@23 for selected do., $16.50@17.50 for old car wheels, and $19.00@20.00 for crop ends. Steel Rails have further shaded in cost since our last, but the reduction attracted attention and contracts for large amounts were placed. This has reduced the competition between manufacturers and brought the market into somewhat steadier form. We quote at $27.50@29.00 per ton for heavy sections, according to delivery, etc. Manufactured Iron from store is slow at irregular rates. Delivery on old engagement is pretty full, but new contracts for building purposes rather limited, and it is said that the bricklayers strike is in part responsible for that result as it has led to greater caution in planning improvements. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.0@2.10c. from store, and Refined at 2.10@2.45c.; Rods, round and square, 2.20@2.35c.; Bands, 2.50@2.60c.; Norway Nail Rods, 5¼@6c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.80@3.10c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig somewhat unsettled, but, as a rule, the tendency was favorable to buyers, and stock could not be placed in quantity except at a shading on cost. We quote at about 3⅝@3¾c. per lb., according to brand and the size of invoice handled. The manufactures of lead are steady and quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6¼c.; and sheet, 7¼c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has been irregular on speculative manipulation, but the actual consumptive demand small, and buyers contesting hard for every possible fractional advantage. We quote at 18@18⅞c. for Straits, 18¾@19c. for Australian, 19⅛@19⅝ for English, and 20@20⅛c. for Banca. Tin Plates have been selling moderately in small lots against which the supply and assortment was fair and holders generally quite willing to accept former rates. We quote I. C. Charcoal, third class assortment, $5.15@5.35 for Allaway grade, and $5.75@5 87½ for Melyn grade; for each additional X add $1.25 and $1.50 respectively; I. C. Coke, $4 85@4.90 for B. V. grade; $4.95@5.00 for J. B. grade; Charcoal terne, $4.75@5.00 for Allaway and Dean grades 14x20; $9.75@10.00 for do. 20x28; Coke terne, $4.55@4 60 for Glais grade 14x20, and $9.50@9.55 for do. 20x28—all in round lots. Spelter not very active, but the supply under good control, and owners holding with somewhat greater steadiness. We quote at 4½@4⅝c. for domestic and foreign, according to brand, quantity, etc. Sheet Zinc finding about an average outlet and ruling steady. We quote at 5⅞@7c., according to quality, quantity, etc.

NAILS.—The general market still fails to develop fully satisfactory animation, and many of the trade may be heard complaining. There is however some improvement in the demand from several sources, and a feeling of greater hope is to be found gradually gaining headway. The offering, both as to quantity and assortment, continues quite equal to all necessities, and is likely to for some time to come, but is under good enough control to prevent direct or positive pressure, and a hardening on value is among the immediate expectations of many sellers. We quote at $2.30 @ $2.40 per keg for 10d to 60d, according to quantity, and car lots might possibly be bought lower.

PAINT, OILS, ETC.—Retailers show greater need of stock, and while their orders are not large, they are in many ways expanding the outlet. The selection, too, is cautious and does not run into goods upon which there is the least doubt of early resale, the preference being to handle everything outside of standard grade on special orders. Cost generally remains as before and with a slightly hardening tendency. Linseed oil has remained steady and sold very well at 55@56 for domestic and 57@59 for foreign. Spirits Turpentine not very active, but somewhat firmer at 32@33½ per gallon according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—Buyers are calling for moderate amounts of stock for regular wants and find a sufficient supply available at about old cost. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

J. H. Bunnell & Co.'s
ELECTRIC DOOR OPENERS

PATENTED APRIL 29, 1884; other Patents Applied For.

A large number of J. H. BUNNELL & Co.'s Electric Door-Openers are now in use in apartment houses in this city. Experience demonstrates their great practical superiority over the usual kind known as "the Mechanical Door-Opener."

With the Electric Door-Opener, the front door is instantly unlatched by simply pressing an electrical button, placed wherever convenience requires it; and as the connection can be made with any number of buttons, they may be so located that the door may be unlatched from any point on any floor of the largest house with equal ease.

This Electric Door-Opener completely obviates all the well known difficulties and expenses arising from the stretching and repairing of "pull-wires," as the work is perfectly performed by the electric current which passes through stationary wires

Architects and owners are invited to inspect the operation of this device at our office, or at any of the apartment houses where it is in use. For information, prices, or reference regarding those in use, communications addressed to us will be promptly answered by mail or personal call by our Agents, who will also furnish estimates upon other electrical work of every description.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

The frost to the north and east of us early last week chilled the stock market. It made the bull operators apprehensive that the next visitation might strike the corn-growing region of the West and Northwest. Should there be frost in any part of the corn belt within the next two weeks, the bears would soon get possession of the market. Luckily the corn is some two weeks in advance of its growth last year, and if there is no serious frost up to the 15th of September we are tolerably sure of a yield of nearly two billion bushels of corn which, if secured, will "whoop up" prices on the Stock Exchange. All the recent reports are very good, but it has been a cool summer here East, and an untimely cold wave is among the possibilities.

The events likely to affect the stock market are, first, the fate of the corn crop. This will be settled by the second week in September, and then look out for a decided rise or fall, the former if the crop is a good one and the latter if it proves a partial failure. The next thing to affect the market will be the result of the State elections preceding the struggle in November. If the Republicans do well in Maine, Vermont, West Virginia and Ohio, it will be interpreted favorably by the street, as it will end the free trade agitation for a couple of years. Cleveland, it is conceded, would be a safe President, but his election would encourage the free traders to reopen the tariff question, and that, Wall street infers, would be bad for business.

As the news from China comes through English channels, and as John Bull just now is anything but friendly to his nearest neighbor on the continent, we may expect that the doings of France in the far East will be put in the worst possible light. A repulse will be called a defeat and a victory a massacre. The American press should be on its guard in this matter. But, of course, in this Chinese war France is as clearly in the wrong as was England in the bombardment of Alexandria and the attack on Araby Bey. It was plunder in one case and black-mail in the other. The sympathies of the civilized world ought to be with China. Of course she will be whipped in the end, but it is to be hoped that she will fight with enough vigor to make other nations reluctant to attack her without cause. China is in far better trim to defend her shores than is the United States, for she has a modern navy and many Krupp guns, while we are absolutely defenseless, for which Robeson and the Republicans and Randall and the Democrats are about equally to blame.

It is exasperating to some Americans at least that all the great powers should be intent upon extending their commerce while the United States looks on supinely. We have no ships, no colonies, no navy nor prospect of either. Yet here is France, Germany and Great Britain annexing distant territories, founding colonies at the antipodes, and subsidizing steamship lines to all parts of the world. We have no foreign policy for we have neither ships nor navy of our own; hence our political discussions are contemptibly low in tone and temper. The political press of the day is divided into two camps; one trying to prove Mr. Blaine a rascal and the other Mr. Cleveland a libertine. Our national issues gives them no better themes to discuss.

Joseph J. O'Donohue is said to be John Kelly's candidate for next Mayor of New York. Should the Democrats of all factions agree on O'Donohue, Kelly, it is said, will support Cleveland. If the bargain is made all good citizens should unite to elect a better candidate for Mayor. Mr. O'Donohue is personally honest; indeed what popularity he possesses is due to his having acted as treasurer for certain religious bodies, but he is no more fit to be Mayor than Maud S. is to be Pope of Rome. John Kelly has missed it every time in his selection of a Mayor. All of his candidates have turned against him, from Wickham to Edson. He appears to have hit upon O'Donohue because of the latter's conspicuous incapacity in transacting public business. The present Mayor would fill the bill far better. He may not be an ideal chief magistrate, but he has had a very hard part to fill, which was to serve the public without offending the Aldermen. As the latter will be stripped of the confirming power after this year, we believe Mr. Edson would make excellent appointments and win the good will of the community. If a new man is needed, why not Charles A. Dana or Oswald Ottendorfer. Still the ideal candidate would be Theodore Roosevelt. To him we are indebted for the reform in the city government, and he ought to be given a chance to prove that he is as good an executive officer as he has been a legislator.

On the West Side.

The one-sided development of Manhattan Island is a standing subject of wonder to the comparatively unfortunate people who bought land on the west side twenty or thirty years ago, some of which is still available as goat-pasture or market garden, while corresponding sites on the east side are occupied for miles with populous tenements. There are a great many explanations of the discrepancy possible, and some of them are frequently offered. The ultimate explanation probably is that people capable and desirous of owning elegant villas are not so numerous as people who are compelled to live in tenement houses.

The elevated road, which has built up Yorkville solidly and is rapidly filling up the space still left between that eminence and Harlem flats, has, of course, given a fillip to building on the west side also. In proportion to the total building activity the amount of architectural interest is much the same on both sides. You may walk for many blocks on either side without seeing anything of which you have not seen many blocks before. When the Riverside Drive comes fully into fashionable use, it is to be hoped that the architectural opportunities, the use of which will make or mar the avenue for which nature has done so much, may be intrusted to good hands. If the building consists of detached or semi-detached villas, as it is to be hoped it may, the chances for skilful and picturesque design will be very much better than if we are to have a repetition of unbroken street fronts.

There is time enough, however, to think about all that, although the new quarter cannot be too early committed to a systematic and uniform plan of improvement, and the West Side Association might properly take the subject in hand. In the meantime, after we go beyond the very interesting "Dakotah" apartment house, and the not less interesting row of houses behind it by the same architect, Mr. Hardenbergh, there is not much of interest or promise.

An apartment house at the corner of Ninth avenue and Ninety-eighth street is a striking illustration of a conjunction which we have pointed out in other cases of absolutely commonplace architecture with skilful and artistic decoration. Each front is composed of two ends flanking a slightly recessed centre, the centre having five openings in each story and each end two. The openings of the basement are round arches of stone, with shafts of polished granite in the pavilions. Then come four stories of square-headed openings, and then a balcony, not yet in place, though the shapeless iron brackets which are to carry it are visible. Above this are too more stories, emphasized by pilasters at the angles of the pavilions. These pilasters are furnished with capitals in sheet metal, very meagre in design and mean in effect. So far there is nothing worthy of the slightest notice in the building. The decoration is confined to the basement and the openings of the pavilions. These latter are closed with enormous flat arches in terra cotta, simulating triple keystones, and above each is a pediment of the same material enclosing a mask. This feature, essentially ugly and meaningless as it is, is nevertheless carried out correctly enough in the style of Louis Treize.

The really artistic work occurs in the decoration of the spandril of the basement, and consists of groups of objects arranged with grace and modelled with great skill and spirit in Italian Renaissance. It is quite impossible that the designer of the architecture proper could have had anything to do with the design of the detail, and there is a queer incongruity in plastering these pretty bits of modelling upon the expressionless face of this building. The good modelling is absolutely without relation to the structure and therefore without architectural significance, and this fact, though in itself a fault, is fortunate when the discrepancy is so wide as it is here.

On Eighty-fifth street, near the Boulevard, is a round and straightforward piece of brickwork, a chapel to a church which is yet to be built. In its isolated state it naturally looks ungainly, but of course that is not to be imputed to the designer as a fault. What is built is a two-story edifice with an unusually steep roof and of which only a narrow street front is "treated." This consists of a subordinate basement with three small pointed arches grouped at its centre, and a principal story with large traceried windows aligned over the openings below. The wall is of selected common brick of a good color, made more effective by contrast with the more vivid red of the pressed brick and terra cotta which are used in conjunction with it. The arches are composed of pressed brick which is also used in occasional belts, while the tracery of the upper windows is in terra cotta, which is also used in a diaper ornament as the filling of the spandrils of the upper windows. This enrichment is very good in itself and serves to relieve the wall of monotony, although it has not by itself the full effect which may be expected when the edifice of which this is a dependency is completed, and it takes its place as part of a system of decoration. The fragment gives promise of an interesting building.

One of the great advantages of the extreme west side is that it has escaped the rectangular ravages of those public malefactors—the commissioners of 1807. The Bloomingdale road, like Broadway, of which it is a continuation, was too important to be wiped out when the gridiron was extended over the rest of the island, as grievous an eyesore as it must have been to the commissioners when they beheld their map and thought how much better it would have been had the island been accurately rectangular and absolutely level. The result is that the Boulevard will offer opportunities to architects hereafter, and even the maker of brick boxes cannot make his boxes quite so monotonous when they have to stand at acute or obtuse angles.

Our Prophetic Department.

QUERIST—I see it is claimed that the problem of aerial navigation has been solved by Captain Renard, of the French army, who succeeded at Muedon with a cigar-shaped balloon in working against the wind, the motive power being a ten horse power electric accumulator.

SIR O.—Yes, I noticed that THE RECORD AND GUIDE was the first paper on this side of the ocean to see the importance of the brief telegraphic dispatch announcing the fact in the journals of Friday week last. By the Sunday following, however, the American press learned of the interest the event excited in Europe, and since then have had articles giving some faint idea of the importance of the matter.

QUERIST—Do you think that much money and effort will now be spent in air ship ventures?

SIR O.—I really believe we are on the eve of an earnest and widespread effort by inventors and enterprising wealthy men to solve all the problems connected with aerial navigation. We live in an inventive and speculative era, and there is something about aerial navigation that appeals not only to the hope of gain, but to the imagination of mankind. Before the close of this century tens of millions of dollars and thousands of lives will be sacrificed so that the race can have as complete control of the air as it has of land and water in travelling from one point to another.

QUERIST—But look at the very slow progress of ballooning. It is 101 years since the Mongolfiers ascended by means of hot air. Since then thousands of balloons have been sent up of hydrogen gas, but their great bulk and lightness made them the sport of the air currents. Scarcely any progress was made up to the time Captain Renard made use of the electric accumulator invented by Faure, and improved by Siemens.

SIR O.—That is true, but luckily the science and invention of the age has solved so many problems in electricity that we are now in a position to use it to advantage as a motive power, not only on land and water, but through the air. The days of steam as a motor seem to be numbered; electricity or some other motor is destined to take its place.

QUERIST—But will gas be used in the air ships of the future? Birds and insects get through the atmosphere in twelve different ways without using gas at all; sometimes by the aid of powerful wings, such as those of the eagle, the vulture or the hawk, at other times by a thin extended membrane, such as that of the butterfly and numerous insects. Must man utilize something different from anything in nature and use a gas as well as a motive unknown to the birds which travel through the air?

SIR O.—It would seem so. Man's methods are not always those of nature. I am inclined to believe that the perfected air ship will not need to use gas. It has long been predicted that whenever a motive power could be created that would overcome the weight of the machinery that generated it then the problem of aerial navigation was solved. If a steam engine could raise a machine containing a man and altogether—engine, machine and man—not weighing over 300 pounds, why the problem is solved. But unfortunately boilers, engines and coal are so weighty that you cannot produce power enough to overcome their gravity. But the electric accumulator does not need coal and generates great power compared with its weight. Its prime defect is its inability to create new power, hence the Renard machine can stay in the air but four hours, the accumulators then having to be recharged with electricity.

QUERIST—You think, then, that the wiser inventors will confine their investigations to the motive power rather than to the shape of the balloon or the making it buoyant with gas?

SIR O.—Yes, though I think it likely for the time gas will be found useful. I have supposed that a metal like aluminum for instance would replace silk. Aluminum is very light, inoxidizable, and no gas could escape from it. With this metal the machine would not tear and it could stand hard knocks.

QUERIST—But the point is not how balloons are to be made or what the motive power is to be, but what marked changes will be effected by aerial navigation. Will not the air ships be a standing bear argument against railway stock?

SIR O.—The present generation of speculators will, I judge, have passed away before the passenger air vessel is able to compete with the Pullman car, and yet I have no doubt we shall in our own day see prodigious efforts made to perfect machines for getting through the air. It may be the gigantic speculation of the close of this century. See what millions of capital have been created to handle the telegraph, the telephone and the electric light. But for every dollar of stock created by these three inventions you will see a thousand put into the capital of companies that will aim at navigating the atmosphere.

QUERIST—You seem to dwell upon this point.

SIR O.—Yes, because it is the only obvious one. It is what will most interest wealthy and enterprising people. He who owns stock in an aerial company based on a patent for a successful machine will be in luck. I hardly like to speculate upon the changes which aerial navigation will bring about in the travel and business of the world. It is curious to notice that in Europe the chief interest is in army and navy circles. It is the use that can be made of air vessels to destroy cities, inspect hostile camps and fortresses, and throw destructive missiles into an enemy's ship of war. Captain Renard declares that he can construct a machine which will convey a hundred soldiers through the air. Perhaps aerial science may be benefited by organized bureaus, such as that of the army and navy departments, conducting the first experiments. But clearly the larger use of the air ship will not be for war and destruction but for man's happiness and convenience. It will make all parts of the earth accessible to him. There will be no "dark continents" when air ships abound, and the mystery not only of the North but of the South Pole will have been solved just as soon as it is possible to travel a thousand miles through the atmosphere. Of course one change will be in the spread of population. As it is easier to fly from hill-top to hill-top than from valley to valley, the latter will lose in population and the former gain. If the aerostat should become as cheap for travellers as the sailing vessel, why may not man become migratory, like the birds, occupying the more mountainous regions and seacoast in summer and more tropical climes in winter. Of course all this seems very wild, but we live in an age of scientific marvels and the navigation of the air, if accomplished, would be the most momentous event of all the ages. It will do more to change human conditions than any invention in the past. The use of fire—of iron—the invention of gunpowder and of printing—the discovery of America—all these are land-marks in the history of man, but what are they to the navigation of the air. I am not, I think, expecting too much. I do not see how heavy freight can ever be carried through the atmosphere, but passengers certainly will; but I do not expect that this will be a cheap means of transit. Most of our inventions are costly. The tallow candle is the cheapest form of light; whale oil was an improvement for illuminating purposes. Kerosene, gas, the electric light were better illuminants in the order named, but they were also dearer in the same order. Walking is cheaper than sailing at sea; that costs less than horse power, horse power less than steam power, and the electric motor, while it gives promise of better results, will, in all probability, be the dearest kind of travel. People who take air ships will for many years find it a costly luxury. But it will serve to cheapen other forms of transit.

William Hanson has written a work to show the fallacies in Henry George's "Progress and Poverty." The ground taken is very radical. Not only is land ownership robbery, according to this authority, but the exaction of rent or the taking of interest for the use of money is regarded as utterly unjustifiable. The author is not a lunatic, for he is logical, writes good English, and is very well read on economical subjects. Of course he is a greenbacker and a believer in fiat money. Such writers would hardly be worth noticing if they stood alone, but it cannot be denied that agitators, such as Hanson and George, have made an impression upon a certain class of minds in the country; and then the endorsement of the greenback heresy by the Supreme Court is likely to give these currency and labor reformers a prominence that their vagaries do not deserve. There is little chance, however, of their gaining a sufficient number of proselytes in this country to carry their point. The people who own land and houses and have money out at interest comprise nearly all who amount to much in the community, and though the landless and the moneyless may be the most numerous they have not the intelligence nor the organizing power of the classes which own property. The Henry Georges and the Hansons exist because of the defects of the current political economy. The teachers of the latter have never come to any agreement and they have laid down axioms and given definitions of wealth which seem to warrant the extravagant vaticinations of the land and currency reformers.

Home Decorative Notes.

—Table mats are of very fine white linen with designs of various fruits and vegetables etched thereon with blue or red cotton.

—A new centre piece for the dinner table is in Venetian glass of an opalescent hue, ornamented with fish with golden scales, the piece is in the form of a fish globe with a surrounding receptacle for flowers at the base; when the globe is filled with water the effect is that of gold fish swimming within; around the ball are set fern leaves and water lilies.

—Oxidized silver for table ware is still somewhat used, but is not a very cheerful addition to the table.

—Venetian glass heavily gilded is imported for table uses but is too beautiful and fragile to use habitually.

—Japanese fans of an expensive kind make a very appropriate lunch favor for summer festivities.

—Egg shells crushed into very small pieces and shaken well in decanters three parts filled with water will not only clean them thoroughly but make them look like new.

—Glasses for bouquet favors to be placed beside the plate are long cylinders of heavy cut glass a small sheet of silver foil is folded under the glass for wrapping the stems of the flowers when they are taken from the glass.

—Cut glass punch bowls with ladles of cut crystal are given as wedding gifts and are both elegant and costly.

—A gilded key with a pair of brazen dragons in the ring is a popular fancy for thermometer.

—Silver tea services in imitation of old English fashions are very popular, these are of plain silver with fluted work around the base.

—Smelling bottles are made of long tapering cut glass, some of them ten and twelve inches, with silver tops, the latest freak of fancy, however, is the rose-tinted and exquisitely delicate cameo ware with oxidized silver tops.

—A corner cupboard that has solid unglazed doors would gain in richness by the insides of the doors being covered with choice bits of old Venetian leather, thus when such doors are opened and laid back against either wall the warm, fine color would be a valuable adjunct to the brilliant beauties of shelved treasures, such as rare, old china, glass or silver.

—Umbrella stands can be made from stove pipe painted black and decorated on the outside with sprays of bright flowers hand painted; a large bunch of bright red poppies is very effective.

—A very elegant drawing-room screen is one worked upon a dark green satin of the best quality and framed and mounted in dark green plush; the design is a splendid stalk of Japanese lilies with foliage worked in arrasene throughout; upon the second panel is a well-drawn bough of apple blossoms; the same pink and white shades are employed for both flowers and a tint of rich red velvet is used for the broad petals of the Japanese lily.

—Nothing does so much to make a room cheerful as a little china or trifles of the kind, and hence all such objects should be brought into our homes with this purpose solely in view and not with the idea of converting an apartment into a shop or a museum.

—The chandelier that fills so large a place in drawing-rooms generally, is not commonly, an artistic object, and it has impressed many persons as so essentially ugly that they have ordered it out of their rooms and substituted brass sconces with candles; many of these wall lamps are of great beauty, a very rich set is of opal and rose-tinted glass fixed in brazen sconces highly polished and fitted into frames of beveled mirrors.

—Three Turkish pipes fastened together with bright ribbons forms a novel newspaper rack.

—Japanese gauze and the most exquisitely-tinted Verona silks are used for vestibule drapery.

—There is a Renaissance of antique furniture, from designs containing indiscriminately all the examples of the Byzantine scroll work, Moorish tracery and interlacings, scrolled shields and harp and fiddle shapes, to the primitive tables, chairs and other furniture used by the Pilgrims.

—A vast amount of the breakage amongst glass and crockery can be prevented by the simple precaution of placing lamp chimneys, tumblers and such articles in a pot filled with cold water to which some common table salt has been added; boil the water well, and then allow it to cool slowly; when the articles are taken out and washed they will resist any sudden changes of temperature.

—Fashionable English ware has dark colors, such as blue, black, brown and dark red for borders, the scroll work being in gold.

—Quite pretty fancy frames can be made from the wood of the sweet gum tree tacked on to an old frame with bark and varnished over; the bark of the sweet gum tree is very peculiar, being so rough as to resemble carved wood work, so it can be easily laid on in imitation of what is most in vogue at present in the way of carved wooden frames, and the effect will be similar; the color, a rich dark brown, is very suitable for a frame.

—Old-fashioned linen sampler canvas is greatly used for the covers of pin-cushions.

—By rubbing with a damp flannel dipped in whiting, the brown discolorations may be taken off cups in which custards have been baked.

—The fashion of having odd pieces on the table is now reaching the highest point, all the glassware is of different, rare patterns; with this fashion it is not so easy to make such a pretty effect as in that of having a variety in the china, as to make a really beautiful display with one's glass it would be necessary to possess the purse of a millionaire; at ladies' lunches, where often it is more desirable to have the conversation of the lighter kind rather than that which might stir up a perplexing discussion, the bric-a-brac lunch table serves a very desirable and useful end.

What They Say in Wall Street.

That all the recent disquieting financial news, the rate cutting and the like is due to the Vanderbilt following, which went short of the market in June, when, as they supposed, Jay Gould was in extremities and would have to go by the board. They hoped to cover their "shorts" when Gould failed, which he did not do.

That Woerishoeffer was Gould's good angel, paying him five millions in cash for a block of Western Union at 50. This money gave Gould a breathing spell until the market turned, and he has reaped large profits since at the expense of the "shorts," among whom were the Vanderbilt following.

That the Vanderbilts are not yet ready for an upward movement, hence will not settle the Buffalo and West Shore dispute, which they could easily do. But we will hear of wars and rumors of wars in railroad circles until the corn crop is assured, in which case the Vanderbilts must cover their shorts at any sacrifice and help along the "boom" if there is one.

There is a good deal of inquiry at the rooms of the new Real Estate Exchange as to when the building will be completed and ready for occupancy. Architect Hatch expects everything to be in readiness by November 1st, but Mr. Darragh, the builder, is not sanguine as to the early completion of the Exchange. President Ludlow says that the difficulty has been with the great iron girders, which had to be constructed after a certain pattern. It seems they are of an unusually large size, larger and heavier, in fact, than any girders in the Brooklyn bridge. They are, however, now in place but the work is not of a kind that many men can be employed at one time, hence the delay. It is hoped, however, that the fine hall will be completed in time for the first annual meeting of the stockholders in December.

We have it from good authority that with true public spirit the celebrated artist, Bierstadt, intends to form an arboretum of California trees in the triangular park at Thirty-second street and Broadway. Bierstadt's name and fame are identified with California scenery, and when he thus acts the part of the good citizen beautifying the city of his home, this neat little park should be named after him, Bierstadt Park.

Mechanic's Lien.

A case of much interest to owners and builders has just been decided by Edward B. Merrill, Esq., referee, in the case of Bowne vs. Correll. On July 24, 1882, Benjamin F. Bowne contracted with Frederick Correll, owner, to perform the mason work of two apartment houses in this city in forty-eight working days for $6,775, payable in five installments, each payable on the production of the architect's certificate, the owner to furnish materials. The contractor proceeded with his work, but did not complete it within forty-eight working days. He was paid the first, second, third and the larger part of the fourth installment without the certificate of the architect being required. About December 1, 1882, he demanded the balance of the fourth installment, whereupon the owner required the architect's certificate. This the contractor demanded of the architect, but a formal certificate was refused him. At this time the area work and preparation of the halls for tiling remained undone. The contractor offered to do the same but the owner refused to do the preparatory work and notified the contractor that he should not permit the area to be built until the following spring. Thereupon the contractor filed his lien for the balance of his contract, less what he considered a reasonable sum to complete the work and for certain extra work. The owner set up as defences, delay, failure to complete the work, abandonment, failure to obtain architect's certificate and various alleged defects and omissions in the work, and counter claimed $3,000 damages for non-performance and delay. The referee sustaining the claims of plaintiff, held that the delay was caused by matters for which the owner was responsible, that the refusal to give the certificate was unreasonable, and the production of it thereby rendered unnecessary, that the owner waived complete performance by neglecting to do preparatory work, and refusing to permit the work to be completed within a reasonable time, and that the contractor had substantially completed his contract and was entitled to recover the balance of the contract price less a reasonable sum to complete the work. Upon digging out trenches an old excavation was developed, and the referee also hold that the contractor was entitled to recover as extra work for greater depth of foundations than shown by the plans in spite of general clause in specifications referring to building walls from rock bed, a definite depth being shown by plans and specifications containing a clause referring to a depth of foundations. He accordingly overruled the defendant's counter claims and awarded plaintiff the amount unpaid on the contract (less $129, as the reasonable value of completing the work under the contract), and his bill for extra work together with the costs of the action. John L. Shirley and Richard L. Sweezy appeared as attorney and counsel for the plaintiff, and Thornton, Earle & Kiendl, for defendant.

Real Estate Department.

Although business continues dull there is a hopeful feeling at the brokers' offices. All the dealers in town say there is a good deal of inquiry not only for houses but for lots liable to early improvement. A great deal will depend upon the renting market for suites of rooms in the new apartment houses. It is estimated that fully 3,000 suites never before occupied will be offered to rent this fall. It is too early to predict what effect this will have, but the impression seems to be that the supply will be greater than the demand. But, as in everything else, there will be a survival of the fittest, that is to say, the most attractive and the relatively cheapest will be rented and those with inferior accommodations and in undesirable localities will go over until spring. It is clear that this season will test the kind of apartments which are best suited to New Yorkers. There will be a wide liberty of choice in location as well as in price. We fear there will be some disappointment among persons who invested their money unwisely in this class of buildings.

The Real Estate Exchange was never so dull as during the past week. Up to Friday there was but one sale. However, everyone expects matters to mend soon, as the brokers are returning from their summer haunts. The fall renting season will not open until towards the end of September.

The comparative figures of the number of Conveyances last week with the corresponding week of last year shows more transactions, but a less outlay. This is the last week of summer, and the tables which we will give next week will show quite an advance over last summer. It is quite safe to predict that the business of this coming fall will be larger than that of last fall. Here is last week's table:

CONVEYANCES.

John H. Hardy has sold to Lorentz Weiher three lots on the east side of Eighth avenue, commencing 25.3 feet south of One Hundred and Twenty-third street, for $21,250. Mr. Hardy purchased this property last July for $18,000.

L. Froehlich has sold for James Fettrich the five-story new brick tenement house, No. 151 Norfolk street, size 25x84x100, to Julius J. Lyons, for about $30,000.

Wilmurt & Jarvis have sold the three-story high stoop brown stone dwelling, No. 148 West One Hundred and Thirtieth street, to R. S. Jones, for $17,000.

A superb residence on the Canada side of Niagara Falls is advertised in another part of this paper. It is known as Clark Hill, and it is claimed to be the most picturesque spot in the Dominion. Excursion tickets to Niagara Falls are cheap just now and those who visit that region would do well to look in upon this property.

Brooklyn.

W. F. Corwith has sold the house and lot No. 207 Eckford street to Anton Roski, for $3,500.

The Academy of Music in this city is being redecorated and improved under the direction of Mr. Kimball, of Kimball & Wisedell. The walls and ceiling, heretofore bare of ornament, will be covered with stencils of Moorish design, produced in various colors, picked out with gold, silver and copper bronzes. The fronts of the balcony and gallery are to be covered with a new geometrical design in relief, made of fibrous plaster. A new box will be added at each end of the balcony. The arrangement of the proscenium boxes will be changed so as to give an additional tier. The lower part of the house is to be reseated with improved chairs, and richly upholstered. The details of the work are carried out by Mr. W. H. Day. No changes have before been made in the decoration since the Academy was built.

Out Among the Builders.

Henry J. Dudley has the plans under way for the erection of a Catholic church on the north side of One Hundred and Fiftieth street, between Third and Fourth avenues. The material will be of granite, and the dimension of the building 102x144. The same architect has the sketches for two five-story brown stone flats, to be erected for S. Haberman, on One Hundred and Thirteenth street, commencing 130 feet west of Fourth avenue.

John C. Burne is engaged upon the plans for seven five-story brick and brown stone tenements and stores, 26x84 each, to be erected on the southeast corner of One Hundred and Thirteenth street and Fourth avenue. The two corner buildings will have stores. The estimated cost of this improvement to the owner, William Henderson, is $120,000.

John Brandt has the plans under way for the following buildings: Two five-story brown stone flats and stores, 25x80 each, to be erected at Nos. 410 and 412 West Seventeenth street, for Elizabeth Seitz, at a cost of about $35,000; a five-story brown stone tenement and store, 25x85, on the east side of First avenue, commencing 51 feet south of Seventy-fourth street, for Peter McManus, to cost $18,000, and a three-story brick dwelling, 25x50, on the south side of Seventy-sixth street, commencing 123 feet east of Avenue A, for E. Miller, to cost about $5,000.

Julius Kastner is at work on the designs for four five-story brick and brown stone flats, 25x85 each, to be erected at Nos. 511 to 517 West Sixty-first street, for Louis Reichardt, at a cost of about $70,000. The same architect has the plans for two five-story brick and brown stone tenements, 25x82 each, to be erected at Nos. 442 and 444 West Fifty-fourth street, for the same owner at a cost of about $34,000.

Mayor H. L. Timken is about to erect a four-story hotel and flat on the southeast corner of Hudson and Third streets, Hoboken, N. J., covering a frontage of 78 feet on the one street and 79 on the other. The material will be of Philadelphia brick and brown stone, the estimated cost being $60,000. The architect is Julius Kastner, of New York.

Benjamin Sire will shortly commence the erection of a five-story store and office building, 53x56, on the southwest corner of Fulton and Front streets. The material will be of Philadelphia brick with stone trimmings, and the cost $50,000. The plans are being drawn by W. Graul. The same architect has the designs for a five-story brick and stone carriage factory, 25x87, to be erected at No. 142 Eldridge street, for Peter Reidenbach, at a cost of about $19,000. The building will contain an elevator. Mr. Graul is also preparing the sketches for a number of interior and exterior alterations to the Cosmopolitan Theatre, Broadway and Twenty-first street, to include an enclosure for the promenade on the roof for the winter months. Estimated cost about $12,000.

J. F. Burrows has the sketches on the boards for three five-story brick and brown stone flats and stores, 25x60 each, to be erected on the east side of Eighth avenue, commencing 25.3 feet south of One Hundred and Twenty-third street, for Lorentz Weiher, at a cost of $33,000.

Richard Mock will shortly commence the erection of a five-story tenement and store, 21.3x87, at No. 786 Eighth avenue, to cost about $21,000.

The plans and specifications for the construction of the much needed stations at Eighteenth and Twenty-eighth streets on the line of the Sixth avenue elevated road are being prepared. It will be at least eight weeks hence before work will be commenced.

Brooklyn.

E. F. Gaylor has plans in hand for two five-story brick stores and flats, 25x50 each, to be erected on the east side of First street, near Grand; owner, Mr. Allers.

At the next meeting of the directors of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) some action will be taken anent the delinquent subscribers. There are some fifteen persons who have not paid up their subscriptions. In most of the cases the certificates were transferred through careless and irresponsible brokers, and although the officers of the Exchange have worked for two months past, they cannot find who now own the certificates. The officers of the Exchange are forced under the law to sell the shares of the delinquent subscribers at public auction. The original subscribers will be held in the event of the final bids not being sufficient to cover the par value.

In the suit of Charles Lichtenberg against Elizabeth Herkfelder, the General Term of the Supreme Court have again affirmed the old doctrine of the law that before a creditor can begin an action to set aside a fraudulent conveyance of real estate by a dishonest debtor (who conveys to his wife, for instance), the creditor must not only get a judgment against the debtor, but must issue an execution, although he may know that the debtor has nothing, and wait sixty days or so till the sheriff returns the execution "nothing found," by that time of course the property has been sold to some innocent third party, and the purchase money has disappeared. This is one of those exasperating humbug logical theories of the law that operate in favor of dishonesty. Mr. Chief Justice Davis disagreed with the majority of the court upon the sensible ground that in that suit the issuing and return of an execution would be an absolutely useless and idle ceremony, and that it is a maxim of law and equity that it will not demand a vain thing. This latter is the view our courts ought long ago to have adopted.

Perhaps nothing could better illustrate the extreme depression in business enterprise in Cuba than the fact that at present there are no fewer than four thousand untenanted houses in Havana, and that elsewhere in the island real estate is so depressed that many houses are let free of rent, with not a few instances of buildings actually being torn down in order to sell the materials.

Special Notices.

Reid & Gallatly, of No. 5 West Twenty-seventh street, advertise for business property which they desire to lease, and require a number of houses and tenements for investors. They also have a house to lease on Fifth avenue, above Twenty-seventh street.

All who want hard pine lumber and timber would do well to call at Room 136, Temple Court, at the office of the Coosawhatchie Rice and Yellow Timber Company, where they can make advantageous purchases.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—In all general particulars the market for Common Hards remains much the same as noted for several weeks past. Some little irregularity on price is quoted from time to time but only of a fractional character and on a balance struck for any fairly testing given period would probably show but little positive advantage for either buyer or seller. Following our last there was another small advance made in a few instances but of late that is barely maintained and, while the reaction scarcely takes quotable form, the sharp edge appears to be off the market somewhat. Actual consumption has not increased to any great extent and the dealer since last week's hardening on cost appear less inclined to store stock. Arrivals also have been a trifle fuller and buyers obtained a little gain through that fact. After all, however, it is splitting hairs to fix any significant change in the situation and we find that most operators still make 5.25@6.50 the general range, though on Up Rivers 12½ and in a few cases 25c. more is mentioned on the best stock, a great deal of which is useful at the difference in cost as compared with Haverstraws, though the latter must, as usual, be resorted to when certain conditions of quality are required. Advices from primary points indicate more or less irregularity of action among manufacturers, some pushing work sharply and others moving somewhat indifferently but none as yet giving token of having reached the period when a total suspension of operations is deemed judicious. Pales have been meeting with somewhat better sale and the supply kept down to narrower compass, though prices do not change and quotations range at $2.50@3.50, with now and then an extra fine lot 25@50c. per M higher.

GLASS.—Business is not very active and is confined in the main to regular trade orders, both as to size and assortments. Sellers, however, claim to be doing quite as much business as usual at this time of the year and with no abundance of stock to take care of values are preserved on a steady basis with little or no difficulty.

HARDWARE.—The movement seems to be of an irregular character. Some dealers report a good business, others considerable animation and still others complain of a falling off in trade. It is, however, probably due largely to the sections with which current dealings are taking place, as consumption is variable throughout the country and buyers generally still confine their orders just as closely to actual shown wants as it is possible for them to figure. Few important changes in list rates are announced and it is the fashion to call prices steady but the evidences are strong that either on direct "cutting" or some other form of making allowances buyers obtain many little advantages.

LATH.—The talk of receivers about getting higher figures, as noted in our last, appears to be fully justified by results, and there is an advance shown of plump 10c. per M, bringing the rate up to $2.25, and at that the close is firm. Quite fair arrivals were shown from both Maine and the Provinces, but all were taken and more wanted, with several cargoes afloat already under engagement. Local dealers have made the best customers, but an out-of-town demand is felt and promises further expansion.

LIME.—The "next arrivals" came in very soon after our last, and the promised advance of 5c. per bbl. was promptly made, bringing the rates on Rockland up to $1 and $1.20 respectively for common and finishing. This gain has since been fully and readily maintained, with a fair demand prevailing, and while receipts present and prospective are fair, agents apprehend no difficulty in disposing of them all.

LUMBER.—The usual weekly canvass of the market fails to develop much, if any, variation from the reports previously obtained. Taken as a whole the yard trade makes a very respectable aggregate and embraces a good average assortment of stock, but the business still shows an uneven distribution and is of an irregular character. Some dealers grumble at the very suggestion of animation among their neighbors or competitors, while others express surprise that there should be any serious complaint and again assert that their sales and deliveries are quite as full as could be expected at this season, and express confidence in a continuance of the movement. A judicious selection of stock to commence with and superior facilities for delivery, coupled with a careful catering to special outlets, in a great many cases account for a good business. On prices there is also a wide difference of opinion, so much so as to make it quite a difficult matter to arrive at a solid positive basis of quotations and figures of a conservative nature can only be given. This irregularity on cost, however, is a very natural sequence of the existing state of affairs, as quantity of stock handled, time and form of settlement, security and general financial standing of customers are all matters to be taken into consideration, and sellers take greater or less risk according to their judgment and anxiety to place goods. So far as the wholesale market is concerned it is probably safe to say that there is not at present any natural open outlet waiting to exhaust goods when offered. Goods that arrive coastwise seeking a market are as a rule placed, through careful management, without seriously disturbing the line of valuation for some time current, provided quality is first class and useful, and where conditions are "off" a proper shading will secure a sale, but customers have to be waited upon, and receivers and commission men earn every cent they make in handling supplies at the present time. Agents from the interior do not appear to be quite so successful on the average run of stock, even low figures failing to attract, but in a few instances buyers have been found to appreciate extra fine assortments of well-seasoned goods, and taken them as a safe addition to accumulations against future wants. Public accounts from primary sources in some instances assume a comparatively firm tone, but through private sources came constant indications of a desire to hear oftener and on a more liberal scale from customers on the seaboard.

Eastern Spruce continues to be worked off in one way or another as it comes to hand, and it is only an unlucky course of winds, etc., tending to bring cargoes to hand in fleets that receivers fear. In such an event it becomes necessary to engage in a large amount of brisk skirmishing in order to place the supply, and with ordinary stuff sure to go low, even the best must occasionally be shaded as a final necessity for closing negotiations. Such cuts on price, however, are of an exceptional character and are really good to first-class randoms. There has been no important decline for some little time past, and about former figures are asked on specials. Indeed, while there is no talk of positive reaction the selling interest seems to feel that the shrinkage on values has about reached the end, and that it will be possible to hold the market at least steady for balance of the season. Several buyers act in the same way and when the condition of their business will permit them to handle supplies they can always be depended upon as customers for first-class standard sizes or better. They are thus accumulating a solid useful stock at a cost by no means unreasonable, and on any revival of trade must have a considerable advantage over their less fortunate or less sagacious competitors. Randoms may still be quoted at $11.00@14.00, with occasionally something extra a trifle higher, and up to $16.00@16.50 stand as asking rates on specials.

White Pine finds only the former moderate and uncertain demand. Occasionally exporters appear likely to afford relief, but if they happen to give a few respectable orders it is almost sure to be followed by a sudden withdrawal of all further inquiry, and dealers are not allowing themselves to place any too much dependence upon the foreign trade. On home account the movement is very uncertain and confined to the smallest possible invoices with which buyers can manage to worry along. Especially do we hear complaints over the absence of call from the numerous near-by dependent points that have in former years been found an excellent outlet at this season for a large amount of stock. On prices the tone remains about the same all around, the upper line of quality showing fair steadiness while the lower grades, box boards, shippers, etc., have a weak, unsettled position. Arrivals continue pretty full when the outlet is taken into consideration and stocks are accumulating. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do.

Yellow Pine is in some cases said to be still showing "promising" symptons, but promises on this market have so often proven fallacious that the majority of the trade no longer allow themselves to be influenced by hope, and appear to have settled down into a sort of calm indifference not likely to be disturbed, except by the actual appearance of an improved business. Randoms are wanted only in rare cases to fill out yard assortments, specials are called for in a desultory sort of way, and the f. o. b. export trade is of a doubtful tone. To meet all demand also there is a continued surplus of sellers, and competition keeps the selling interest at a decided disadvantage. The end is no clearer than months ago, and probably cannot be reached until either trade takes better form or surplus production is no longer carried on. Some of the yards are a little broken in assortment, but dealers say they will have no trouble in making good deficiencies. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19.50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $21@22; Dry, do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $13@15 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $12@14 for rough, and $20@21 for dressed.

Hardwoods are without generally satisfactory movement, and about the only sure sale is for the rare offering of extra fine and choice stock. Simply fine or only fair qualities are slow and irregular, and here is a great deal of riff-raff for which the sale is simply a matter of luck. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M.; ash, $33@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

Shingles are selling to some extent f. o. b. at the South for export, and there is a little foreign trade here, but as a rule the market lacks animation, and values have an unsettled nominal sort of tone. We quote Cypress at $8.0 @8.50 per M. for 5x20 and $11.00@12.00 do. for 6x20 regularly assorted shipping. Pine shipping stock $2.00@2.50 for 18 inch, and Eastern saw grades at $2.00@2.50 for 16 inch, as to quality and to quantity. Eastern shaved cedar $4.00 @4.50 per M. Machine dressed cedar shingles quoted as follows: for 30 inch, $15.00@20.00 for A, and $23@28.50 for No. 1; for 24 inch, $13.00@15 for A and $18.50@20.50 for No. 1; for 20 inch, $8@9.50 for A and $11.00@12.50 for No. 1.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending August 26 as follows:

There have been more buyers in the market than last week, and a fair amount of sales have been made. The shipments have been considerable, including one barge for New Haven carrying about 700,000 feet of pine and several boats going through, with about 190,000 feet each, besides more sailing vessels than have loaded here for some weeks. Prices have been steady within the range of our quotations. From the mills continuous reports are made of shutting down for the season to prevent over-production. Spruce and hemlock are in good stock and are coming in steadily, while sales are fair for the summer trade. Lath are in fair supply and demand. The stock of shingles, though not large, includes all kinds, and moderate sales have been made. Hardwoods are in steady demand, and the supply covers a fair amount of all kinds and qualities, kept up by constant receipts.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

We are aware of sales recently amounting to several million feet, but both seller and buyer seem particularly to desire secrecy in regard to their transactions, being adverse, as they put it, to exposing their business. Of course, when requested to preserve silence, the Gazette undeviatingly pursues such a policy.

As the mills on the river have been forced the entire season to their fullest capacity, and the shipments have continued excessively large, almost undeviately, only one inference can be drawn therefrom, and that is, that an enormous amount of lumber has changed hands, and the volume of business has been simply immense, notwithstanding the continuous growl of dissatisfaction which is indulged in by nearly every mill man one meets in his peregrinations in search of information. The manufacture of lumber in the Saginaw Valley has exceeded the shipments, and it is safe to assert that the docks are being daily loaded more heavily, and at present contain more lumber than was ever in pile on the Saginaw River.

There is nothing new to note in regard to prices, the sales reported running the scale as usual from $7.50, $15 and $35 to $10, $20 and $40 under inspection.

CHICAGO.

AT THE DOCKS.—The arrivals at the docks have been but moderate during the week. From six to ten cargoes have been offered each day, and have been sold under the influence of a fair demand.

The demand for piece stuff is declared to be good by the commission men. The effect of limited arrivals and an improved shipping demand at the yards has been to make the inquiry for piece stuff more urgent and harden prices. Sales have, as a consequence, been effected with less trouble than two or three weeks ago. The commission men say that it is not as hard work to dispose of desirable stock as it was a short time since. While they do not quote higher prices, they say that there is more firmness and quicker sales at outside prices. There is less insisting on concessions; more lumber sells for $8.50 than last week, and there is less effort on the part of buyers to force the price below $8.25. It is probable that the critical period has passed as regards dimension lumber, and that hereafter holders will have but little difficulty in realizing the present range of prices. This must be said, however, that much of the stuff to come forward hereafter is likely to be partly or wholly dry, and that yard dealers can afford to pay more for it than for the green lumber that came directly from the saws in June.

The larger portion of late arrivals has been No. 2 inch lumber, which continues to sell at $9 to $11.

Quotations are as follows:

Piece stuff, green	$8 25@ 9 50
Long timbers, green	10 00@10 50
Coarse common	9 00@ 9 50
Boards and strips, No. 2, green	9 50@11 00
" medium, green	11 00@13 00
" No. 1, green	15 00@18 00
High grade	18 00@24 00

It is gratifying to be able to report a slight improvement in some lines of hardwoods, and to feel some confidence that such gains are the precursors of a permanent change for the better. It may be that it is only a spurt which will die away again, and certainly it is not marked, but the season is coming when more lumber should move, and there are signs which seem to indicate that the turning point has been reached. This improvement has not yet resulted in any quotable change in prices, but that must follow if the consumptive demand should be large enough to occasion a brisk trade.

Two-inch cherry is still scarce, and choice walnut is the same. It is the opinion of many well informed dealers that limited quantities of the latter wood would find sale here at prices equal to those offered east, but qualities would have to be guaranteed, as it has for so long a time been a practice of the mills and country dealers to throw any kind of stock on this market, that the dealers are suspicious of almost every offer, and make low offers to guard against the almost inevitable poor quality of lumber shipped here in fulfillment of contracts.

A subject that has been heretofore touched on in these reports is worthy of repetition, and that is the fraudulent log run lumber that is often shipped. Not only is it wrong to pick out the best boards from that grade, unless it may be the very choicest wide pieces —and even that is questionable—but it is unfair to sort the logs. Some concerns pick out the finest logs and ship the lumber made from them east as log run, and then cut up the remainder for this market. When a dealer buys log run lumber he has a right to expect to get the lumber just as it comes from the average log, mill culls out; but when the best logs or the best boards are taken out he is cheated on the grades. No other term than that of "fraudulent" is applicable to such a transaction.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Owing to the continuance of harvesting and immensely hot weather the lumber trade is of a necessity dull. But the crops are magnificent, the wheat nearly all in the stack. The corn never gave firmer promise. These facts tend to give confidence in values in spite of the large or overstock. Prices remain unchanged for the month and are not likely to recede during the next month.

We are assured that the lumbermen along the river from St. Louis to St. Paul feel that they have not a board more than they will need to supply the trade they anticipate. The trade is certainly dull but gaining this month. The movement of logs and raft lumber is almost suspended and will not be resumed this year. It seems safe to predict that the log cut of the Northwest will be reduced from 25 to 40 per cent. on last winter's cut and this fact will contribute much to restore confidence and a raise in prices this fall.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

Prices for the unsorted and third quality Bathurst pine ex Resolute, which were sold on Wednesday, were very poor, the 3x11 and wide stuff going from £5 10s. to £6; spruce from the same port going at £3 10s. and upward, according to quality, &c. The Quebec pine ex Rota, however, exhibited prices more in keeping with those ruling outside, though low enough.

The little lot of first Michigan regulars by this ship that realized £25 5s. were decidedly cheap, and the third at £9 also were quite 10s. lower than are now current in the market. The 13-foot went at £8 10s and £8 15s. This cargo seemed a mixed one, as some third dry floated regulars were also lotted with the others, these latter fetching similar prices.

American black walnut is quiet, and the stock is accumulating; much of it is of very ordinary character, though we notice some good tiers. This class of wood is always appreciated by the trade, but it is the small poor logs which are so difficult and unsatisfactory to handle. Several parcels of squares have lately arrived and appear to be very good.

American Whitewood.—The stock is still further increased; it includes many handsome logs, and a considerable quantity of prime plank stuff of all thicknesses, and we are really surprised that this wood at so moderate a price as it can now be bought does not make more rapid headway.

American Oak.—Some prime logs are now landing, but we doubt whether they will find a ready sale, there having been a large stock of handsome grown logs, wainscot and plank stuff on hand for a considerable time past, but there seem to have been comparatively few buyers.

NAILS.—Trade is a little better in some cases, but the improvement not as full or as general as hoped for, and the market by no means in a really firm position. Low ruling rates and plenty of stock still turning up whenever a call is made induces manufacturers to keep the production down as close as possible, but sectional jealousy and competition prevent any combined effort to positively control the output. Values are more or less unsettled, and the cost varies continually, according to immediate governing influences, but on the general range the figures may be placed at about $2.30@2.35 per keg for 10d. to 60d., according to quantity.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Demand cannot be called active or decided, but there is more of it in one way or another, and dealers' reports are correspondingly cheerful. Supplies offered for selection show an assortment well qualified to satisfy all ordinary wants, and there has been no direct attempt to add to cost, but holders in the great majority of cases are firm at full former figures. Linseed Oil in fairly active demand and steadily held at 54@55 for domestic, and 57 @59 for foreign. Spirits Turpentine somewhat irregular, but on the whole in buyers' favor, closing at 31½@ 33c., according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—The movement about up to the average on home account, with some little call for export, and prices ruling fairly steady. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

SEPTEMBER 6, 1884.

The stock market still hesitates. It is awaiting news from the corn fields. If there should be no early frost there will be little or no falling off in values, but the recovery to any higher prices will be slow, even if all the crops turn out better than is expected. The liquidation we have passed through has been so serious that a prompt recovery of confidence is not to be expected. But an assurance of plenty of food and the materials for clothing will be a good thing in itself and eventually help the general trade of the country.

The scientists who are in convention at Philadelphia are to be commiserated. That city in summer time is one of the hottest localities this side of Hades. Visitors to the Centennial Exhibition in the summer of 1876 will recall how suffocatingly hot and unwholesome was the chief city of Pennsylvania. It is a pleasant enough place in the fall and spring seasons, and all who visit its noble Fairmont Park are sure to come away with pleasant reminiscences, but the city's situation is so enclosed that in warm weather it is a very uncomfortable place. Yet at this hot season an electrical exhibition is under way and quite a number of distinguished British scientists are at another convention and will go back with a most erroneous idea of our climate. New York is the place to hold conventions in summer time. No one need be hot here for more than a few hours, as Long Branch and Coney Island and other cool places are only a few miles away.

The last Legislature authorized the appointment of a commission to thoroughly inspect our city tenement houses. The work has been commenced, and the five inspectors who have been employed have thoroughly examined over two hundred houses. One inspector will give a detailed report of the plumbing, and Dr. Anna E. Daniels is making a special study of the effect of tenement life on the health of women and children, also in how far cigar making and other employments are detrimental to health.

This commission ought to collect some very valuable statistics, but there is danger that sentimentalists and people with preconceived theories may use the reports for unwise purposes. Our State and local government should see to it that all residences, for both rich and poor, are properly constructed. Fever nests and unwholesome habitations should not be tolerated in any civilized community. But we protest in advance against any official recognition of views such as those of Prof. Adler, who wishes to reduce rents for the poor by artificial machinery. Reducing the profits of landlords would simply put a stop to house building and the improvements of the tenements themselves. If capitalists cannot be sure of the same return for money invested in tenement building as in other business, they will abandon that field to the eventual disadvantage of the poor themselves.

The true solution of the tenement house question, as of the labor problem itself, is to thoroughly educate the children of the poorer members of the community, and then to pay laborers a fair day's wages for a fair day's work. If the working people are intelligent, they will know enough not to live in unwholesome quarters, and if they are in receipt of good wages, they can afford to pay reasonable rents for comfortable apartments.

Germany is forging to the front as a great colonizing and maritime power. Chancellor Bismarck and Premier Ferry have apparently entered into an alliance to compete with Great Britain in annexing distant regions and opening up countries to a commerce other than that controlled by British capital. It is now very clear that the Madagascar, Tonquin and Chinese wars were entered into by the French government at the instigation of the great German statesman. Kossuth, the Hungarian, is reported as saying that France "has no future as a colonizing power." History endorses his judgment on that point. It would seem as if the French conquests abroad must finally fall into the hands of Germany. The latter, though as yet confined to an inland territory, undoubtedly possesses the people and the genius for an extended commerce, and for planting colonies in distant regions. Already there is an angry feeling between Germany and Great Britain, due to the newly developed maritime enterprise of the former, and the time may come when there will be a collision between these two powers.

A city paper suggests that the United States may eventually profit by the war between France and China—but how? We have no ships of our own, and what is quite as needful for a foreign trade, no coaling stations in the Pacific Ocean. Were any American statesman to propose the annexation of the Sandwich Islands or the purchase of a port or ports on the coast of Asia, to lay the foundation for future maritime enterprize, the cry of "job" would be raised by all the newspapers and he would be driven from public life. Until there is a change in the public temper our government will never dream of emulating that of Great Britain, Germany and France in endeavoring to extend our commerce and secure positions in distant seas where our vessels could find a refuge and secure needed supplies.

The leading tax payers were conspicuous by their absence from the mass meeting to protest against the action of the Aldermen in giving away the franchise for a horse-car line in Broadway, but of course all good citizens sympathized with the object of the meeting. The Aldermen were, in all human probability, bribed for the votes they gave for that measure, and if New York was a frontier town they would have stood a good chance of being lynched for their misconduct. At the same time it will not be an unmixed misfortune if "Jake" Sharpe and the Seventh avenue company get the franchise. It will rid Broadway of the omnibus nuisance, and down-town passengers can reach the upper part of the city by the Broadway and Seventh avenue connection on the west side. This could not be done by an independent company. The offer of the cable company of $1,000,000 was probably a bluff, but the cable system has not as yet been tried in New York. If once established upon Broadway it might interfere with other and greater improvements, such for instance as the proposed Arcade road. But the whole matter is a muddle and a disgrace to the local government of the city. It will result, however, in still further curtailing the power of the Aldermen, which we have always regarded as desirable.

The Paulist Fathers' Church.

The unfinished church of St. Paul, at Ninth avenue and Sixtieth street, is one of the most noteworthy of the new buildings on the west side, or indeed in the city. The architect is Mr. O'Rourke, of Newark.

It is not, however, the architecture of the church that is the most noticeable fact about it, but the extraordinary solidity, massiveness and costliness of the construction. It is of great size, the total length being 285 feet, the breadth outside being 125 feet, and inside 112, of which 60 feet are given to the nave and 26 to each aisle. The thickness of the side walls is thus 6½ feet for each. In the western towers the walls are still thicker. These enormous walls are of solid stone, a fact without any precedent we believe in New York buildings. Brickwork is only used in turning the arches tunnelled through the towers to the central porch and in the clerestory walls, which are lined with brick, though faced on the outside with stone.

It is evident that such a construction must be enormously costly, and one is not surprised to learn that the bare walls which alone are visible, with scarcely any carved decoration and without the towers, have cost half a million. The costliness is increased by the peculiar intractableness of the material, a very dark granite, quarried at Tarrytown. In depth and variety of color, no other granite we know of is equal to it, and, when polished, none would be more effective. Its use here is confined to the facing of the walls, where it is laid up rough faced, the water tables and strings, which are tooled, being of a lighter granite and the wrought work about the openings of limestone. This latter material is the only stone which appears in the interior, where it is used for the nave piers, alternately polygonal and round, the wall surface being everywhere enveloped in plaster. The apparent ceiling of the nave is a plastered barrel vault, the construction of the roof being framed in timber, which in such a span ought to be an impressive piece of architecture if exposed and well designed. Each bay of the aisles is ceiled with a domical vault in wood with an opening at the apex, receiving light from a skylight in the flat aisle roof. These bulls-eyes are the only means of lighting the chapels, one of which occupies each bay, the aisle walls being absolutely blind, and the nave is lighted from the windows of the clerestory alone, which are continued around the pentagonal apse. That part of the aisle which is not absorbed by the chapels is a passageway merely, the seating being apparently designed to be confined to the ample nave.

The church is thus as simple as possible in plan, being without transepts, a nave and aisles of eight bays, with the nave prolonged into a pentagonal apse. It is nevertheless very impressive by sheer force of mass, for the most that can be said in favor of the architecture is that the architect has forborne to fritter away the inherent effect of his masses. The aisle walls, as has been said, are unpierced. Shallow buttresses divide them on the outside and a shallow niche is sunk in the centre of each bay, filled at present with a rubble wall, denoting an intention to decorate the space in future either by carving in relief or by flat decoration, for either of which modes of enrichment the spaces are very well adapted. The towers are virtually solid, also, and each of them is 40 feet square at the base. A deeply-moulded portal pierces each at its base, crowned with a finial. Above this the tower wall is rather panelled than buttressed, the projected piers being in the plane of the wall below and the central wall recessed a few inches only. Two small openings, coupled and deeply modelled, pierce this wall at some distance above the arched doorway, and still further up is a single small lancet. But for these the towers are as yet solid shafts, though two spires are designed to crown them, of which the higher is to attain the height of 365 feet.

The feature of the west front at present is the central archway. This is very wide, very lofty and very deep, its depth enhanced by vigorous modelling of the jamb and arch, the former of which members are to be decorated with three shafts of polished Scotch granite on either side, the work now in place being of a bluish sandstone. Above is another stretch of rubble wall, intended, apparently, to be finished with an arcade of statued niches, and above this is a heavily-pillared arcade of five openings standing clear of the inner wall, which is pierced with five plain lancets corresponding to the openings of the arcade. The front is crowned, not with the gable one expects to see, but with a high pitched roof, the ridge of which is at right angles with the axis of the church and which is hipped at both ends, hiding the main roof of the church.

The architect deserves praise for forbearing to interfere with the impression made by the solidity and severity of the masses. He has nowhere made the most of these advantages except in the deeply modelled porches of the west front, and in the openings which punctuate the massiveness of the towers. The clerestory windows, indeed, are very shallow in effect, being simply splayed, whereas the actual thickness of the wall is sufficient to allow an effect of depth to be produced without elaborate moulding. The detail recalls early French Gothic, though the style is far from being pure, and the buttressing, consisting in applications of flat piers, is more in the character of Italian Romanesque than in any variety of northern work. The entrance to the basement at the west end is incongruous with everything else, being a segmental arch, with a protruding keystone, between panelled pilasters, the details all in Renaissance, and in very bad Renaissance.

The Lawyers vs. the People.

Although our daily press is so completely under the control of our governing lawyer caste that it rarely criticises the legal fraternity, yet the leaders of the bar are beginning to be disquieted at the attitude of the business community toward them. The latter has been complaining bitterly, not only of the law's delay, but of its costliness and its utter inability to enforce justice among men. All the inventions of the day tend to the economizing of money and time, yet the law pays no heed to the spirit of the age, but is as procrastinating and even more expensive that it was when stage coaches were the swiftest means of travel. In transacting their business through exchanges, brokers and dealers are dispensing with the courts in settling their disputes. The commerce of our great cities no longer pays tribute to the lawyer.

When Lord Coleridge was in this country, he pointed out the fact that justice in England was more satisfactorily administered than in the United States and with far less waste of time and money. David Dudley Field has of late frequently called attention to the waste of time and money that our legal machinery imposes upon the corporate interests of the country. This is a subject he understands thoroughly, and his testimony is of value on that point.

Judge Dillon, in his recent address before the American Bar Association, made what is substantially an apology for the shortcomings of our legal system. He acknowledges that "the law in its present condition was fairly open to the threefold objection, of want of certainty, of want of publicity, and of want of convenience." This is rather a blind way of stating the case. In point of fact we have too much law and too little justice, and what little we get of the latter costs altogether too much. Judge Dillon does not pretend to tell us how our legal machinery can be reformed. We are in the hands of the lawyers—they are our ruling class. Our judges are lawyers, of course, and so are nearly all our legislators and executives. It is the American legal practitioner who makes our laws in legislative halls, who expounds them from the bench and who executes them as Mayor, Governor or President. No privileged class was ever known to give up voluntarily any of its powers, and there is small chance of any reform until the lawyers lose their monopoly of power. How this is to come about it is hard to tell, for the lawyer is a member of the only profession in this country which is trained for public life. But the world moves and the close of the nineteenth century will witness a revolt in this country against the wasteful, iniquitous and time-killing machinery of our law courts.

The Real Estate Situation.

The following tables will be scanned with interest by dealers and investors who are getting ready for the fall campaign. It will be noticed that a few more buildings were projected during the past month than in the corresponding months of 1882 and 1883. The proposed outlay is a trifle larger than that of last year, but not quite so large as in 1882. There are a few more new buildings to be erected east of the Central Park than in the August of 1883, while the proposed outlay in that quarter this year is largely in excess of last year, showing that a costlier style of building is being erected. The conveyances during the past month are in excess of the figures given last year, but the aggregate consideration is not quite so large. More mortgages were given this year than last but the total amount represented is much smaller. The tables show a decided increase of business for the first seven months of this year as compared with the same period last year. Altogether the figures are very satisfactory from a real estate point of view. The following are the tables :

The Future of Railway Travel.

Our railway system bears such a relation to the value of land that it is eminently proper we should discuss it from a real estate point of view. What gives value to land is its nearness to a market or a business centre, and as railways diminish the time between distant points, it follows that they are among the most potent factors in determining values and increasing the price of realty.

The railway system has passed through several phases. At the first the desire of each locality was to get railway communication to the nearest market. The connecting of local into general lines and their final consolidation into trunk lines was next in order. Competing railways and other causes bring about the next great evolution, that is the carriage of freight at a minimum cost. The most surprising as well as encouraging fact in our railway history is the constantly reducing cost of freights on all the great lines of the country. It is admitted that the great trunk lines during the past three years have made little or no profit on food products, especially such as are exported abroad.

The time has now come when further improvements in our railway system are in order. One of these is the lowering of passenger fares, and the other is such improvements in the physical condition of the lines as to give us more rapid transit.

With regard to cheaper fares, it is manifestly unjust to bring a dead hog from Chicago to New York for 75 cents and charge $23 for a man or woman, who require no labor to handle in loading and unloading the cars. The charge for bulky freight such as flour, wood and stone is a mere trifle compared with the fare demanded of a passenger.

The railway companies could afford to do this service at far less than the present price. Great reductions in fares have generally proved advantageous to the railway system. The English railway companies declared they would be ruined when the British Parliament forced them to run workingmen's trains for a halfpenny a mile. But these same Parliamentry trains, as they are called, have proved a veritable bonanza to the railway companies in Great Britain. The day will certainly come when $5 from New York to Chicago will not be regarded as a low price.

As to time consumed, our American lines are far behind those of Great Britain and the continent. William Barnett Le Van, a well-known engineer, gives the following table, showing the superiority of the foreign compared with the swiftest American roads:

FOREIGN ROADS.

Between	Miles.	Minutes.	M. per hour
Manchester and Warrington	16	18	53⅓
Paddington and Swindon	77½	87	53 1-5
Hitchin and Peterborough	44¼	50	53

Dijon and Macon	78¼	112	42

Between	Miles.	Minutes.	M. per hour.
Germantown Junction and Jersey City	84.3	104	49.4
Philadelphia and Jersey City	89.7	113	47.1
Philadelphia and New York	90.7	120	45.1
Jersey City and Philadelphia	89.4	112	47 9
Baltimore and Washington	40	55	43.8

It will be noticed that in this table our great trunk lines like the New York Central do not figure at all. The reason why our trains are not so fast is because of the straighter lines and superior roadbed of the English and continental railways. Our engines are quite as powerful, for on the two principal lines between New York and Philadelphia seventy and eighty miles an hour are made daily on certain sections of the track. It is not made all the way, because of the numerous curves, on which it is not only dangerous but a waste of power to run swift trains. According to Mr. Le Van we ought to make fifty-five miles an hour between New York and Chicago. In other words a train leaving New York at 7 P. M. should reach Chicago by 12 M. next day.

Doubtless the work of consolidating railway systems is not as yet completed. There are many economies to be effected in running great systems of railways under one management. The travelling and the business public are alike benefited by having to deal with one set of officers in all parts of the country. But the evolution of our railway system is in the two directions we have indicated, the lowering of passenger fares and better times between distant points.

The stonecutters are now putting themselves in the wrong. They have struck, not for higher wages or shorter hours, or against a reduction in wages, but because their employers buy their material in the cheapest markets. The men wish to coerce the bosses into purchasing from establishments which employ only union men. This is really a matter which should not concern them at all. The bosses are wise in trying to reduce the cost of building material, and the stonecutters are in the wrong from every point of view. They will lose their time and money and will discourage capitalists from entering into new enterprises. The bricklayers and stonecutters are doing all they can to put a stop to the erection of new buildings, and in this way are injuring the industry by which they earn their bread.

The Sanitary Engineer makes a plea for the lawyers apropos of the legal difficulties put in the way of corporate enterprises, especially in connection with city railways. It argues that notwithstanding the enormous cost and the waste of time, that the litigation is not only necessary but useful in determining the equation between public and private rights. This is an optimistic view to take of the costly and time-killing action of our courts in dealing with local railway enterprises. David Dudley Field, who has profited as much perhaps as any other lawyer by railway litigation, is upon record as saying that the delays and costs of our legal machinery are simply monstrous and must be abated, for there is danger of a popular uprising against courts unless they simplify their methods and cheapen their services.

How flat, stale and unprofitable are the discussions incident to the present presidential contest. There has been no principle at stake; the canvass has become a personal one. St. John makes the only issue, for there is nothing to choose between the platforms of Blaine and Cleveland, while Butler's canvass is a mere hunt for notoriety.

Our Prophetic Department.

QUESTIONER—It looks now as if we shall have a very quiet election. Do you see anything to create a commotion before the voting commences?

SIR ORACLE—I do not. It is a grave fault in our system of government that at certain arbitrary periods our people should be forced to choose new officers. Our election system should be so elastic that when we had secured a satisfactory administration it should not be displaced for the time being. The general feeling is, I think, that President Arthur is governing very well, and that, if there was any legal way of doing it, his administration should be continued until such time as new emergencies called for new men and new measures. The British system is superior to our own in this respect.

QUESTIONER—From what you say I would infer that you think the Republican party would be kept in power if the issues were distinctly drawn and the candidates were equally unexceptionable.

SIR O.—I hardly meant to say that. A study of the political contests since the war shows that the opposition vote is steadily increasing. Compare, for instance, the immense majorities which President Grant received to those of Hayes and Garfield. I am inclined to think that the anti-administration vote to-day is the largest. Had the election taken place immediately after the nomination of Cleveland he would have been elected without a doubt.

QUESTIONER—So you now think that Blaine will be chosen?

SIR O.—I did not say that. This is a very puzzling campaign; even the September and October elections will not tell the story, because of the entirely new factors that will enter into the contest in November. The Butler and the St. John votes represent two unknown quantities in the election problem. At first it looked as if the moral sense of the community was to be arrayed against Blaine because of certain questionable business transactions, but Cleveland's unclean private life puts an end to that issue. Tens of thousands of voters who would gladly have helped to put a reform governor into the White House will hesitate to vote for a man who sends his illegitimate child to an orphan asylum and who incarcerates its mother in a private asylum without due process of law. The religious press as well as the women's papers have, I see, taken strong grounds against the Democratic candidate. As between Blaine and Cleveland the average honest voter is "between the devil and a deep sea."

QUESTIONER—What else strikes you in connection with this election?

SIR O.—You will recollect that in these conversations I have frequently called attention to the changes that have been brought about by civil service reform. I have said it would cripple the political machines by drying up their sources of revenue. The law now forbids office holders from contributing to campaign funds. The "spoils system," if not done away with, is so crippled that but few of the workers and heelers can be promised positions. Now, what do we hear from both Republican and Democratic headquarters? Why, that it is impossible to raise money for necessary campaign expenses; hence the promise of a rather tame election There will be fewer processions and mass meetings, and in all probability a far smaller vote polled.

QUESTIONER—What is the business outlook?

SIR O.—All depends on the corn crop. If there is no frost for the next ten days the outlook will be from fair to middling. In no event do I look for any extraordinary business activity. Prices will continue to droop the world over, for crops are abundant everywhere and production is being limited on account of the shrinkage in values, due to the operation of the gold unit of value in the commercial world. When great stores of silver or gold have been discovered in times past the business of the world has been stimulated wholesomely; but England and Germany, with the countenance of the monied classes in other countries, have by the force of positive law degraded silver from its rank as a money metal to be a commodity, mere merchandise, and a blight has consequently fallen on the business of the whole world. In this connection I wish to call the attention of the public to the following admirable letter which I find in Bradstreet's. There is so much downright falsification about silver in the financial articles of the New York papers that THE RECORD AND GUIDE is doing the community a service in calling attention to the right side of this question whenever it is wisely and temperately presented. Here is the letter:

To the Editor of Bradstreet's:

SIR—Your paper of the 9th reiterates a statement made by it before, to wit.: "That the social forces of the business world have been drawing away from the use of silver as a money metal." It is very curious, if this is so, that the tendency or the fact did not disclose itself for 300 or 3,000 years, more or less, until after Germany and the United States had followed England ten or twelve years ago, in the endeavor to make merchandise of silver by force of law.

You remark again: "As we have repeatedly said, there was never any general demand for the silver dollar by the people of the country. It only existed in the minds of congressional demagogues and a few western editors, backed by the selfish interests of the silver mining interests." If this is true, it is curious with what a whirlwind silver was remonetized when the people discovered what the lenders of money had done in the matter; how feeble was the President's veto and all the owlish wisdom of the gold oracles against the popular tide and how flatly have fallen all their warnings since, all the recommendations of presidents and introductions of bills to undo what the Bland bill did. Since the first uprising of the people on the subject there has not, it is true, been much that a gold advocate would be likely to interpret as a "popular demand." But it is because the friends of silver have not felt the need of it. All the movements against silver since the status given it by the Bland bill have fallen stillborn. And if you don't think it will be so in the future just watch it.

The world may be approximately divided into borrowers and lenders, the mass being, of course, borrowers. Naturally, the lenders desire to make money scarce so that it will be dear. As naturally, the borrowers desire that it shall be plenty so that it will be cheap. And suppose the question to come to votes, how can you expect the borrowers to feel much trepidation about being outvoted?

Gold and silver, as you know, but never say, are peculiarly adapted, by reason of their qualities, for use as money; almost infinitely more so than any other known substances. Mankind learned this almost before they had any laws. The single advantage gold has over silver for such use is that it costs about fifteen times as much labor to get an ounce of it out of the ground as it does to get an ounce of silver. That advantage has been neutralized by providing for certificates to represent it in circulation. And it leaves the advocates of gold not one inch of fair standing room in the argument that I can see.

That is the way the western and southern, and, I dare say, the mass of the eastern people regard it, and they look upon the effort to demonetize it, save as a token coin, and thus to reduce the coin of the world by more than one half, as the effort of the lenders to get an undue advantage of the borrowers—as the effort of the rich to get away from the poor by legislation, and by giving no consideration whatever, a great part of the little they have.

Now suppose the government were to turn all the needed subsidiary coin in the country into bars of absolutely pure gold and silver, stamping these bars and depositing them in safe keeping, and then issue certificates representing them, as it does now representing gold and silver coin, what better currency could there be? what objections could there be to it? what inconvenience would it entail on anybody? Suppose Europe and Asia and America should adopt this system, agreeing upon the ratio between the two metals which prevailed for 300 years prior to about 1870, and which was fixed by natural not by human laws, and under which by the way silver was always at a slight premium over gold; what better monetary system could be devised for the world? If there should not be enough, say that nations agree to issue twice or three times as many dollars in certificates as there are dollars in pure bullion on deposit in their respective treasuries.

It may be said that the world cannot be induced to so agree—certainly it cannot until some nation sets the example. And what nation better situated to do it than the United States? There would be no silver (or gold) to cart around to settle balances, and the world would have an interchangeable currency all around. Do you suppose that through the operation of social forces the business of the world would draw away from such a system? If so, what social forces and why should they? And what risk would the United States incur by adopting such a system for itself?

It seems to me that it is the gold men who are trying to change the laws of nature by imbecile legislation, and that if they could suddenly have their way it would plunge mankind by a quick reduction of values into a distress entirely unprecedented in extent and severity. And all for the benefit of a few who have got too much already, and who exhibit no quality now but greed of more. If it be said that it would be only a relative change in values, that to reduce the specie of the world by 50 per cent. would enhance the value of a farmer's house or day's work as much as it would the specie retained and thus leave things even, why not go on in the same road, withdraw all paper money in circulation, abolish the banks, and leave nothing but gold as a medium of exchange, or, rather, with which to finally settle balances? That the change advocated by the gold men would be disastrous is sufficiently established by history, which shows that the condition of men has been darkest where and when there was the least money. So that, to urge that the change would be but relative does not meet the objection to it. The objection is, to reducing the amount of specie, arbitrarily, by law, for the convenience or gain of the few at the certain expense of the many, and for no other reason, while the need of specie is rapidly increasing with the increase of population and the expansion of business, and the natural supply, if it is not actually decreasing, is at a standstill. That is the impregnable position occupied by the people and the so-called friends of silver, and I believe we shall all be hundreds of years dead before they will be dislodged from it.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 15. O. J. HOLLISTER.

The Manhattan Magazine, a well-conducted and enterprising publication, is, it seems, in some financial trouble. Our Continent is also understood to have been an unsuccessful venture. Magazines in this country generally have a hard time of it. Harper's Monthly and the Century have great circulations and are very profitable, but it is doubtful whether any other magazine published within the last quarter of a century has paid expenses. Most of them are kept alive to advertise the publishing house whose name they bear, but magazine literature generally is voted slow in this fast newspaper age. The trouble with nearly all of these publications is that they are too literary. The successful ones, such as Harper's, are those whose principal feature is illustrated articles, giving valuable information about men, things and places.

Deseronto, Canada, is lighted by gas made out of sawdust. It is claimed that the works show a product of 300,000 feet of gas out of thirty tons of sawdust, at a cost of $106, with by-products of an aggregate value of $101, making the net cost of the gas $5, or 1.66 cents per 1,000 feet.

Home Decorative Notes.

—If there is one thing more delightful in a pleasant retrospect of a visit than another it is when we remember the peculiar and charming atmosphere which pervaded the hospitable home where we have been received as a guest; many homes are cozy and even luxurious, and yet have not that irresistible atmosphere of harmony in all things; some of the grandest rooms in the world are as infelicitous as they are pretentious; it is not splendor the world needs, but homes full of sweetness and simple beauty and should represent as far as is possible the taste and grace of the family.

—A scarf of fine white linen with drawn work and embroidered with geometrical designs in red and white French cotton forms an attractive cover.

—A very pretty and serviceable tidy is made of scarlet felt, with strips of black velvet alternating, on the various strips embroider little fans and all sorts of curious designs in bright and varied colors of silks, finish the bottom of the tidy by pinking the felt, let the velvet strips run down to form a point and put a tassel made of the different colored silks on each point.

—The legs and arms of all fashionable chairs are now covered with plush.

—The conventionalized thistle, worked up in shades of pink filoselle, is one of the newest and favorite designs for a pongee chair back.

—Chamber furniture is little changed, though the tendency is to lower the head board somewhat in order that a picture may hang on the wall, or there may be a canopy draped above it; olive and maple woods are used for light suites and mahogany and cherry for darker woods; silk chintz, in Pompadour colors of pale blue and rose, is used for young ladies' chambers where expense is not considered, while for plainer rooms are repped cretonnes and momie-cloths or inexpensive wool stuffs.

—Opalescent glass, with gold or silver lining, makes a beautiful wall or ceiling decoration.

—It is said that nothing is better to clean silver with than alcohol and ammonia, finishing with a little whiting on a soft cloth.

—An exquisite mantel cover of shaded green plush has a scarf covering the shelf and hanging over each end half way to the floor, these ends are embroidered with very delicate pink roses in ribbon work, the leaves in velours, across the front of the mantel is a straight lambrequin gathered up very short at each corner of the shelf and fastened to the scarf with a large bow of wide pink satin ribbon, across the centre of this lambrequin is a spray of the pink roses, the edge is finished with pink and green plush balls alternating in color.

—For many purposes of decoration and utility metals are becoming exceedingly popular, and where they are not available metallic effects are sought for, bronzes of all styles and colors, blue nickel, copper, iron and brass are cast, stamped or wrought into countless forms of grace, or associated with precious woods, stone and other materials greatly enhance their beauty.

—The most elegant screens are more usually of solid materials than in decorative needle work, stained and opalescent glass, embossed leather and hammered brass are all framed for this purpose.

—Tambourines are converted into receptacles for letters, they are often painted with artistic designs and decorated with colored ribbons.

—A wall banner of myrtle green serge is ornamented with branches of lilacs in arrasene, the fine close blossoms being effectively simulated.

—Immense satisfaction and comfort may be derived from the fact that flies, which are a familiar nuisance, may be effectually dispelled by the use of laurel oil, and it will not only free us of these pests but preserve looking glasses and picture frames when coated with it.

—Verona and Japanese silks are the favorite materials for vestibule curtains.

—Nothing conduces more than black to set off china, especially blue china, old delf and the exquisite bits of Nankin ware; a charming effect is obtained if the background of the cabinet is lined with a warm yellow plush.

—Very pretty shaving cases are made of Bristol board cut in the shape of a palette, with leaves cut in the same shape also and all tied together with narrow ribbon and fastened with a large bow of ribbon containing say three different colors; decorate the outside of the cover with sprays of fruit or flowers in water colors.

—For dining rooms English oak and dark mahogany are the chosen woods; the wood-work of the room should match that of the furniture; the dining table is now square-cornered and of severe style, as all ornament upon it is concealed by the rich cloth of plush with tapestry border.

—Lustra painting makes beautiful effects on lambrequin covers, one recently noticed was of a rich shade of brown velvet, decorated with the sunflower design.

—Very attractive workbaskets are made of macreme cord, they are crocheted in the shape of slippers and are stiffened with white glue, a ribbon is run in and a bow finishes the top of the slipper.

—Gold couchings are so easily done and give so much in return for the labor that they may be unhesitatingly commended to those who wish to embroider, but have not the neatness of touch and the knowledge of color that silk embroidery requires; a very effective scarf toilet cover for a dressing-table is of wine-colored plush, which has at each bend large Renaissance scrolls done solidly in couchings of gold thread; some handsome scarf table covers are made by applying bands of gold cloth on olive plush, on these bands are placed scalloped disks of dark olive, and above these smaller disks of light olive, and each is finished with a heavy couching of different tints of olive filoselle.

Jay Gould's Financial Status.

"I see," said a successful operator to the writer, "that one of your editors shares in the common Wall street belief that Jay Gould was in a very tight place during May and June and came very near failing. Now I do not believe this. It is true the Vanderbilts and their following suppose that Gould was on the point of failing, and they went short of the market expecting to cover at very low figures when that event occurred. The recent depression in the market—the rumors of rate cutting, passenger wars and the like is due to the fact that the Vanderbilts were and are short and did all they could to help the bears. Now I have the best of reasons for believing that outside of his own special stocks Jay Gould has been short of the market since the summer Garfield was shot."

"Surely," said the writer, "that does not seem reasonable. Jay Gould was the greatest manufacturer of new securities on the street. He carried enormous blocks of Southwestern shares—of the Wabashes and Western Union. His every interest was on the side of high prices. In letters and interviews he was always a bull. He was in with Vanderbilt in the "pegging" process, and more than once he has shown a list of his securities to reassure the street and help the bulls. From his holdings and connections he was under bonds to be a bull."

"There is where you and the rest of the 'street' were fooled by Jay Gould. Remember that remarkable man's strongest trait is his ability to conceal his operations. Holding so many securities, it would be only ordinary business prudence for him to go short of other stocks than his own. Now I have reason to believe that for the last three years, if no longer, Gould has had an understanding with Cammack, Woerishoffer and other leading bears. You remember they were together when James R. Keene was nearly ruined in the spring of 1881, and the bear leaders have never gone short of the Gould stocks. This accounts for the story that Woerishoffer came to Gould's assistance in June, taking off his hands a large block of Western Union for cash. Now I have good reason for believing that the short selling of that stock was due to a distinct understanding between Jay Gould and Addison Cammack. Gould wanted to shake out some weak holders of Western Union, and it will be found in the end he owns as much of it as ever he did."

"How and when did Jay Gould quarrel with William H. Vanderbilt?"

"Well, Vanderbilt was so fat a goose that Gould could not resist the temptation to pluck him. He persuaded Vanderbilt to take Union Pacific stock for the control of Western Union. They were together in the "pegging" campaign. The breach occurred early last spring, when Gould was making his Union Pacific deal, during which he succeeded in loading up the Vanderbilts with stock in the 80s that afterwards went down to 28. Gould got out at 70 and over, but was a heavy buyer at the lowest figures; hence the recent deal in that stock. Several things are very sure, and don't you forget it. Jay Gould has been the greatest bear in the street for the last few years, and has made more money in that than on the bull side. He never was in the slightest danger of failing, notwithstanding the general impression to that effect in the street. Then again you may rest assured that William H. Vanderbilt nor any of his following will ever again trust his quondam associate, Jay Gould."

Villard's Houses.

A mechanic who had a contract to do a part of the work on Villard's houses on Madison avenue told a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that the community was not aware of the costliness and splendor of the interior of Mr. Villard's house. He believes it surpasses that of the Vanderbilt houses. The sum spent on interior decoration was simply fabulous. Italian workmen were imported to do much of the finishing. Ornaments were also brought from Italy. Two of the mantels were imported from that country of rare artistic value. No description of the interior has been furnished, but Col. Waring, to advertise himself and his business, had paid for an elaborate account of the plumbing of the building. According to this mechanic, Mr. Horace White and the other trustees will eventually sell these houses to discharge the indebtedness to the contractors employed; but he thought it likely that in the final settlement Mrs. Villard will be found in possession of the principal mansion, which is finished, but the other three now unfinished will probably be sold to outside parties. This same authority was of opinion that the stockholders of the O. T. would never see the $320,000 that Mr. Henry Villard proposed to give when he made the assignment of his real estate to trustees. He has gone abroad for two years, but at the end of that time he will probably be found in possession of his house and a very large private fortune. As president of the Oregon Navigation Co., Mr. Villard will have control of the construction of a magnificent railway depot in Portland, Oregon, also a splendid hotel in the same city.

The American Forestry Congress will meet at Saratoga on September 16th. It promises to be an interesting gathering.

The following topics will be discussed:

1. The mercantile significance of the Adirondack forests for the State of New York.
2. Statistics of deforestation of the Adirondack region.
3. Present condition and comparative value of the Adirondack forests at present and under more systematic management.
4. Attempts at legislation for the benefit of the Adirondack forests.
5. Hydraulic influences of the Adirondack forests.
6. Causes of, and provisions necessary to prevent, destructive fires in the Adirondacks.
7. Management of mountain forests.
8. Methods of re-foresting waste places, mountainous and stony grounds.
9. Forest supplies of the Eastern States.
10. Suggestions for a forest policy of Eastern States.
11. Canada's method of lumbering.
12. "Pruning the forest."
13. Formation and work of Local Forestry Associations.

The first number of Volume XIV. of that admirable law publication, Austin Abbott's "New Cases" (Geo. S Diossy, 231 Broadway, publisher), is full of interesting decisions upon questions of real estate law: there are the cases of Gibbs vs. The New York Life Insurance and Trust Co., and Crousque vs. Quinn, in each of which the Court ordered deeds of property to be set aside and cancelled for undue influence; and a valuable note by Mr. Abbott upon the cancellation of settlement deeds; and the cases of Geo. H. Higgins vs. Hannah W. Higgins, his wife, where the husband, who had put his property in his wife's name, succeeded in having it declared that she held it in trust for him and must account to him for it; and four important landlord and tenant cases about defective plumbing (three of which have indeed been briefly reported in these columns); then there is an interesting Staten Island case, Post vs Kreischer, about the right to oyster fisheries on a man's waterfront, and one on the lien of a vendor of land for the purchase money; besides others on foreign corporations and trusts in wills, etc. Many of our real estate dealers and owners who make the study of real estate a science, as well as many of our subscribers who like to keep posted on interesting points of business, would enjoy reading these reports, which come in monthly parts, and are anything but dry reading.

Real Estate Department.

The hot weather and the continued absence of dealers and investors from the city continues the stagnation in the real estate market. There is little or nothing of importance to chronicle. But the work of the Register's office goes on and the first week in September opens up well. There were 197 transfers last week against 148 for the corresponding week last year. Another hopeful sign is the large sums paid in cash and the smaller mortgage indebtedness compared with last year. Here is the table for the week:

John T. Boyd will open the fall campaign in the Salesroom by selling, under foreclosure, a number of potentially valuable vacant lots on Seventy-sixth street, seven of which will front on the East River and others are on the line of the proposed Avenue B. Some twelve lots and a number of gores are on the west of that line. The sale will take place on Friday, September 12, and the result will be watched eagerly as giving an indication of what the market will be this fall for desirable property in a very improving neighborhood. These lots are well located, and investors will do well to look at the diagram at the office of the auctioneer, No. 71 Liberty street. As this is a Court sale, bids will necessarily be legitimate.

On Tuesday, September 16th, H. Henriques will sell on the Exchange, under order of the Superior Court to partition an estate, the valuable investment property, Nos. 88 and 90 Bowery, No. 144 Hester street and the southeast corner of Hester and Elizabeth streets. This is all valuable store and tenement property, and ought to command eager bidding and good prices. The announcement will be found elsewhere.

Mr. Richard V. Harnett is back in town, and is putting on his harness to do the largest fall business of his life. Among his large sales in the immediate future will be the closing up of the Deane estate, which he will dispose of at the Exchange on September 24th, next. We will probably have more to say about this large sale next week.

Special Notices.

Yellow Curled Pine for Furnishing and Decorating.—Of late years the pitch pine of the South has been frequently used for hardwood trimming in some of our finest residences. Several factories in Paris use it extensively in the manufacture of fancy furniture. The curled yellow pine of Georgia and Florida is very hard and durable, and the natural curling of the wood, when highly polished, gives it an appearance much superior to bird's-eye maple or other hardwoods. Mr. Phillips, whose card will be found on another page, has recently been decorating one of the finest houses on Brooklyn Heights with a very select quality of this wood. It has excited the admiration of those who have inspected it, and been the cause of Mr. Phillips' getting a number of additional orders. He is, we believe, the first in his line in this country who has made this wood a specialty.

Attention is called to the novel announcement of Architect Camp, given elsewhere. This gentleman is a man of ideas, which cannot be said of all his craft.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—So few are the changes it appears almost useless to write a report from week to week. Since our last there has been some little fluctuation in price, but a loss on one day's business would most likely be recovered the next, or vice versa, and on the average neither buyer nor seller could claim any special advantage. If anything, however, the undertone was a little slack, and the evidences appeared to indicate that with any addition to the offering or the least desire to hasten matters on the part of sellers a shading would become absolutely necessary. The top rate on Haverstraws remains at $6.50, and from that there is a graded line of values down to say $5 25 or possibly $5 for the more ordinary grades of Jerseys, though some of the best of the latter are valued well up to rates current on "Up Rivers." The general run of quality continues good, and this keeps prices close together, though anything really fancy or having a special outlet will command a premium above regular rates. On a few additional jobs work has been resumed and actual consumption is possibly a little fuller, but there appears to be some uneasiness over the stonecutters' strike as to its probable influence upon general work. We are told, however, that should anything occur to weaken the market here, shipments will be curtailed in proportion as manufacturers feel that cost is now fully as low as it should go. Storage room at the yards is said to be available to a somewhat larger extent than supposed, and each market is said to have an apportioned limit under the recent compact, upon reaching which the production is to at once stop. Pales continue to sell on the general average of $2.50@3.50 per M., but the demand is uncertain and only develops when buyers can run the stock into prompt consumption.

HARDWARE.—Trade has been dull during the week and the general tone of the market is somewhat slack. On Butts much irregularity has of late developed and one of the leading makers has issued a discount at 60 and 10 per cent. discount on Fast Joint, and 70 and 10 per cent. do. on Loose Pin and Loose Joint. The Planemaker's Association also announce discounts at 15 and 10 per cent. on Fancy Planes, 20 and 10 per cent. on first quality Bench Planes and Plane Irons, and 25 and 10 per cent. on second quality Bench Planes.

LATH.—The advantage has remained with receivers, and another advance is shown on the line of cost, with the market quite firm throughout. While the local demand was the largest, there has been a good representation of buyers from other points, and not only did they take everything available on spot, but bought cargoes afloat, and at the present writing we hear of nothing offering very close at hand. The rate has reached $2.40 per M. and a higher figure is expected on the next sale, as sellers say they can easily retain their grip so long as supplies come to hand gradually and moderately.

LIME.—At the advance noted in our last the market has been well maintained and is still firm at the close. The first full flush of arrivals quickly disappeared, and as cargoes have since come to hand they were steadily absorbed. Shipments at present are understood to be light.

LUMBER.—Any quantity of operators may still be found who can report what they have not done in the way of business, but it is only occasionally we meet with those who appear well satisfied with the situation. The latter appear to be confined mainly to the class of yard dealers before referred to, who are exceptionally fortunate in the description and location of their trade, or to receivers with remarkably fine stuff to offer. Some few buyers continue on the market looking for extra fine parcels, and these they quietly add to the piles already made, and slowly increase accumulation, but of so carefully selected quality as to reduce chances on carrying to a minimum. That, however, is about the only direct demand really existing, and the disposition of cargoes coming to hand depends largely upon the tact and good management of receivers, though the most careful methods do not in all cases insure good prices, even as prices now stand. Efforts to keep the supply low and closely adjusted to the indifferent demand are not successful, as there is an absence of unanimity among manufacturers in this matter, and indeed to many it would be more disastrous to shut down mills entirely than to run at a loss.

Eastern Spruce is handled in about the old form, and presents really nothing new since our last. So long as supplies do not come to hand too freely receivers think they can manage to hold the market about steady, and may, even upon occasion, secure a good price for full dimension stuff, but the outlet cannot be forced, and only a few cargoes form a surplus under which sellers labor at a great disadvantage. Some poor stuff is again reported to have sold at very low figures. Recent advices from the mills lead to the impression that there will be a lighter run of shipments for some little time to come. We quote at $11 @14 for random and $16@16.50 as the average top on specials.

White Pine is fairly well "talked" up in a few cases, but as a rule dealers frankly admit that "there is nothing in the market," and with the exception of extra fine, pretty much all grades may be considered in buyers' favor. Both domestic and foreign calls have proven disappointing either as to volume or the basis upon which buyers were willing to operate, and with strong competition to secure even such demand as does prevail there is not much of an opportunity to infuse any stamina into the market at the moment. Cutting down of production it is hoped will in due time have a beneficial influence. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do.

Yellow Pine labors under about all the old disadvantages, and it is seldom that any attempt at cheerfulness is made. Alleged promising symptoms before alluded to are to a large extent still promises only, and it would require larger demand than could in any way be calculated upon from present indications to overcome and neutralize the anxiety to place stock whenever an opportunity is offered. A manufacturer writing to an agent in this city says "we must run the mills or bust," and that tells about the entire story. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19.50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $20@22; Dry, do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $13@15 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $12@14 for rough, and $20@21 for dressed.

Hardwoods have a steady sort of trade for certain manufacturing and trimming purposes and considerable in the way of medium stock is required to satisfy the outlet. Choice lots also meet with fair attention and are quite firm, especially black walnut. There is, however, too many poor culls and they have no regular market value. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M.; ash, $33@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending September 2 as follows:

The receipts for the week have been of all kinds of lumber, and the stock on the yards is larger than it has been previously during the year, and is probably more than has ever been carried here before. All kinds and qualities can be found in the district. The prices of the lower qualities of pine are somewhat off, but the better qualities are firmly held. The sales and shipments have been considerable, both to the East and South, and embrace all sizes and qualities of pine. Several of the mills in Canada and Michigan have determined to shut down for the season, which will serve to curtail the stock put upon the market. Hemlock and spruce are also in full stock. The sales shipped dressed from the mills to customers on the river and in New York city are larger than usual. Hardwoods continue to arrive by water and rail, and are piled upon the yards to season. The stock here, though not quite as large as is usually carried, is well assorted, and buyers will find all kinds, fit for immediate use. Lath are in good supply and demand. Shingles of all kinds and qualities can be found upon the yards.

THE WEST.

The Chicago Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

All classes of stock have moved off with greater celerity than during July and the first half of August. The market can be characterized as more active than a short time since. Piece stuff is wanted as fast as it arrives. There has not been, all the season, a great glut of offerings in this class of stock, coarse inch lumber having crowded the market out of proportion to dimension. Now that the fall demand is rising the yard merchants begin to look sharper than usual after desirable piece stuff so as to have it in ample supply to maintain their trade. Prices of this description of lumber, though not quotably higher, are firmer. There is more selling at $8.50, and trades at this figure are made with less talk and delay. The period of pounding prices in attempt to break them down below the range of $8.25 and $8.50 appears to have past, buyers contenting themselves by making selections of what they want instead of wasting effort in forcing concessions in prices. The argument now is mainly confined to the quality of the cargoes offered. This feature probably pertains more to piece stuff than to coarse and common inch lumber, because piece stuff is more wanted. Inch lumber offering is still largely of the coarser qualities, and not as quickly sold as piece stuff. Occasionally there is a cargo of good lumber, and such sells readily. The market continues to dispose of all the stuff that is thrown upon it, in a manner exhibited at no other market in the world.

Lake freight rates continue unchanged from our quotations, though the season has arrived when they may be expected to advance. This possibility has a tendency to steady prices of lumber on the market and promote ready sales.

Quotations are as follows:

Piece stuff, green	$8 25@ 8 50
Long timbers, green	10 00@10 50
Coarse common	9 00@ 9 50
Boards and strips, No. 2, green	9 50@11 00
" medium, green	11 00@13 00
" No. 1, green	15 00@18 00
High grade	18 00@24 00

Red oak is still in good demand at prices about $2 per thousand under those for white oak, except some thick stuff which fully holds its own with its more robust brother. Thin red oak, under 2 inches, is rather dull, especially inch stuff. Manufacturers can save on their saw bills and in the value of their output if they will generally saw no thinner than 2 inches. The thick stuff is not so limited in its application. Thin is used mainly for finishing, but thick is also used in a good deal of machinery work where white oak would be the regular material.

Whitewood is showing unwonted strength. Its use seems to be extending in competition with the white pine, for the higher grades of which, for some purposes, it seems to be about the only available substitute. Arrivals are not as large as six months ago, which perhaps is another reason for its firmness.

Maple flooring and strips are meeting with good sale. A number of cargoes have lately been placed at better than the lowest prices. Our quotations on clear cover the general range of the market, but some sales are still made as low as $20, and on the contrary more than our quotations is sometimes paid for extra choice lots.

The Minneapolis Lumberman and Manufacturer as follows:

St. Louis decidedly picking up, the shipments for three days of the week exceeded last year's figures, and a visible increase in the demand is noted, with prices steady. The stocks on hand are some 20 per cent. larger than in 1883, but this only corresponds with the growth of the city and her trade, especially in hardwood and southern pine. In the log market there is more activity, and sawed lumber is not to be had in the raft. This is a new feature in the trade which is liable to annoy dealers along the line who have anticipated a low price and full supply of raft stuff.

Minneapolis, St. Paul and Stillwater are doing more business than they did at the corresponding time last year. Collections are slow, and prices on badly sorted low grade stuff are shaded to suit customers. Uppers take care of themselves at full prices.

Heavy rains have helped out the Minneapolis mills and the log and lumber rafts on the Mississippi

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

Cedar is not much asked for. We believe the cigar box makers are generally well supplied with stock, and for cabinet making purposes it is not wanted except it can be bought at a lower price than mahogony, to which at all times preference is given.

American Black Walnut.—This trade has, we are told, slightly improved of late, notwithstanding heavy arrivals. Good planks of all thicknesses from 1¼ inch upwards, if free from centre and well squared, would sell readily and at good prices. Squares of from 4 to 6 inch cut the right lengths are wanted, but it is very important these should be quite sound, and not like some which we remember to have seen some months back, about which serious complaints were made in consequence of so many being cut from defective centre planks.

American whitewood is selling, but not to any great extent just at present, though very large quantities have been worked up in the piano-forte as well as cabinet-making trades during the last twelve months; and since this wood is generally thought very favorably of in both trades, we shall be surprised if its consumption does not soon become much more general than it is at the present time.

METALS.—Copper—Ingot has continued to meet with an ordinary trade demand, but the outlet offered was hardly full enough to balance the offering and the tone has shown some weakness. The quotation on Lake is modified to 13¾@13¾c., and other range down to 12½@12¾c. Manufactured Copper moderately active and while a certain line of trade rates is named, more or less irregularity in buyers' favor prevails. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary size, over 16 oz. per sq. foot, 22c. per lb.; do. do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 24c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per sq. foot, 27c. per lb.; do., do., lighter than 10 oz. per sq. foot, 29c. per lb.; circles less than 84 inches in diameter, 25c. per lb.; 84 inches in diameter and over, 28c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 25c. per lb.; locomotive fire-box sheets, 23c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 20c. per lb., and Bolt Copper, 23c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig meets with a little more demand, but importers do not appear to calculate quite so closely to the wants of the market, and occasionally find it necessary to place surplus arrivals in store. We quote at $19.00@22.00 per ton according to quantity and brand. American Pig shows very little change. There is a great deal of irregularity in what are known as "outside" marks, but on the standard brands a steady tone is well preserved and there does not appear to be any stock to crowd the outlet. We quote $19.00@20.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry, $18.00@19.00 for No. 2 X do. do., and $16.50@18.00 for gray forge. Old Rails have found an irregular and moderate sale, and while about former figures are named they are to some extent nominal. Scrap Iron has been more or less neglected and the tone of the market continues in buyers' favor. We quote at $18@19 for old tee rails, $20@21 for double heads, $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap ex ship, $21@23 for selected do., $16.50@17.50 for old car wheels, and $19.00@20.00 for crop ends. Steel Rails have again sold with some freedom, owing to a further reduction in cost, and the strong competition to secure going orders prevents any recovery of tone as yet We quote at $27.00@27.50 per ton for heavy sections, according to delivery, etc. Manufactured Iron has a generally dull sort of tone, and is without many really new features. Valuations made about as before, but rates are easy. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.0@2.10c. from store and Refined at 2.10@2.45c.; Rods, round and square 2.20@2.35c.; Bands, 2.50@2.60c.; Norway Nail Rods, 5¼@6c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.80@3.10c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. Lead—Domestic Pig has been slow and weak, some effort was made to sustain the position, but when it came right down to actual sales, buyers asked and obtained the advantage. We quote at about 3½@3⅝c. per lb., according to brand and the size of invoice handled. The manufactures of lead are steady and quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6¼c.; and sheet, 7¼c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. Tin—Pig was not much in favor among speculators during the interval since our last and most of the business on trade wants. The offering fair and supplies ample for all calls, with prices unsettled. We quote at 18⅛@18¼c. for Straits, 18¼@18¾c. for Australian, 19@19⅛ for English, and 19⅛@19¾c. for Banca. Tin Plates meet with a moderate sort of demand and considerable irregularity on value is at times shown, but with a general inclination in buyers' favor. We quote I. C. Charcoal, third class assortment, $5.15@5.25 for Allaway grade, and $5.75@5 85 for Melyn grade; for each additional X add $1.25 and $1.50 respectively; I. C Coke, $4.80@4.82½ for B. V. grade; $4.90@4.92½ for J. B. grade; Charcoal terne, $4 60@4.85 for Allaway and Dean grades 14x20; $9.65@9.80 for do. 20x28; Coke terne, $4.45@4.50 for Glais grade 14x20, and $9.35@9.40 for do. 20x28—all in round lots. Spelter possibly a shade firmer, but the general tone of the market without animation on any outlet at the moment. We quote at 4⅝@4⅞c. for domestic and foreign, according to brand, quantity, etc. Sheet Zinc selling slowly and continues to be held at about old figures. We quote at 6⅞@7c., according to quality, quantity, etc.

NAILS.—Reports differ to some extent, a portion of the trade speaking somewhat more confidently of the general situation, but others, and the majority we think, claiming that the signs of improvement are not as yet sufficiently extensive to work the market into good healthy condition. The supply cannot be brought under perfect control, buyers manifest more or less independence and it is not often that investment takes place beyond immediate and well defined wants. The quotations at the moment show about $2.30@2.35 per keg for 10d. to 60d., according to quantity, and car lots a fraction lower.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—About the former general average demand prevailed and embraced an ordinary assortment with buyers moving promptly so far as their wants required. Beyond that, however, it was difficult to expand the outlet and free investment, even in solidly standard goods, is something of a rarity. Full prices are asked in pretty much all cases and holders of stock appear to be pretty firm. Linseed Oil meets with about an average demand and is quoted steady at 54@55c. for domestic, and 57@58c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine a shade easier and rather dull at about 31@31½c., according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—Fair sales made on the ordinary run of orders, with no special surplus of stock, and holders maintaining a steady position for prices. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

The expected cold wave has come at last, and the fall of temperature has been so rapid that fears are expressed of a possible "cold snap," which may injure the corn crop. Indeed frost is already reported in Dakota and Wyoming, and perhaps may be heard of further east before this paragraph is published. Still it is safe to assume that the corn south of the latitude of Chicago is practically safe in any weather contingency. The enormous interest involved in a good corn crop, and its excellent prospects, have led to oversanguine estimates of its good condition. A great deal of injury will be done, notwithstanding the hopeful talk, if there is frost anytime in September.

"Sir Oracle" explains elsewhere some of the considerations which make a great corn crop so important this season. It will make up for the deficiency due to the low price of wheat in our export trade and will largely increase the income from our provision export, not only next year but the year after. But there are other considerations that more directly affect Wall street. Corn is a far more important factor in increasing railway receipts than wheat. It is bulky and is generally carried a short distance, and hence subject to local rates, thus swelling the revenues of the railway companies. There will be no talk of railway wars after the corn crop begins to move, for the various lines will have so much to do that there will be nothing to dispute about. This year the corn movement in the Southwest will commence earlier than usual, as, tempted by the high price of corn, the farmers are stripping the stalks so that the ears may dry quicker than if they remained out doors to be mellowed by the cool air of the later autumn.

Speaking of corn suggests the name of Abram S. Hewitt. It is to the credit of that statesman that he realized years ago how important that crop was likely to become as an exportable article. He wished the government by all proper means to make foreign populations acquainted with the value of that cereal as an article of food. Since then great progress has been made in that direction. We have a monopoly of corn growing as of cotton growing, and the former is likely in the not distant future to compare with the latter in levying tribute on all nations with whom we have a foreign commerce. In casting about for a worthy candidate from New York, how unfortunate it was for the Democratic party and the nation that it did not think of Abram S. Hewitt.

There is a well-authenticated rumor in political circles that the leaders of the Independent Republican movement, as well as a number of the most distinguished Democrats, have united in a written request, asking Grover Cleveland to reconsider his letter of acceptance and resign in favor of some eminent Democratic statesman whose public career was unspotted and whose private life was without a stain. The surprising result of the Maine election is said to be the occasion for this proposed coup d'etat. It is believed the nomination of Senator Bayard or ex-Senator Thurman would lead to the withdrawal of Butler and the easy defeat of James G. Blaine. The names of George William Curtis, Carl Schurz, Horace White, ex-Senator Eaton, of Connecticut, and several others equally eminent in public life are said to be signers of this unprecedented document.

Assistant-Secretary of the Treasury Coon has received a good deal of unmerited commendation because he refused to permit a public building to be begun in Minnesota which would cost more than the Congressional appropriation. Since the beginning of the government almost Congress has been niggardly in its appropriations for public buildings. All that could be done was to get inadequate sums voted, and then when the structures were half finished ask for more. This was the history of our New York post-office, as well as hundreds of other important buildings. Secretary Coon's interference with the ordinary way of doing business may get him some cheap applause, but it will save nothing and do no good. The public and the press insist upon being humbugged by these pretences of economy in appropriations for public improvements, but the latter we must have and must pay for them.

The name of Alderman Grant is coming to the front as a possible Democratic candidate for Mayor. He has several qualifications. He has plenty of money and is willing to spend it, which will make him popular with the "boys," and he voted against the Broadway franchise being given away, which will commend him to the honest voters. Mayor Edson expects the support of the County Democracy and we really think he would make an excellent chief magistrate of the city under the amendments to the charter passed by the last Legislature. Freed from the domination of the Aldermen and responsible only to the voters he would make wise appointments and cut down expenses wherever he could. The Republican candidate ought to be Theodore Roosevelt. New York should have its young Mayor as well as Brooklyn.

The Commercial Bulletin does not see the point. "After the Aldermen are abolished, what guarantee," it asks, "have we that the single dictator who replaces them will not be chosen by the same corrupt influences?" Of course we shall run the risk of electing Mayors and heads of departments who are corrupt or inefficient, but when things go wrong we shall know whom to blame. It is easy to get at a delinquent Mayor, but a board is irresponsible. It has neither a body to be kicked nor soul to be damned. The path for reform in this age lies in taking away power from legislative bodies and entrusting it to executive heads. We must know whom to punish and whom to reward.

The recent defalcations in bank circles is unsettling the minds of a very safe class of investors. Heretofore wealthy men who have avoided the stock market have felt reasonably safe in purchasing the shares of banking companies, the quotations of which stood very high in the market. It seemed incredible that institutions, the stock of which was 50 or 60 per cent. above par, should be financially rotten, but the disasters to the Marine, the Metropolitan and the New Brunswick banks show that the very best credit is no assurance of wise or honest management. It is this class of investors who will hereafter put their money into real estate. Stocks have depreciated, bonds have become comparatively valueless, and the shares of banking and other companies of high repute have often become worthless, but realty, though subject to many legal burdens, is at least secure. It is safe from stock gambling presidents and absconding cashiers. This is one reason why we look for the steady investment of new money in real estate. The lack of confidence in stocks, bonds, banking and other corporate institutions will pour the surplus savings of the community into real estate, hence we confidently expect a continuance of the improved feeling in real estate not only during this but up to the close of next year.

National Debts.

It is a curious and significant fact that in only two nations in the world is there any effort to reduce the national debts. Since the war we have been rapidly paying off our national obligations. In 1857 the national debt of Great Britain was £863,000,000, or about $4,300,000,000. This has been reduced to £750,000,000, or $3,600,000,000, but as Mr. A. J. Wilson writing from London shows in Bradstreet's, that in the meantime the local debts of England have increased fully $500,000,000 in thirty years' time, hence the burden is quite as great on the British tax-payer as when the national debt was at its maximum. But in other countries than Great Britain and the United States the increase of national obligations have been simply prodigious. The aggregate capital of the national debts of the world twenty-two years ago was in round numbers about $13,000,000,000. Since then the national and State obligations have swollen $15,000,000,000 more, that is $28,000,000,000 in all.

These figures are of special interest to owners of real estate in this country. All taxation for debt-paying comes finally upon land and labor. It is incredible that the people of Europe will ever pay the principal of the national debts now piled upon them. The time will come when the burden will become intolerable. But we present the phenomena in this country of a large and steady reduction of our national debt side by side with the great and growing increase of values in real estate. It is quite true that, as in England, our municipal indebtedness is steadily increasing and taxpayers would do well to organize everywhere to prevent these local burdens from becoming excessive. In the organic law of several of the States in the Union a limit is put to the amount of indebtedness that any city or county may incur. All the States would be wise to adopt some such provision. In Philadelphia the charter prohibits the spending of any money that is not already in the treasury. In other words a special tax must be levied in that city before a new improvement is undertaken. This checks improvements, but it lowers taxation. Our city finances are in anything but a satisfactory situation. We borrow all our money for current city expenses before we collect any tax. We are constructing new aqueducts and entering upon other improvements that will add steadily to our debt for the next ten years. It is to be hoped that the next reform movement will be to prohibit the creation of any debt and to arrange our finances so that we may pay as we go.

Our Prophetic Department.

INTERVIEWER—Why all this talk about the corn crop? It is only one of the many products of the country, and it has never figured very largely in our exports. The hay crop, it is conceded, is of more value. If our people did not raise so much corn would they not turn their attention to other products equally profitable?

SIR ORACLE—Corn is valuable to the United States for the same reason that cotton is. It is a monopoly with us. Cotton, the cheapest material for clothing, can be raised in many tropical and semi-tropical countries, but nowhere can it be grown so cheaply as in the Southern States of this Union. It requires a fertile soil and a hot, moist climate. These conditions exist in greater perfection over a larger area of territory in the Southern States than anywhere else on earth. Then we are near the great market for cotton, which is western Europe, and our railroad and water course systems have been developed so as to give us an immense advantage over India, Egypt and the other cotton-growing regions. So also with corn. It is raised in other parts of the world, but we have practically no competitors in the production of that most important of cereals. True it has not figured very largely in our exports so far, but corn is the basis of our meat supply for the rest of the world. The reason why Wall street looks so eagerly to the corn fields this year is because even in our foreign trade it will more than make up for the low price of the wheat we sell to Europe.

INTERVIEWER—I don't see how you make that out.

SIR O.—In that very admirable publication, the Railroad Gazette, there are some figures given which tell the story of the value of the corn crop this year from an export point of view. In 1869-70 our export of corn was worth less than two and one-quarter million dollars. In 1870-71 they reached $25,000,000. In 1875-76 the corn export amounted to $34,000,000. We reached the highest figure in 1879-80, when the corn export was valued at $53,300,000. The drought of 1881 reduced our export for the last three years to less than $28,000,000 annually. But this does not tell the whole story, for corn is the basis of our provision export. This amounted to $146,200,000 in 1881. The next year it amounted to $114,800,000, in 1882 83 to $99,700,000, and in 1883-84 to $104,600,000. Now if the crop this year be nearly two billion bushels, as it promises to be, the effect will be felt for three years to come, both in our corn and our provision exports. It is estimated that we may not get more than a $100,000,000 for our wheat export next year, but if we have 300,000,000 bushels of corn to export it ought to bring us $170,000,000, and then our provision export may reach $130,000,000. Corn furnishes the cheapest and most nutritious food for both man and beast; it is steadily growing in favor in Europe, and in the long run it will be a far more important product for us than wheat, for the latter is grown everywhere in competition with our farmers. We have a practical monopoly of corn as of cotton.

INTERVIEWER—If we have a corn export of any magnitude, what then?

SIR O.—If we export as much corn and provisions in the year 1885 as we did in 1880 and 1881, it will turn the balance of trade in our favor and we may again be importing gold. The trouble with our new corn is that it does not come to market before December, and its effect on railway earnings will not be experienced before November.

INTERVIEWER—You scarcely expect then to see an import of gold this fall?

SIR O.—Some will come this way I think, but our cotton crop is not very large and it will be three weeks late, while the price of wheat is so low that it will not make much exchange. No, I do not think we shall import much gold this fall, but if anything happens to advance the price of wheat, we ought to import as much gold next spring as we lost last spring.

INTERVIEWER—What do you think of the news from Maine?

SIR O.—It is significant in a number of ways. The enormous prohibition majority marks an era in American politics. It is a notable fact that in every State where the stoppage of the sale of liquor has been an issue apart from politics or preferences for individuals it has had a majority of the popular vote. This has been as true of Iowa and Kansas as of Maine. I venture to say that if the question was put to the American voter shall the sale of spirituous liquors be prohibited as a beverage, that 8,000,000 out of our 12,000,000 citizens would vote for it. The liquor interest is very powerful, and is generally able to so manipulate State legislators as not to permit the naked issue to be presented, but despite the interested efforts of the brewers, distillers and liquor dealers, the question of prohibition has come into American politics to stay there for many long years. Humanitarian and sentimental questions have always appealed strongly to the American voter. We have now no political issues worthy of the name. Our party organizations are in an undisciplined and disruptive condition, hence the time is ripe for the discussion of a topic that appeals strongly to the humanitarian side of popular feeling. Prohibition may not hurt Mr. Blaine's canvass this year, but I misread the signs of the times if four years hence it will not be one of the controlling issues.

INTERVIEWER—I see the Herald thinks the Maine election so disastrous to Mr. Blaine that it confidently predicts Mr. Cleveland's election and goes so far as to make up a cabinet for the latter.

SIR O.—The editor who wrote that article was either a fool himself or he thought his readers were fools. It is quite common for conductors of inferior journals to underrate the intelligence of their patrons. But the average American voter is generally very shrewd. Political arithmetic is a favorite and a widespread study. Every politician knows that the Maine election indicates the final success of Mr. Blaine unless some unforeseen accident should occur.

INTERVIEWER—What are your reasons for so believing?

SIR O.—Every vote cast for the Republican tickets in Vermont and Maine was really a vote for Blaine. A ballot for the Democratic candidates for Governor was really cast for Cleveland. The final counting showed that Blaine in all probability will poll more than Garfield's vote, while Cleveland will not poll Hancock's vote. In the November election, St. John may get from 600,000 to 700,000 votes, the majority being from the Republican party, while Butler may poll 800,000 to 900,000 votes, two-thirds of which will be drawn from the Democratic party. Should Hoadley's majority of last year, some 12,000, be wiped out in the coming October election in Ohio, and I think it will, Blaine will have a walk over in November. He ought to be strong in Ohio, as that was Garfield's State. The one great element of doubt is the German vote. If the Republican Prohibitionists vote for St. John and the German Republicans for Cleveland even Butler cannot save Blaine.

INTERVIEWER—What would be the effect of Cleveland's defeat on politics?

SIR O.—It would, I think, induce parties hereafter to nominate their strongest leaders for presidential candidates instead of unknown men. It is now found that a dark may also be a spotted horse. For one, I am sorry for the Independents. Conscientious "kickers" are an excellent element in any party organization. They prevent a party from getting into evil sources, and are a restraining influence in every way, but men like Curtis and Schurz ruin themselves and their cause when they make choice of a weak or of an immoral candidate.

INTERVIEWER—Granting that Blaine is chosen, will he make a good President?

SIR O.—I confess I am full of gloomy forebodings. He is a man of undeniable ability. He stands head and shoulders above the political leaders of his time; but I fear his ambition and his love of sensational statesmanship. He will pursue dangerous courses and will introduce into public life many conscienceless adventurers. The jobbers, I fear, will hold high carnival.

INTERVIEWER—Well, the election is not yet over and perhaps he may not be chosen.

SIR O.—You are quite right, it is never safe to be too sure of an election in this country.

How the public are humbugged by theatrical managers and the newspapers. Theo, for instance, is brought out as a star without a single quality to commend her to the theatrical public. She cannot sing and never could. She is a very ordinary actress; is not now good looking, for she is fat and over forty. Her only recommendation to a Parisian audience was her apparent demureness and innocence in saying suggestively wicked things. This gave a sause piquant to her otherwise ordinary histronic abilities when she was young and possibly pretty; but these latter attractions are no longer hers. Yet the papers persist in treating her as if she was an actress of some importance.

People who visited Niblo's Garden or the Star Theatre have been forced to pay tribute to the ticket speculators in the lobby, although neither establishment has been full since the first night; indeed, the so-called Seven Ravens has averaged little more than half houses at either place; but nearly one-half of the scant audiences have been fooled into paying extra prices for their seats. The original quarrel of the Kiralfy's with the managers of Niblo's was because of the alleged unfair distribution of the profits derived from the lobby sales when the ballet of "Excelsior" was running. The public ought not to countenance either house, for the outside ticket selling in both establishments is downright swindling.

The English High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, lately refused an injunction asked by an owner of a well against the owner of another well 99 yards off, to restrain the latter from using his well as a cess-pool, as a result of which the water in the well of the former was contaminated and rendered unfit for use; it appeared that both wells must have had a common source of supply; but the Court found that if the complainant did not pump water from his own well no polluted water would flow into it from the defendant's well and that thus the polution was owing to his own act. Rather refined reasoning.

Home Decorative Notes.

—If you are desirous of winter window gardens now is a good time to start them; slips give much better satisfaction than the old and stocky plants.

—A very pretty brush broom case is made by taking a small Japanese fan for the foundation, cover it with blue silk, then cut a piece of pasteboard of the size of the brush broom, cover it with silk and fasten it to the fan; suspend from the wall by the handle of the fan, which should be gilded.

—Emory powder will remove ordinary stains from white ivory knife handles.

—The South Kensington borders form an appropriate decoration for almost any article upon which a horizontal border is in character, they may be executed in solid embroidery or in a combination of outline and solid work; an effective design is a combination of flowers such as lilies and tulips with the scroll pattern; the scrolls should be in outline and the flowers solid and varied in color, imitating the natural tints of the flowers —Willow baskets which have become soiled or discolored may be made very ornamental again by bronzing or gilding them.

—Moss may be secured to the outside of flower pots by wire, and if frequently watered will last a long time.

—Portieres of deep old gold plush are handsome with a band of copper bronze plush, embroidered with a design of dull blue lotus blossoms.

—A unique photographic frame is in the shape of a Gothic gateway, brickwork and ornaments being alike carved in hardwood, oak or mahogany.

—The German linen embroidery is specially suited to scarfs of various kinds, sofa backs, buffet covers, etc.; the material used for the ground work is white linen; the outline of the designs are all defined in stem stitch, with either blue or red cotton; sometimes a double line is made with white cotton, which adds greatly to the general effect; the ends should be finished in fine drawn work and heavily knotted fringe.

—Moths may be exterminated from upholstered work by sprinkling thoroughly the upholstered parts with benzine.

—Bedrooms are now hung in one color and that generally delicate; fringes, cords and tassels to correspond are the only ornamentation.

—Pretty newspaper racks are made of Chinese straw, painted in floral designs with oils, a bunch of poppies forms a bright decoration.

—Wall paper in imitation of tapestry is now made.

—An effective mantel lambrequin for a boudoir may be made of India red cloth, on which are grouped alternately circles cut out of Indian red plush and satin, in one group the plush overlies the satin, in the next the satin is above; when fastened in place by means of gum or of basting threads these circles are secured by a couching of gold thread, and stitches of gold thread of unequal length, the effect of the design may be heightened if a conventional flower is worked in silks here and there in the circles, when finished line with satteen and edge with silk tassels and brass crescents.

—Parquet or ornamental hardwood flooring is now generally adopted in all houses that claim to embrace the modern improvements, or are considered in the first class of modern buildings.

—Sycamore is a popular wood for interior finish.

—The Sheraton furniture is much admired for libraries, the desired pieces consist of a short sofa, square table and large chairs without stuffed covers; mohair, plush, leather and wool tapestry are the materials likewise used for upholstered library sets.

—Birch bark canoes were purchased largely by the ladies at Bar Harbor this summer to be used as simple German favors.

—Many elaborate decorations for rich hangings are shown in floral designs in plush applique, a portiere of olive plush has a broad band of a lighter shade, with a large passion flower and palm leaves in the natural colors.

—Broken china can be mended with a useful glutine made with a piece of old cheese mixed with lime.

—Attractive frames for drawings or water color sketches may be very easily constructed at home in the following manner: first purchase a plain pine frame with a bevelled edge the size desired for the picture, give it a coat of glue size and while wet sprinkle with hominy or rice all but the edges, which are to be left smooth, when quite dry a second coat of glue is necessary, after a few days when completely dry gild it all over with gold paint, which can be purchased in bottles.

—The latest decree of fashion is that hangings, whether for windows or doors, should not match.

—Benares ware may be very readily cleaned by rubbing the article with a soft flannel dipped in lemon juice, and afterwards rinse in weak soda and water.

—Tidies have been replaced by a bow of broad ribbon.

—Instead of carrying china or other plates in pic-nic baskets use the little plates of wood used in stores for butter plates, they take up less room and keep other plates from being nicked or broken.

—Painting upon polished wood is one of the most effective methods of decorating; the background is not so glaring as a gilded one, and it can therefore be used much more abundantly about a room; the woods used are mahogany, black walnut, oak, pear and chestnut; when large surfaces have to be covered, delicate soft-tinted wreaths and arabesque patterns are the favorite designs chosen; for door panels select plants which naturally grow large and straggling, and paint them as if growing up from the bottom panel across the others; the hop design is most effective, and the morning-glory and fleur-de-lis may be used with equal satisfaction.

Financial Points.

Wall street people are talking very seriously about the lively scenes that are about to take place in the Stock Exchange. The corn crop is to be the trump card in the next great game of speculation. In every quarter bull syndicates are forming with a view to putting up in their turn every class of stocks. Everything seems favorable, the coal trade alone excepted. The consumption of coal lags while the necessities of the Reading and New Jersey roads forces them to keep up production as coal at the dock is among the best of collaterals for a bank loan.

But apart from the coalers there is nothing in the way of the coming bull speculation. Wheat and cotton have got to come forward and our fifty-six million of population consume goods enough to insure a large westward movement of freights in the fall season. The corn movement will commence in earnest in November and its effect will be discounted from this time forth.

Next to the corn crop, the street expects that Mr. Vanderbilt and his following will supply a bull impetus of powerful momentum. The Vanderbilts are natural bulls and their recent ventures as bears have not proved profitable. It is said their great card will be an announcement that Erie and West Shore have both become a part of the New York Central system. The old Commodore when living tried to secure Erie, but he was beaten in this by Gould and Fisk, who set their printing press to work and manufactured more Erie stock than he could buy. The Vanderbilts admit that Mr. King is their man and they have driven their ablest enemy in the Erie road, Vice President Blanchard, out of the field. The West Shore road can be had whenever William H. Vanderbilt is ready to take it. With New York Central, Erie and the West Shore under what would practically be one management, the Delaware & Lackawanna opposition can easily be handled. Then will come the hurrah in the Vanderbilt securities and special deals will be made in their minor stocks, such as Erie & Western, C., C., C. & I., Alton & Terre Haute, etc. Although personally hostile, Gould and his contingent will help by advancing his specialties, Western Union, Manhattan and Missouri Pacific, etc.

The great corn crop will, of course, help all the western railways, but more particularly those running through Iowa, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. St. Paul has less corn business than any of the Grangers.

It is also believed in the street that when the next boom takes place Gould will sell out his holdings and take that yacht trip. He has been quietly dropping out of the various directories, his son in some instances taking his place. The elevation of the latter to be vice-president of Western Union shows that his father is transferring to him some of his heavy responsibilities.

How to Improve Coney Island.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Justly popular as is Coney Island, I think it could be made more so by utilizing the eastern section now practically unused and consequently a barren waste. Twenty years ago this eastern end was the only part of the island resorted to. It was then the watering place of the common people. The steamboat excursion cost only twenty-five cents for the round trip. Bathing cost twenty-five cents nearest the landing; but people with less money further along the beach could bathe for fifteen cents, while the "boys" by running up to where West Brighton now is could secure the luxury of a "skin" bath without paying anything. The clam chowders cost from fifteen to twenty cents. So far as expenditure went Coney Island was then all that could be desired for a poor man's watering place. Powerful railroad, steamboat and hotel interests now occupy those parts of Coney Island that were then a waste, and the splendid beach of East Coney Island is discriminated against. Some enterprising capitalists or company ought to get possession of this east end and lay it out picturesquely for the benefit of the poor people who have been forced for some years past to pay the larger figures demanded by the steamboat and railroad people on the middle and west end. A round trip now costs fifty cents, which is a heavy tax on a poor family.

Then on æsthetic grounds I object to the whole regions east of Brighton proper. Money enough has been spent in the neighborhood of the two great piers to make that section one of the most charming resorts in the world for people of modest means; but West Brighton and its surroundings is one of the most vulgar neighborhoods on earth. I don't object to the merry-go-rounds, the elephant and the artificial cow and not even the museums; but the whole region is so lacking in order and proper arrangement that it is positively repulsive.

Then the Iron Steamboat arrangements are very bad. I took a trip on one of the boats during the recent hot weather and it was cruel to see the way women suffered who had infants in arms. They were forced to stand by the half-hour to get on or off the boats, as there were not seating accommodations near the ticket posts.

Let us hope, Mr. Editor, that by next season the east side of the island may be utilized. It has a noble beach, and with one-twentieth of the money spent on West Brighton it could be made a very paradise of a watering place for poor people. It is a pity, by the way, that the whole of Coney Island was not purchased thirty years ago by the municipalities of New York and Brooklyn and turned into a summer resort for the people of both cities. It could have been laid out after some general plan as were the Central and Prospect Parks, and permits sold to railway and steamboat men, hotel and restaurant keepers—restrictions, of course, to be put upon the fare to be charged and the price of food. But it is too late for that now. Even as it is, Coney Island is a blessing to New York and Brooklyn.

OLD NEW YORKER.

Mr. Baranski had a store on Grand street, next door to the store of Rachel Scheyer, and the latter erected a show-case, sign and fence, 8½ feet high and 4 feet wide, out on the sidewalk in front of her store, which obstruction projected beyond the line of the adjoining building, so as to exclude from view Baranski's show-window and store from persons approaching from one side, thus excluding his customers from it, and tending to injure his business. Mr. Baranski tried to get an injunction, but the judge to whom he applied refused it; the General Term of the Supreme Court, Judge Daniels writing the opinion, have reversed this decision, however, and have decided that it was a proper case for an injunction, restraining the continuance and maintenance of the nuisance and illegal obstruction erected by the defendant.

About Staten Island Property.

The recent war between the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company and the Independent Steamboat Company has attracted a good deal of attention to Staten Island. It has been urged by the former that their system will greatly increase the value of property there. Thus far, however, no movement in realty, either improved or unimproved, has developed itself, nor have more than the ordinary number of new plans for cottages or other buildings been drawn. Mr. Alfred Z. Ross, real estate agent, Port Richmond, in a conversation with a representative of this paper, stated that he had had no inquiry for North Shore property in consequence of the Rapid Transit Company's accession to the ferry control. He was not sure that a monopoly of the ferry would be advantageous to the island. What was mainly required was cheap fares. If these were reduced to five cents, it would bring thousands of residents to Staten Island, who would much prefer the thirty to fifty minutes' ride through the bay than a journey of similar length on the elevated roads or street cars, not to speak of the less crowded and healthier location of the island. There were scores of office boys and young ladies who had to pay fifteen cents daily to get to their stores, and this made a great inroad into their salaries. It is true that commutation tickets can be had for $3.50, averaging about six and a-half cents a trip, but this is often too much for the young people to pay in one sum. Hundreds of New Yorkers come to reside on the island every summer, many of them staying from May till October. Most of these were business men, clerks in down-town offices and stores, some of them being journalists, lawyers, and so forth. When Mr. Wiman gets his railway running along the North Shore he will be able to transport passengers and traffic very rapidly to parts of the island at present almost uninhabited, and thus increase the value of property in those sections. There can be no doubt, also, that a railroad will bring population and business in its track on Staten Island, just as it has done everywhere where it has been introduced. It is not to be expected that a "boom" will take place in property suddenly. This must be a gradual process, and the natural situation of Staten Island gives it shipping and harbor advantages which capitalists will not be slow to recognize.

Park Commissioner John D. Crimmins, in a talk with a representative o THE RECORD AND GUIDE, expressed himself as strongly in favor of taking away the heavy traffic from Fifth avenue, from Fifty-ninth to One Hundred and Tenth street, and turning it into a private road of the Central Park to be used by the same vehicles only that are permitted to pass the parkways. He says that residents on that part of Fifth avenue complain strongly of the damage done to furniture and house decoration, and the personal discomfort occasioned on account of the dust created by the brewers' drays, the wagons, carts and other heavy traffic pouring in from Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth avenues from the west, and Second and Third avenues from the east. Property was greatly diminished in value in consequence, and were this proposed Central Park road properly laid out, with a row of trees on the east side of the avenue, and the carriage way limited to light vehicles, and laid out with a clean good pavement, it would enhance the assessable value of property on the route to such an extent as would more than compensate for any expenditure which might be made by the city for these improvements. Besides, the Central Park has become so popular a place for carriage driving that there is barely sufficient room at present, and the restriction of the upper part of Fifth avenue would be welcomed as an additional outlet for the vast concourse of vehicles which traverse the park every afternoon. The heavy traffic might use Fourth or Third avenues, which are the natural thoroughfares for such conveyances, instead of injuring some of the finest property on Fifth avenue.

At a recent meeting of the building committee of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), Architect Hatch made an official statement of the causes for the delay in the alterations in the Liberty street building. He said the work had been retarded by the failure of the Union Iron Foundry to make the necessary castings of the great iron girders which are to support the building above the hall. This had necessitated a loss of some six weeks' time. These girders were larger and stronger than anything of the kind in New York city and perhaps in the country. But they are now in their place and there will be no further excuse for delay. Mr. Cammann asked if the delay would not be compensated for by the chance it gave for the building to settle. In structures hastily erected there was danger that the settling of the building might create alarm, but where there was full time given for the progress of the work there was less danger of its causing trouble after its completion. President Ludlow asked the architect when he thought the building would be ready. Mr. Hatch declined to give any date. If it was a new building it would be easier to tell what time the work would be finished. But where new work was put into an old building it was difficult to foresee all the alterations that would have to be made. He thought, however, that the great hall would be ready for occupancy by the 8th of December, the date designated by the by-laws for the annual meeting of the stockholders. —Real Estate Chronicle.

When a deed of assignment conveyed certain designated property without in terms declaring that the property thus conveyed was all the assignor possessed, except that exempt from forced sale, but the inventory made a part of the assignment and the required oath contained clear and unequivocal declarations that the property conveyed by the deed and named particularly in the inventory was all the estate of every character which he owned except named property exempt from forced sale, the Supreme Court of Texas held (Keating vs. Vaughan) that all the documents should be taken together as constituting the assignment, that the deed should be considered with reference to them, and that the deed was a valid one.

About Our Newspapers.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

As an old journalist, having first commenced writing on the Evening Post in 1854, I am naturally interested in the newspapers of the day. I cannot very well help criticising our existing journals; the comparison they offer to those of a former decade is worthy of some passing remarks.

The daily press of New York was, I think, at its best when James Gordon Bennett, Horace Greeley and Henry J. Raymond were respectively conducting the Herald, Tribune and Times. These, relatively speaking, giants of journalism were instances of a survival of the fittest. They beat their competitors and came to the front by force of superior ability. The invention of the telegraph, however, led to the institution of a monopoly of telegraphic news. This gave the then existing journals a status irrespective of the ability with which they were conducted. When Bennett, Greeley and Raymond died and their papers fell into other hands as inheritances and the law of the survival of the fittest was set aside the result has naturally been that neither the Herald, Tribune nor Times possess anything like the influence or authority they wielded during the lives of their founders.

But the ownership of the Western Union Telegraph by Jay Gould led to changes that have broken down the Associated Press monopoly. In order to increase the revenues of the telegraph company, the newspapers have had the privilege of ordering specials at very cheap rates. The result has been an immense development of special telegraphing. The Associated Press dispatches have no longer any peculiar value. This has resulted not only in the starting of many new papers, but also in the differencing and individualizing of the older journals so far as the news is concerned. In other words there has been competition. Cheap publications have entered the field that have proved so attractive as to run up large circulations. The older papers have been forced to meet this competition by reducing their price one-half, and adopting some of the more popular features of their new rivals in the field of journalism.

But the result is not satisfactory; there in no paper in New York that quite fills the bill. There are better journals in Boston and Chicago than in the metropolis. The mistake made by the Herald, Times and Tribune was in not improving their quality instead of reducing their price. All our papers are inferior. They lack elevation of tone, candor and the ability to tell the truth without equivocation. The Herald under the elder Bennett was not by any means an ideal journal; but it was vivacious, readable and in its news columns absolutely truthful. The Herald of the younger Bennett is a partisan sheet. It abuses Blaine and Butler and supports Cleveland in the temper of any slang whanging country journal. The elder Bennett might have supported Cleveland in his editorial columns, but all the facts about the Maria Halpin scandal would have been honestly given in its news columns. It would have reported Gen. Butler's very clever and amusing speeches, and it would not have used its news columns to give false impressions about any of the candidates. But the same criticism is true of the Tribune and Times. They neither of them can tell the truth about the candidates they oppose nor publish any unpleasant facts respecting the candidates they favor. The Sun has shown more tact and sense in this canvass than any of the other daily papers. Dana, it is said, asked Governor Cleveland to appoint his friend, Bartlett, to some position he aspired to. The request was not heeded. This is said to be Mr. Dana's secret motive for opposing Cleveland. But nothing of this appears in the course of the Sun, which has been dignified, statesmanlike and apparently animated by the highest motives in its anti-Cleveland crusade.

Then there is the Evening Post, so wise, strong and dignified during the life of William Cullen Bryant. That distinguished poet would never have supported Blaine of Mulligan letter fame but he would have cut off his right hand rather than have published the articles which appear now in the Evening Post daily apologizing for incontinence in a candidate for high office.

But the press is in a transition state. The competition has been but just begun and the stronger and wiser papers will come to the front in time. It is a mistake to suppose that as the city grows so will the number of daily papers. There are fewer daily journals in London to-day than when that city had half its present population. The great journal of the future will be a paper full of information, very readable, but above all things it will be truthful. It will give all the facts about public measures and the leading men of the day. It will have its preference in politics but will avoid partisanship.

A RETIRED EDITOR.

Real Estate Department.

For the first time in many weeks we can announce a decided change for the better in the real estate market. Most of the brokers and dealers are back from the country, and they all report an excellent feeling among their customers. The attendance at the Exchange was quite large and the bidding spirited for whatever was offered. This was particularly the case on Tuesday last when a house in Forty-eighth street, near Fifth avenue, was knocked down for $81,500, after a very spirited contest. This was considered a good price for the property. Most of those on the floor looked bronzed from exposure at their seaside and mountain resorts, and many were regretting that they had not remained just one week more so as to escape the torrid temperature of the heated term which did not terminate till Thursday night. Brokers interested in renting residences report an unexpectedly large demand. It is too early as yet to determine whether the supply of houses and apartments will not be larger than the demand, but it is safe to say that all the desirable residences for tenants will be rented by the second week in October. Among the houses just rented may be mentioned the following: No. 16 West Forty-eighth street, 23x60, for $4,800; No. 70 West Forty-sixth street, 25x60, for $4,800, and No. 3 East Forty-first street, 22x60, for $4,200, all being four-story and basement dwellings and partly furnished. A similar house west of Fifth avenue, unfurnished, rented for $3,600.

Among the plans filed during the past week is one for a brick skating rink at the junction of Eighth avenue, Sixty-first street and Broadway. It is to cost $50,000. Still another rink is to be constructed on the southeast corner of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Lexington avenue. It is also to be of brick and to cost $18,000. There are two other large buildings recently projected for athletic purposes.

The Conveyances of last week compared with the corresponding week of last year show an increase in number but the total consideration is smaller; there is a decided increase in the district beyond the Harlem. Money is so easy that capitalists and corporations are glad to lend at 4½ and 5 per cent. on first-class improved property. Six per cent is not asked except for unimproved or second-class property. The following is a table for this week:

Out Among the Builders.

Julius Kastner has the plans under way for extensive alterations and additions to Conrad Stein's brewery on Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh streets, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, to cost from $40,000 to $50,000.

J. M. Merrick has the plans on the boards for altering the two four-story and basement brown stone dwellings, Nos. 5 and 7 East Sixteenth street, into two store buildings, 25x100 each, for D. R. Lyddy, at a cost of about $25,000.

John Brandt has the plans under way for a five-story brick, brown stone and terra cotta tenement, 25x85, to be erected on the north side of Seventy-fifth street, about 150 feet east of Avenue A, for Eva Miller, at a cost of about $18,000.

Cleverdon & Putzel have the plans for the two tenements to be erected for James Fettretch, as mentioned in our last. They will be 27.1½x90 each, lot 103, and will be of brick and brown stone, the cost being estimated at about $34,000. They will be located on the south side of Sixteenth street, 282.8 feet east of Eighth avenue. The above architects also have the designs for a frame hotel, 88x100, to be built at Poland, Panama, for Mr. J. Furth, United States Consul at that place, at a cost of about $30,000.

No designs have yet been drawn or submitted for the new armories. The commission has resolved to make a proposition to F. H. Cossitt and J. D. Godwin for the purchase of the ground bounded by Ninth avenue and Boulevard, Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth streets, containing twenty-two lots, and to F. Yoran for the thirty-two lots bounded by Madison and Fourth avenues, Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth streets. It will be recollected that the Sinking Fund Commissioners have authorized an expenditure of $2,000,000 for grounds and buildings for the new armories. General Shaler informed a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that four architects had already sent in applications to draw designs, but no one has been chosen. It is intended to have a competition so that the commission may be enabled to select the best plan.

It is the intention of the Methodist Episcopal Church Home to erect a spacious building on eight lots on the east side of Tenth avenue, extending from Ninety-second to Ninety-third street. Owing, however, to lack of funds, the institution will be unable to commence the work until next year. The president, Mrs. Bishop Harris, states that the present home at 255 West Forty-second street, would in itself yield a respectable sum, though hitherto the amount subscribed for the new building was quite nominal.

M. W. and J. Bradley intend to improve No. 763 Washington street, 40 x78, by the erection of a couple of tenements.

Theo. de Lemos and A. W. Cordes have the plans for two six-story brick and iron stores, with all improvements, to be erected on Maiden lane by Mr. Charles Knapp. The same architects have the plans for a three-story frame villa in Queen Anne style, 50x40, with stables, conservatory, &c., to be erected at Spuyten Duyvil, for Mr. Leslie.

Jobst Hoffman has the sketches on the boards for a five story brick and brown stone tenement and store, 25x75, to be erected at No. 249 East Tenth street, for Peter Schaeffler, at a cost of about $13,000.

Brooklyn.

E. F. Gaylor has plans under way for four four-story brick flats, 16.8 x55 each, to be erected on the north side of Stagg street, near Graham avenue, for Messrs. H. & H. Reiners, the distillers, at a cost of $6,000 each.

A. Herbert is preparing plans for a four-story brick flat, 30x90.6.

On Monday, October 6, application will be made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of three Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter relative to acquiring title to certain lands in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards for public parks.

Contractors' Notes.

The Mayor has approved of the resolution adopted by the Board of Aldermen authorizing the Board of Police to make the additional necessary alterations, fitting up and repairs to the Union Market, in Houston street, to be occupied as a station house for the Eleventh Precinct Police, the work to be done without advertising for bids.

Obituary.

WILLIAM H. JENKINS.

Wm. H. Jenkins died at the residence of his son in Mount Vernon on Tuesday, after a brief illness. He was well known in the building trade of this city as one of the pioneer manufacturers of mill made doors, sashes and blinds, commencing operations in that line in 1851, and subsequently in partnership with his son expanding the business into large proportions. He has for a number of years been a resident of Larchmont Manor, where funeral services were held on the 11th inst. Interment, 12 inst., at Scituate, Mass.

Special Notices.

A representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called at the rooms of the Gorton Boiler Manufacturing Company, 110 Centre street, where he inspected two of the house-heating steam generators manufactured by them. They are both simple in construction, base burning and made of the best boiler iron. The first shown was formed by two annular vertical boilers, the smaller located within the larger in such a manner as to form an annular flame space between the two boilers, so that the heat comes in direct contact with the outer surface of the smaller and with the inner surface of the larger boilers, the inner surface of the smaller forming, so to speak, the reservoir for coal. The two boilers are connected by hollow tubes, both at bottom and top, so as to allow of a free and easy circulation from one to the other. The whole is encased in a non-conducting galvanized iron jacket, and the heat, after passing between the boilers, is conducted around the outer surface of the larger boiler and inside the jacket to the smoke-pipe, thus exposing the entire outer and inner surface of both boilers to the action of the heat. The second boiler seen shows the use of vertical tubes surrounding the coal reservoir or magazine and above the fire, so that the heat passes through these tubes and down through the outer ones, and thence up between the outer shell of the larger boiler and jackets to the smoke pipe, similar to the first boiler seen. Both boilers are self-feeding. They are furnished with a non-conducting galvanized iron jacket, and no brick or mason work is required in setting. This jacket envelops the boiler, confining the heat to the generation of steam instead of wasting fuel to heat brick mason work. The door opens into the fire at the grate, so that the flames can be seen and clinkers easily raked off. The cast iron tops or covers of the boilers are made in sections, so that parts of them can be removed without disturbing the boilers or attachments, so that the interior of the boilers and the flues can be readily reached for any purpose. All the improved attachments for convenience and safety can be applied to the boilers. The manufacturers state that each one before leaving the factory is thoroughly tested by actual pressure, so that none are shipped in imperfect condition. Experience has taught that for heating purposes, a pressure not exceeding eight pounds to the square inch gives the best results and greatest economy in fuel, and they therefore recommend a safety valve for use that blows off at from six to ten pounds pressure. The Gorton boilers generate steam quickly; they are compact and take small floor space, and are economical in fuel. In cheapness the manufacturers vie with any other wrought iron boilers, exclusive of the cost generally required in setting them in brick. The coal reservoirs are ample to hold coal for from twelve to twenty-four hours, and will keep up steady, continuous heat, without care of fire or shaking of grate more than twice, for twenty-four hours, excepting in very cold weather. A number of testimonials were shown to our representative, among which there are letters from Hayward & Hutchinson, of Washington; Patterson, Smith & Co., Albany, and others. Builders, architects and others interested should call at the rooms of the company at the above address, and inspect the boilers for themselves.

I. P. Frink's reflectors are so widely known and appreciated, that nothing can be said to add to their utility and value. They effectually solve the problem of lighting public buildings, churches and halls, while at the same time affording a means of ventilation. They have been adopted in the Grand Central Depot, and among other buildings where they are in use may be mentioned the Plymouth Church, Brooklyn; Dr. Meredith's church, Boston, and the new Music Hall, Buffalo. They have also been selected for W. & J. Sloane's new store, Broadway and Nineteenth street. Mr. Frink's rooms are at No. 551 Pearl street, city.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—In substance it is the old old story on the market for Common Hards. At times indications of a slightly easier feeling followed shortly by a toning up again, but when it comes to the end of the week it is a difficult matter to show that anyone has secured a positive gain. We think, however, as against the current feeling at the date of our last, matters are now just a shade firmer and the position under better control. The influence of workingmen's strikes is still felt and occasionally crops out in unexpected quarters, and dealers do not appear very ready to take any surplus over the consumptive capacity of the market, so that it would not require a very large amount to place receivers in an uncomfortable position. Yet against the above noted features the offerings are evidently under better control and can be fairly gauged to the requirements of business. Manufacturers have neither ceased production or shipments but in the latter score are slightly indifferent, and with signs of weakness on price will hold back stock, or, if the market appears propitious, can easily add a cargo or so and thus keep up a fair balance On prices the average range remains at $5 50@6 50 per M, though a few Haverstraws have exceeded the latter figure by 25c per M. We are informed, however, that the extreme rate has been paid mainly because consumers had an idea that only one brand could be used for certain work in hand, and the premium cost in consequence can hardly be accepted as a fixed regular market value. Pales have been dull as a rule, yet most of the supply seems to disappear, and dealers are reporting the old general line of values all around, or say $2 0@3 50 per M, and now and then $1 00 for light Hards Fronts are meeting with good general attention, and there is a somewhat firmer tone on Trentons and Philadelphias, with reduced offerings.

CEMENT.—Domestic is meeting with a fair and somewhat fuller demand if anything, and the tone of the market stiffens slightly, more especially on the best brands, though as yet without leading to alteration in prices. Foreign grades are firmer, if anything, and we hear of sales in some cases 5@10c. per bbl. higher than could have been obtained a few weeks ago Fair arrivals have taken place since the first of the month but they seemed to disappear promptly and the stocks in store also having run down somewhat importers are very confident especially as the amounts afloat are reported small without tendency to early increase.

GLASS —There is a good general demand for domestic window and a well sustained market throughout. Indeed some operators talk very strong, and complain of a great scarcity of regular standard sizes, with an intimation that between accumulated orders and proposed cautious production manufacturers will have difficulty in furnishing the market. Imported goods are meeting with fair general attention also, with the outlet apparently balancing the supply, and the line of values firmly and fully supported, with rather an upward inclination if anything.

HARDWARE.—Demand inclines toward an increased volume, but is of very careful form still, and most buyers confine themselves closely to the usual line of early necessity and standard goods. Local consumption is about up to the average especially in builders' hardware, but at many interior points the financial status is said to prevent anything like free investment, and the volume and size of orders is disappointing. In nearly all cases "former rates" are quoted, but there is a great deal of irregularity at times and some cutting on lists.

LATH.—The features of the market do not change, but cost does, and the indications of last week are fully verified by a still further advance. Sales have ranged up to $2.50@2 60 per M, the latter for small lots only, however, and the inside figure is practically the top of the market as yet in a wholesale way. Receivers are quite firm in their expressions and consider that the free manner in which the arrivals have been taken clearly demonstrates a good exhaustive capacity for the market not likely to be neutralized except by very liberal offerings.

LIME.—Fair arrivals have taken place during the week, but were met by a good steady demand from about all regular sources, and with the supply thus provided for receivers experienced no difficulty in sustaining values. At present the first-hand offerings are small.

LUMBER —Reports of a slow limited business are still common enough, and indeed in some cases appear to be a little overdrawn. Failing to find the snap and bustle in trade of former years many operators are evidently led into underrating the extent of the movement and it is possible that the end of the season and the balancing of books will bring some agreeable surprises. We do not pretend to intimate that anything remarkable is going on in the way of distribution, but using the simile of the old fable, the tortoise movement of stock in small lots from day to day is likely in the end to reach a fuller and more satisfactory aggregate than the hare-like spurts which, while making a temporary display, are really deceptive, and result in a poorer showing of actual business accomplished at the final footing for any given period Offerings continue fair enough in quantity and assortment to satisfy the present market and values secure no positive stimulus beyond the gain on spruce from former low limits.

Eastern Spruce continues to be managed well enough to keep the general market in very fair shape and some receivers are inclined to speak with a greater degree of confidence. They claim production to be under better control, with random shipments less general because they are less necessary and calculated upon a firmer position for values all around where quality is in any way first-class and attractive. Demand takes about all the offering but is not snappish, as some of the leading dealers seem to have accumulated pretty nearly all the stock they want and others are not ready to take hold as yet with freedom. With recent small arrivals, however, receivers find that customers commence to hunt around more for cargoes and the effect is shown in a small gain of really useful stuff selling 50c.@$1 per M higher than at the opening of the month. About $11.50@12.00 now show inside and as high as $15 00 has been made on random, with $14 00@16.50 quotable for special.

White Pine could be selling in much larger quantity, and then not show any great amount of animation, as the present line of business is really quite limited on all outlets. There has, however, been a little more feeling around of late for good first-class parcels as these are not plenty and have probably run as low in price as they will this season. Less attractive grades are held about as before, but there are a great many of them to hold, and buyers think they will lose nothing on the cost of supplies by waiting until they are offered, instead of making a direct call for them. Nearby sources of supply are well stocked and sellers becoming anxious. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do.

Yellow Pine can be obtained for the asking, and plenty of it, the only delay being that consumed in transportation from the mills, where in many cases stocks are somewhat uncomfortable. The call, however, is not a liberal one, and only a few specifications are under negotiation. Exporters also continue to offer, but an indifferent outlet. About old figures named, though largely from a nominal basis at the moment. Reports of a diminishing production are again current and it is hoped they are well founded. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19 50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $2 @22; Dry. do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $18@15 for rough, and $19@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $13@14 for rough, and $2 @21 for dressed.

Hardwoods in fair demand and on all useful stock there is a steady market. There appears to be a little more oak and poplar than wanted, and absence of desirable ash. Some shipping trade is doing of rather a promiscuous character, and we notice a complaint in English journals over the small size of black walnut logs sent into the markets there by American shippers, and for which there is no sale except at very low figures. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M; ash, $33@40 do; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $2 @32.50 do; chestnut, $25@30 do; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $25@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52 50 do.

Shingles meet with a fair home distribution and about the average demand on foreign orders, with no change in values worthy of note. We quote Cypress at $8.0 @8.50 per M. for 5x20 and $11.00@12.00 do. for 6x20 regularly assorted shipping. Pine shipping stock $2.00@2.50 for 18 inch, and Eastern saw grades at $2 00@2.50 for 16 inch, as to quality and to quantity. Eastern shaved cedar $4.00 @4.50 per M. Machine dressed cedar shingles quoted as follows: for 30 inch, $15.00@20 00 for A, and $2 @28.50 for No. 1; for 24 inch, $13.00@15 for A and $18.50@20.50 for No. 1; for 20 inch, $8@9.50 for A and $11.00@12.50 for No. 1.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending September 9 as follows:

Although there is no great change in the market a decided improvement in sales and shipments may be reported. Several large barges and many smaller ones have left the wharves with pine for the South and East, and more are now loading in the district The lower prices for common pine continue, and a brisk demand would induce higher figures. At Ottawa pine of the better grades is selling as largely as at this time last year, and the report in a Boston paper of a large stock there and a small demand is contradicted in the correspondence of Albany dealers. The receipts of all kinds of lumber continue to increase the stock on the yards, which is now large and well assorted. Spruce and hemlock are in good demand, and shipments through from the mills to customers continue to be a marked feature of the trade. Hardwoods are in good stock, and seasoned lumber of all kinds and qualities will be found on the yards. Lath are selling steadily, and shingles are in fair supply and demand.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman reports the Chicago market at dock as follows:

The same general characteristic of offerings mentioned in later previous reports has prevailed during the week. Piece stuff continues to arrive in moderate proportion, and sells quite readily. The manufacturers over the lake are adhering to their policy of not crowding the market with this class of lumber to such an extent as to break down prices below their present range. In fact both sellers and buyers admit that short piece stuff is a little quicker of sale at outside figures than it was a week or two ago. Very little is now sold at $8.25 a thousand, $8 87½ being the proper minimum figure. It is not asserted that enough is selling for more than $8 50 to make a quotable price above that, though a large proportion is quick at that, which could not be said some time since. There was one instance during the week wherein a part of a cargo of all Norway short length piece stuff was refused by the seller at $8.37½, and finally sold at $8 50. Considering that this was all Norway, it indicated the tone of the market to be a little better than it was during the first three fourths of the past month.

The price of timbers and long and heavy joists range upward from $10 a thousand, quotations on this class of stock being more difficult than on any other. The commission men insist that certain long lengths of 2x12 and 3x12 sell as high as $11 50 and $12, though they admit that the proportion that goes for these figures is small. Dry dimension is not much called for, that being offered on the market mostly coming from the saw. Only about 50 cents difference on a thousand is made between green and dry lumber, and this margin will likely diminish as the season draws toward a close. Dimension is being piled up at the Muskegon and other east shore mills in large quantities, and when it comes here, as come it must, it will be dry, and not much haggling about prices will be indulged in on that account.

Within two or three weeks a number of cargoes of good lumber have been sold on the market, including a large proportion of thick selects and uppers It is declared that this kind of lumber has sold considerably off from last spring's prices. Such lumber is selling out of the yards $3 to $4 below last spring's prices on some grades, and it is not surprising that the market shares in the general decline.

Nothing new can be said about No. 2 inch lumber. Prices are being made within the limits of our quotations.

Quotations are as follows:

Piece stuff, green	$8 37½@ 8 50
Long timbers, green	10 00 @11 50
Coarse common	9 00 @ 9 50
Boards and strips, No. 2, green	9 50 @11 00
" medium, green	11 00 @15 00

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The movement of lumber from all the distributing centers grows heavier every day. In the Northwest lively complaints are now heard over a lack of cars.

At St Louis the receipts by river and rail have been light and the shipments have fallen off from last week's figures 200 M per day. A letter from there assures us that prices are firm. Raft lumber is scarce and for the first time we record a sale of culls by the string at $5 00 in raft.

Recent rains have given to the mills of Minneapolis a good stage of water and the rafters a good opportunity to run logs below. The indications are that as many of the loggers and mill men as can possibly get there, will go in and cut logs this winter in all the streams.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

Cedar continues quiet, but as manufacturers have their immediate wants applied there seems no very near prospect of any great change in present figures, which certainly keep low.

American Black Walnut.—We notice something of a better class now landing and are glad to see some little falling off in the supply of poor logs, of which there has of late been enough and to spare The consumption seems to go on steadily, notwithstanding all the doubts of sundry trade pessimists who anticipated otherwise.

American Whitewood.—We hear of but little doing, and suppose this article shares the general quietness just now.

AUCTION SALES.

On 26th inst., at Glasgow, a cargo of Tabasco mahogany, ex Karsvei, from Frontera, consisting of 177 logs, 158,939 sale feet, of which they sold 383 logs, 92,017 ft.; price ranging from 3¼d to 9½d.; average, 4½d, fully.

After the sale of mahogany parcels of black walnut and whitewood logs, &c, were sold as follows: 63 logs U. S. black walnut avg. sq 17⅝ in, 2s 7d to 4s. 8d. per cub ft, string measure, avg about 3s. 5d.; 4 logs Canary whitewood, 2s per cub ft.; 2 logs Canary whitewood, 2s 2d. per cub ft.; 3 logs U. S. hickory, 2s. 5d. per cub ft; 3 logs U. S. hickory, 1s. 9d. per cub. ft.; 3 logs U. S. chestry, 2s. 6d. per cub. ft.

NAILS.—There is little or no change in the general situation. The movement of supplies has a somewhat irregular form, and as we may happen to find operators who have had a good or bad trade the report varies. The home demand as a whole, however, keeps along at about a uniform level as to quantity and does not differ much as to the assortment required, though now and then the standard sizes go out with sufficient freedom to create temporary scarcity. Production is not under as close control as some of the trade desire and competition tends to keep rates easy. We quote at $2.15@2.25 per keg for 10d. to 6d., according to quantity.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—The standard descriptions of goods are meeting with fair general sale, and reports in most cases claim a satisfactory business. Some of the trade complain a little, but their previous expectations were probably too full and disappointment brings the natural sequence. The offering permits of any ordinary selection and it is available at about former cost, but holders have found no occasion to modify their views. Linseed Oil selling somewhat irregularly, both as to quantity and prices, but may be quoted at about 54@55c for domestic and 57@58c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine moderately active and about steady at 31@32c., according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—The demand moderately active on local account, with about the average run of shipping orders and prices ruling steady in most cases. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl; Tar $1.75@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1884.

The stock market has been weak, and it shows no signs of immediate recovery. The assurance that a great corn crop has been secured seems to have had no effect beyond perhaps stopping a serious break in prices. The fact is, railway earnings are small, notwithstanding the large amount of wheat which is being carried and it is not likely that the companies will average as good a business as last year until the corn begins to move in quantities, which will not be before December. In the meantime it looks as if we will have a dull, but reasonably strong, market. The savings of the community promise to go into real estate this fall and winter, as all securities from railways to those of banks and other corporations are looked upon with suspicion.

The corn crop is at last out of danger; a frost now would not injure more than 50,000,000 bushels, which is a small percentage of a crop which may reach 1,900,000,000 bushels. "Sir Oracle" last spring ventured to predict that this summer's corn crop would be a very large one. He argued that the high price of corn for three years past, its exceptional value as compared with wheat for cattle feeding, would lead to an immense area of ground being planted in that cereal. As we have had partial failures of the corn crop since 1881, he thought that on the doctrine of averages this year the weather conditions would be favorable. Hence, he believed that a good season would result in a corn crop of over two billion bushels. The agricultural bureau, however, places the total somewhat lower, but then the corn of this summer is exceptionally good. There were never finer ears grown, and measured by quality a crop of 1,900,000,000 bushels is more valuable than a very much larger crop in quantity. The country is to be congratulated upon the vast addition to its wealth which this great corn crop insures.

The political canvass drags its slow length along. So far it has been a campaign of personal assaults of the lowest kind. Our political journals are really unreadable, and wise parents would do well to keep them away from their children. Some time since THE RECORD AND GUIDE tried to start an agitation for holding a national convention to revise the constitution of the United States. If no other good would come of it we argued that it would purify and ennoble political discussions in this country. If our public men and the press were earnestly engaged in discussing the fundamental principles which lie at the foundation of our government they would have no time or heart to canvass the private lives or morals of opposing candidates. The contemplation of great themes elevates the mental horizon of the citizens of free republics, but personal politics are always degrading. Better a foreign war or a great national peril than peace and plenty with people's passions stirred by details of the private corruption of their eminent men or the dishonor of their public life.

Mr. Henry Villard unbosoms himself in a letter to the stockholders of the Northern Pacific Road. He makes a very good defense for himself. He was deceived, it seems, by his engineers. They said that $20,000,000 would be sufficient to complete the Northern Pacific Road. It took nearly $40,000,000. The Northern Pacific was frequently on the verge of bankruptcy, because the government failed to issue patents for the lands when money was most needed. The West Shore engineers, it will be remembered, made even greater mistakes in their estimates than did the Northern Pacific engineers. Such errors are inexcusable, and the engineers who make them should be put on a black list to warn all railway promoters not to engage them. An under-estimate of 10 or 15 per cent. might be explainable, but when the cost is double and treble the original estimate the engineer making the mistake cannot be too sternly condemned.

Chicago is growing so fast that the tenement house, such as is known in its worst forms here East, is beginning to make its appearance. That city, fortunately, can grow in any direction but one. It is the greatest railway centre in the country, and hence heretofore there has been plenty of cheap land on which to build cottages for the working classes. But the same impulse which attracts the well-to-do into hotels and apartment houses has created a demand for tenements for the poor, where they can herd with their fellows. This has caused some alarm among benevolent and public-spirited Chicago capitalists, and they are moving in the matter to prevent a duplication of our poorer and viler tenements in the capital of the Northwest. It is proposed to build the right kind of houses and offer the apartments at rents so low that there will be no demand for tenements of the meaner sort. The impulse which actuates these Chicago capitalists is a good one, but there should be no codling of the poor—no giving them gratuities to lessen their self-respect. The leading citizens of Chicago should see to it that there is a wise building law enacted which will force house builders to put up structures affording proper light and air to tenants and guarding them against the evils of infection from defective plumbing. Then the working people should be encouraged to purchase their own cottages, for there is an abundance of land south, west and north of Chicago suitable for homes for the working classes. The magnificent railway systems of that city can supply all the accommodations needed even were Chicago ten times its present size.

A Few Significant Facts.

Rufus Hatch has a good head, but in business matters he is apt to be "too previous." His talks in the newspapers are interesting reading but the facts he sets forth are not seldom wrongly interpreted. In a recent conversation he draws a comparison between 1873 and 1884, to show how much better off we are now than eleven years ago. Then our population was not more than 39,000,000; it is now 57,000,000. In 1873 our wheat crop, the largest raised up to that time, was 281,000,000 bushels; that of 1884 may reach 520,000,000. The corn crop of that year was 932,000,000 bushels, while the lowest estimate of the crop of this year is 1,800,000,000. Our oat crop was then 280,000,000 bushels, while this year it may reach 600,000,000 bushels. During the past nine weeks we have exported 18,000,000 bushels of wheat, against 11,000,000 bushels last year. The total railroad mileage in the United States in 1873 was less than 70,000 miles; to-day it is fully 122,000 miles. The increase in the business of the country is shown by the transactions of the Western Union Telegraph Company. In 1873 it had 154,000 miles of wire; in 1883 it had 432,000 miles of wire. The gross earnings in 1873 were $9,300,000 per annum; in 1883 they were $19,400,000. The number of messages had increased in the same time from 14,400,000 to 41,000,000. In the meantime rates had been reduced from 64 cents to 38 cents per message. In 1873 a message from New York to Chicago cost $2.50 for ten words; to-day twenty words can be sent for 25 cents.

Mr. Hatch further calls attention to the significance of the growth of Chicago, Kansas City, and he might have added New York, as well as other cities, within these ten years. The anthracite coal trade has added one-third to its production, while petroleum has increased from 188,000,000 gallons to 506,000,000 gallons. In the meantime our national debt has decreased. It was $2,162,000,000 in 1874; it is now only $1,498,000,000. Then our debt was held very largely abroad; nine-tenths of it is now owned by our own people.

From these and kindred facts Mr. Hatch very sensibly concludes that the average business man should take a hopeful view of the future. There has, he thinks, been an over-production of manufactured articles, but he infers that this will regulate itself, and the consuming community will soon be in a condition to absorb all that is manufactured. But on one point Mr. Hatch is curiously illogical. In his letter he says: "Wall street has had its shrinkage, and it is time to stop predicting ruin and hard times with the panic of 1873 as a text. Real estate may decline in value, and in all probability it will, for with the increase of wealth will come the desire to invest money where it will net 4 per cent. per annum. With government bonds netting less than 3 per cent. it is natural to suppose that the time must soon come when real estate will no longer net 6 per cent. and over."

This is very perverse reasoning. Clearly, if the population and the wealth of the country is increasing, land, which is a fixed quantity, must rise in value. There are special causes at work which are lowering the price of realty in Great Britain, but as we are adding over two million to our population every year, and there is in addition a steady increase in our wealth, land must become more and more in demand. It is just possible, that after the present cycle of speculation is complete, there may be a temporary depression in real estate, more especially in the speculative districts near large cities, but there can be no serious set-back in values in city property on the line of improvement or in farms which pay a good interest on growing crops. Mr. Hatch is all wrong about real estate; that kind of property has a better future than any other commodity dealt in by speculators or investors.

A contemporary real estate journal urges the widening of sundry of our down-town streets, and suggests that it be done by piecemeal; that all new structures should be set back five feet or more and an inducement held out to all property holders to rebuild under the provisions of the new alignment. This scheme might prove practicable under a responsible and energetic city government, but with our chaotic municipal organization any coherent scheme of street widening is out of the question. There have been plenty of good suggestions anent city improvements that were never carried out. Long before the Central Park was thought of, while Fifth avenue was yet in the future, it was proposed to run a street 250 feet wide, midway between the two rivers, from Twenty-third street to the Harlem River. It was to be a splendid drive and residence street, shaded with trees and adorned with fountains and statuary, but nothing ever came of the proposal. It was regarded as visionary. Some day, also, our sewerage and drainage systems will be thoroughly overhauled and made to conform to the most recent demands of sanitary science. It will be a costly work, but it will certainly be undertaken. Whenever completed New York will become the healthiest city in the world. It is better situated for healthfulness than any centre of population in Europe or America. With a bay at one end and rivers on the three sides, two of which have rapid tides, its sewers could be flushed and cleansed at every tide. This will all come in time.

The Dakota.

We have heretofore spoken in high praise of the architecture of the Dakota apartment house, a species of design which is here so successful that we are apt to forget the extreme difficulty of the problem. The Dakota is, indeed, the most successful, architecturally, of all the apartment houses, although the enormous Navarro houses are successful also in securing dignity without monotony. We mentioned when the Dakota was still far from completion what seemed the principal shortcoming of its design, a defect of vigor in the modelling of the parts. This is still evident, and it seems also that the building would have gained in clearness of division if the two stories of the basement had been built throughout of stone.

Notwithstanding this, the division is clear, and it is to this clearness of division and to the careful study which has been given to the relation of its principal masses that the Dakota owes the real nobility of its general impression. This impression is enhanced by an extremely fortunate combination of color in the Nova Scotia stone and salmon-colored brick of which it is composed, and by the appropriate and constructional use of these colors, the stronger tint everywhere going with the structural emphasis; and it is not injured by the treatment of detail, though this latter is seldom exquisite.

Everybody knows the building and we need not waste space in description. It is worth while pointing out, however, how thoroughly it conforms to the Aristotelian precept of being divided into a beginning, a middle and an end, and to the other precept, which Aristotle omitted to lay down, that one of these principal divisions should be superior in magnitude and importance to the rest. Vertically this requisite is secured in the first place by the grouping of the two lower stories, the upper being distinguished by round arched openings and by a somewhat more copious use of stone than has been employed elsewhere, although, as we have intimated, a still freer use here, or perhaps an exclusive use of the stone, would have been still more effectual to differentiate the basement from what is above it. It is, however, sharply set off from the wall above by a heavily moulded string course of stone, and the spandrils of the arches are filled with a frieze in terra cotta of very nearly the same strength of color with the stone. The principal wall contains four stories of square-headed openings, similarly treated, but rescued from monotony by the differences of arrangement laterally. Above this is the cornice line, emphasized on the projecting parts of the building by corbelled balconies above an arched frieze of yellow terra cotta of an unfortunately glaring tint, which is no mellower in color now than when it was put up two years ago. Above this is the varying outline of the roof, with a row of dormers in the curtain walls, and with one or two or three tiers of windows in the walls of the terminal gables.

The treatment laterally differs with each front, but it is so skillful that the variety thus secured seems to have come of itself, and has no look of being forced or capricious. The long opening in the centre of the Seventy-third street front is an apparent exception to this remark, since it is hard to see why an opening, of which the only purpose is to admit sunlight and air into the central court of a building, should be cut through the only front from which the sunlight can never reach the court. Nevertheless, the composition of this front, with the steep gables flanking the opening, is very effective, and even piquant, without any derogation from its dignity. Of the other two fronts the eastern, facing the park, is much the most conspicuous, or will be when the block south of Seventy-second street is built up, but it is by no means so well composed as the southern front. The central feature, with its roof hipped back, is too large for its place, and too nearly equal in importance to either of the two gabled masses which terminate the facade. If it were narrower and the space thus saved given to the curtains between the centre and the ends, the front would gain in repose whereas now it is crowded with the three large masses divided by insufficient intervals. The Seventy-second street front is a capital composition. The gabled mass at the centre, containing the principal entrance, is clearly the dominant feature of the facade, the masses at the ends not coming in any way into competition with it, but securing a completely harmonious whole. The oriels on either side effectively relieve the expanse of wall. The iron roofs of these oriels are not as successful as some of the detail, but the treatment of them was especially difficult. The projections are everywhere slight, but they are sufficient to account for the interesting and picturesque variety in the treatment of the roofs, and they are made the utmost of by being quoined in stone, with which the gables are also coped, and thus the projecting masses distinctively outlined. Among the minor excellencies of design is the care which has been taken to keep an ample pier not only at the corner of the whole pile, but at the flank of each important feature, by grouping the openings towards the centre, a disposition which greatly enhances the sense of solidity.

The planning of the Dakota is very interesting, but our present business is with the architecture, and the only opportunity for a treatment of the interior which can properly be described as architectural was in the design of the restaurant which occupies the southeastern corner on the ground floor. This consists of two large rooms on the Seventy-second street front, including the corner room, and a smaller square room on the Eighth avenue front. This last is wainscoted and ceiled in mahogany, while the other two are united in treatment, the materials being oak, stained "antique," and bronze. The former material is used in a high wainscot and in the ceiling, the latter in the field of the wall. The high wainscot is panelled with a moulded base and a richly carved frieze, admirably designed and perfectly executed. The ceiling, which is coffered, is a particularly happy piece of design, being solid and constructional in effect while stopping distinctly short of the heaviness which a constructional treatment of a timber ceiling is apt to impart. The wall is of plaster, moulded in a diaper pattern and at present uniformly bronzed. The effect of color is sober and rich, but a trifle monotonous, but this can easily be relieved by a few touches of color if the room is found to require it when finished. The features of the apartment are two heavy and rich chimney pieces in sandstone, and a large sideboard in carved oak, all rational, scholarly and skillful in design. A feature worth noting is the lining of the fire-places, which is in cast-iron, a grotesque and successful reminiscence and combination of Italian Renaissance and Japanese treatment.

The faithfulness, indeed, with which the design has everywhere been carried into detail, and everything thought about, is extremely satisfactory, as well as the liberality with which the architect's designs have been executed. The only noticeable piece of frugality is the substitution of red brick in the basement walls on the north side for the far more effective rough-faced stone which is used elsewhere. This, however, is scarcely worth mention, in the evidence which the Dakota everywhere gives in abundance both that the owners have been fortunate in their architect, and that Mr. Hardenbergh has been fortunate in his clients.

Our Prophetic Department.

OPERATOR—There seems to be no doubt about the corn crop now, Sir Oracle; but what is the matter with the stock market? It does not respond to the great crop, as the public were led to expect it would. How do you account for the weakening of prices in view of the abundant crops, the large export movement, and the probability that the roads will have all they can do when the crops are fairly in motion?

SIR ORACLE—It is, as you know, the unexpected which always happens in Wall street. A great many operators had made up their minds to sell when the corn crop was assured, supposing the market would then advance. They were mistaken, however. The great operators do not buy at high prices. They generally are buyers when the public are selling and vice versa. After all, the market has acted naturally. We will not feel the effect of the great corn crop until January. In the meantime the railroad earnings will show a falling off, as compared with last year's receipts. The general trade of the country is in a bad way; the liquidation is not complete outside of the stock market. In time our great corn crop will give the railways all the freight they can carry, but the crop is scarcely available before December.

OPERATOR—But does not Wall street discount the future? Does it ever wait for the event before it puts stocks up or down?

SIR O.—Yes, the street does discount the future; but it is the immediate future. The great operators speculate on the market of next week, or the week after, but they run no risks for what may occur six months ahead. The railroads are shipping more wheat than they did this time last year, but they have somewhat less cotton to carry, and there is an undeniable falling off in the number and value of the articles which make up railway freight.

OPERATOR—You do not look then to a decided recovery of stock values before the beginning of next year?

SIR O.—Yes, I look for a rally before many weeks are over, but I doubt whether railway earnings will warrant a very decided bull movement before the close of the year. When the effect of the corn crop is felt, however, the railway lines in the corn belt will not have rolling stock sufficient to supply the demand.

OPERATOR—What value do you put upon the crops this year?

SIR O.—Estimating the wheat crop at 500,000,000 bushels (and it will be more), it will sell at present prices for over $400,000,000, but as quotations are abnormally low I should say that the wheat crop of this year will be worth to the country nearly $500,000,000 by the end of the crop year. Our crop of 1,800,000,000 bushels of corn at present prices would be worth about $1,000,000,000. But corn will probably rule 10 cents a bushel lower after the crop has been gathered. But it is the price of meat which tells the story, and not the price of corn. Corn fed to animals is vastly more valuable than in its original form. The last census gives us some idea of the distribution of the corn crop. In 1882 we raised 1,617,000,000 bushels of corn. This was disposed of as follows:

For exports, seed, spirits, &c	167,000,000 bushels.

Notice how large is this last item. As meat is dearer to-day than in 1882 it is safe to estimate that one-half of our corn crop will be fed to cattle, that is nearly 1,000,000,000 bushels will be converted into meat, to the very great profit of this country. With the exception of pork I do not see any great chance for the cheapening of meat.

OPERATOR—That is a phenomenon I have often wished to have explained. Periodically we have had what is called over-production in nearly all agricultural as well as manufactured products, but the price of meat steadily advances whether the times be good or bad, or the crops large or small.

SIR O.—It is a remarkable fact. Of course you understand that I am one of those who deny that there is any such thing as over-production. There was never more food produced on this earth than its inhabitants could consume; no matter how abundant the crops there are always hungry bellies unsupplied. And so of manufactured articles. No matter how cheap woolens or cottons may be, there are millions of the human race who cannot afford to be decently clad. It is the under-production of money and the low rate of wages which is the prime cause of the misery of mankind. This is the one point that Greenbackers see, and which their opponents do not. Their (that is, the Greenbacker's) mistake is in advocating phantom instead of real money. If the commercial nations should agree to establish bi-metallism, that is, use all the silver as well as all the gold and all the paper convertible into gold and silver which the commerce of the world could absorb, then you would see a revival of industry such as Europe witnessed when South America and Mexico poured out the vast stores of silver from their mines after the Spanish conquest. The gold discoveries in California and Australia made the world rich by making real money plentiful. Were the commercial world to rehabilitate silver and make it the equal partner of gold as the unit of value you would hear no more of over-production, for then the consumers could afford to buy.

OPERATOR—Still at your old hobby, Sir Oracle. You have not, however, explained why meat should continue dear while everything else is cheap.

SIR O.—Vegetables can be produced in a few months, wheat and corn and the other small grains within the year, but the breeding of cattle, hogs excepted, requires three or more years. The human increase is, in all modern countries, greater than the increase of animals; cattle ranges require the use of large areas of land, much more than agricultural products. Such, in brief, are some of the main reasons why meat continues dear while vegetable food is cheap.

OBERATOR—Well, will these factors in the meat supply always remain the same?

SIR O.—Hogs will certainly be cheaper next year than they were this year. The abundant corn and fodder crop will probably check any advance in provisions. The working classes of the world will be forced to use more grain and vegetables and less meat. I see that the potato crop in the Northwest is phenomenally large. They are sold as low in Michigan as twenty-five cents a bushel. Potatoes will doubtless this year be fed largely to hogs, helping to make the latter cheaper.

OPERATOR—What then are your generalizations of the facts you just mentioned?

SIR O.—The coming year will be marked by declining prices in all kinds of food. Corn will be worth less next spring than this fall; wheat will be worth more. I see little hope of advancing prices for either woolens or cotton goods. Good railroad securities will command better prices in 1885 than they have in 1884. The good effects of the great corn crop of this year will be felt more in our meat export than in our corn export. It will be a year of general abundance, small profits in business and distress to the very poor.

Second Avenue Bridge, Annexed District and the Elevated Roads.

The officials of the Manhattan Railroad Company having issued $1,000,000 second mortgage bonds originally authorized by the Metropolitan Company for the extension of the Second avenue elevated road through Market street and along the East River front to South Ferry, a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called at the office of the company to learn when the branch would be commenced. An officer of the company stated that although plans were drawn some time ago by the engineers for the extension of the Second avenue road the company had not yet obtained the right of way along the route. The extension would be about a mile and a quarter in length and the estimated cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. There was no likelihood of the work being commenced before the summer of 1885 or later, as there would be some legislation necessary before they could begin operations. This they hoped to effect during the session of the next Legislature.

Another gentleman holding a high official position in a local railroad company was asked about the rumor of an arrangement having been entered into between the New Haven Road and the Manhattan Company for the use of the Second avenue line by the former in transporting their passengers to their destinations in New York.

"While such an agreement has not, I believe, hitherto been made, I have no doubt but that it will be carried out when the bridge over the Harlem at Second avenue is completed."

"When will that structure be ready for traffic?"

"I do not suppose before another year, though the work is being very rapidly pushed forward by the Suburban Rapid Transit Company."

"That road seems to be a long time in coming. When do you think the laying down of the tracks will be an accomplished fact?"

"It is impossible to tell," was the reply. "It may take four or five years before the road is quite completed. The Rapid Transit Company is still engaged in arranging for the right of way. By the time the Second avenue bridge is ready the company will probably be in a position to commence the construction of the road, though this may be delayed till the summer of 1886. When that occurs, the real advance in New York property on the other side of the Harlem will commence, and lots now worth but a few hundreds will in a few years be valued at thousands. In addition to the local passenger traffic, arrangements will no doubt be made with several railroad companies for the transference of their passengers to the city by the Second avenue road. Property in the neighborhood of the depots will be especially valuable."

"What do you think of Austin Corbin's offer to lease the Brooklyn Bridge and pay the interest and expenses without increasing the tolls?"

"I don't think there is much in it. It rather savors of bombast. No doubt Mr. Corbin would find the bridge useful as an auxiliary to his Long Island system of roads. But while New York and Brooklyn would be the gainers by several hundreds of thousands per annum, I do not think the authorities of these two cities are likely to transfer such a great public trust as the Brooklyn Bridge to private railroad men, who might be tempted to use it for the furtherance of their own schemes and to the detriment of the general public."

"Do you not think that the bridge will pay better when the rapid transit system of Brooklyn is in operation?"

"Most certainly; though a long time will elapse before the annual revenue of the bridge will meet the total charges. When passengers will be able to transfer from distant parts of Brooklyn to New York and vice versa cheaply and rapidly, the traffic by the bridge will be largely increased. I infer from THE RECORD AND GUIDE that you think the railroad systems of Long Island will eventually be connected with the rest of the country by means of the bridge. I think this is a mistake. That structure has neither room nor capacity for the traffic which that would involve, and it would almost destroy the value of the bridge for local passenger traffic."

"You are in error in supposing that this paper has ever advocated such a view," explained our representative. "We have always favored the use of the bridge in connecting the rapid transit systems of the two cities for local and passenger traffic alone. What we did say was that the railway system of Long Island will some day be connected with those of New York and the rest of the country by means of the proposed bridge across Blackwell's Island, and this we believe will eventually be effected, probably before another decade has passed."

The New York & Sea Beach Railway is about testing a very important experiment. It is trying to see what cheap local fares will do toward building up unoccupied territory, as well as making a railway profitable. It carries passengers from New York to Bay Ridge for five cents, and to Coney Island for ten cents. William O. McDowell, the general manager of the road, who is inaugurating this system, announces that the time to Coney Island will be reduced to thirty minutes, and he urges property holders along the route to establish an agency to sell land to actual occupants for low prices. This experiment will be watched with a good deal of interest. The shores of the bay down to Coney Island is picturesque and offers many attractions; and if this railway by cheap fares succeeds in making its route popular and prosperous, it will effect a revolution in local railway travel.

Adobe, stone and marble constitute the best and most desirable materials for building purposes in Mexico. They are admirably adapted to the country, and are cheap and durable, and the marbles are exceptionally beautiful. Capital would find remunerative employment in introducing them among our manufacturers and builders. They are of various colors, very hard, and take an elegant polish.

Home Decorative Notes.

—Blinds made of silk and hung on spring rollers is a favorite means for covering up and protecting books when not in use from dust and the chance of being bleached; a small leather valance should be fixed against the edge of the shelves which, when scolloped and stamped with a little simple gilt ornamentation, adds considerably to the decorative appearance.

—Fruit stains may be removed from napkins and cloth by freezing.

—A very beautiful effect is produced in a room by the use not only of stained and window panels, but stained glass ceilings as well.

—For library and drawing-room deep tones of olive, sage, Indian red and Antwerp blue wall paper with lines and touches of dull gold are appropriate.

—Fire-place curtains running upon invisible wires, or upon visible brass rods, beneath the mantelpiece, are made to draw before the grate.

—It is often very difficult to insert a screw in plaster, the result may be easily accomplished, however, by making a large hole in the plaster, drive in a wooden plug and in that insert the screw.

—Brass legged tables are fashionable upon which to serve afternoon tea.

—A rather novel hat rack is composed of a black leather horse collar and bridle, mounted with silver.

—Book shelves, corner shelves over mantels and racks for china to nail above doors may be made of pine painted in flat color or stained and shellacked with very good effect.

—Door hangings may be more vivid in color than that of the window draperies; great care should be taken, however, that the coloring is controlled by the other decorations of the room, with which it must accord.

—The trumpet creeper is a bright and exceedingly showy design for a table scarf.

—Screens of hand painted Chinese matting are gaining admirers daily; very bright flowers should be pictured upon them.

—Lambrequins may be of darned net, trim the edges with lace and line with colored silesia.

—Japanese carved frames for screens are very handsome.

—A unique banner screen is suspended from fixtures of ebonized woods and gilt; upon a ground of soft gray satin, streaked with Japanese touche of silver to represent the clouds, is a moon embroidered in fine white silk; several flying bats, one of them crossing the moon's disk, are worked in shaded gray and black.

—In accord with the fashion of having colors in bed-room furniture pillow shams are made with a square of blue, red or pink satin, edged with a wide lace insertion on narrow strips of satin and an outer border of lace four or five inches wide; the satin centre may be painted or embroidered.

—Antique colors are in favor for furniture coverings, especially blues, golds and browns.

—It should be borne in mind that very large flowers look best in a vase all by themselves—a truss of rhododendrons or a spike of horse-chestnuts for instance.

—A charming arrangement for a chair back is a square of peacock blue pongee almost covered by an elaborate and fanciful design of flowers of all varieties, tulips, roses, poppies, clover, buttercups and daisies, finish the edge with knotted fringe and silk tassels of various colors.

—In the way of hangings and draperies velours seem to have in a measure taken the place of plush, it is quite as rich in effect; there are two kinds, silk and mohair velours, the former is extremely pliable and of course the handsomer.

—In delicacy and beauty the finger-bowl doilies cannot be exceeded, the loveliest textures are chosen, Indian silks, linen, lawn and pineapple cloth, the decorations are geometrical, floral or of birds, butterflies, autumn leaves, ferns and shells scattered here and there over the ground; these are done in the finest outline stitch in various colored silks.

—If we desire to keep lemons fresh for some time, we have only to place them in a jar of water and change it every morning.

—A little experience in the use of tracing paper will enable the embroiderer to transfer successfully any pattern she pleases to canvas or richer fabrics.

—A charming table or easel scarf is of India silk, ecru in tint, showing a deep band of wavy lines embroidered in dark ecru silks and powdered with outline disks each encircling a cornflower embroidered in solid Kensington stitch in shades of dull pink, the ends of the scarf fringed and decorated with dull pink silken tassels.

—The members of the feline tribe are now made useful and ornamental, their skins are dressed and used to throw over hassocks.

—An exquisitely delicate tea-cloth is of very fine linen lawn and decorated with sprays of wild roses and clematis vine joining at the centre and spreading wide into the corners.

—Stemless flush pansies strewn irregularly over the cloth at a dinner-table are attractive.

—A very pretty style of scrap-bag to hang above or near a desk is made of an eight-inch square of blue satin framed by a two-inch band of dark copper red plush; the satin is covered with an outline design, done with black etching silk, of inkstand, pens, stuffed owls, books, etc., grouped together: a plain square of silk, the size of the finished front piece, forms the back of the bag, which is lined with satin, and instead of being drawn up by a ribbon is lightly gathered upon whalebones, and hung by silk cord and tassels like a panel.

The Government of Cities' Problem.

The Harper's for October contains an article on "Municipal Enduring in which are given many valuable statistics about national and local indebtedness. Its figures about New York are, moreover, of peculiar value. The startling fact is shown that, while our national debt is being paid off, our municipal and local indebtedness is increasing largely. The following table tells its own story:

	Nat. Debt.	City Debt.	County Debt.	State Debt.	Total Debt.
1870.....	$2,480,000,000	$328,000,000	$187,000,000	$352,000,000	$3,339,200,000
1880.....	1,942,000,000	698,000,000	123,000,000	234,000,000	2,998,000,000

So far the totals are satisfactory, as they show a heavy decrease of national and State obligations, but an amazing increase in city debts. According to a distinguished English statistician, Mr. Mulhall, the following table gives the results indicated between the years 1870 and 1880 in all commercial nations:

Earnings of nations	19.84 "
Public wealth	10.57 "
Taxes	22.34 "
Public debt	43.39 "

Another writer, Mr. Jas. Wilson, declares that in twenty-two years the national debts of the world have increased from about thirteen billions of dollars to twenty-eight billions of dollars.

Of course the increasing municipal burdens of civilized mankind is in great part due to the phenomenal growth of the centres of population. In 1880 our municipal debt was 23.2 per cent. of the total indebtedness of the country, as against 9.7 per cent. ten years previously.

The following table tells its own story as to the increase in the debt of New York City, compared to the increase of the population:

Year.	Gross Debt.	Net Debt.	Inc.	Dec.	Ratio.	Valuation of Taxable Property.	Ratio of Net Debt to Valuation.

Of course the above table leaves out of account the revenue bonds, also the indebtedness the city assumed with the annexed district. There has been some decrease of debt compared to valuation since the breakdown of the Tweed ring, but the obligations we will probably assume in connection with the new aqueduct and other improvements will swell our debt to the highest figures.

The writer in Harper's says of the above table:

This table suggests some comparisons which will show how great the indebtedness of New York city really is. For the purpose of making these comparisons we will confine ourselves to the year 1880. In that year the net debt of the city will be seen to have been $101,591,455, or more than one-nineteenth of the entire national debt, which was then $1,942,-172,295. The last census shows the net indebtedness of all municipalities in the United States to have been as follows: Of cities, towns, etc., of over 7,500 population, $593,344,418; of cities, towns, etc., of less than 7,500 population, $55,817,126, making a total of $649,161,544, of which total we see at a glance that the debt of New York city alone was nearly one-sixth. The census shows that the indebtedness of cities of over 7,500 population, aggregating $593,344,418, was divided as follows in 1880:

All of the Southern States	$64,912,431
All of the Western States	111,481,430
All of the New England States	99,181,223
All of the Middle States	317,699,334
All of the Territories	67,000

Looking at these figures, it will be readily seen that in 1880 the indebtedness of New York city was larger than that of all of the cities of over 7,500 population in all of the Southern States, than that of all those of New England, nearly as large as that of all the Western cities together, and about one-third of that of all the cities of the Middle States. It was larger by nearly eight millions of dollars than the debt of all of the cities of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin, which aggregate but $93,693,000. In 1880 the gross State indebtedness of all the States in the Union was $260,179,725, which was about twice as much as the gross debt of New York city, and not three times as much as its net debt. In 1880 and 1881 the tax budgets of all the States together, for State purposes, aggregated only $61,921,144, while that of New York city alone was $30,259,202. The tax rate for State purposes in 1881 varied from 10 cents on $100 in Tennessee to 25 cents in New York and 70 cents in Florida, while the municipal rate in New York city was $2.62. In 1882 the city debt of New York city was more than ten times as large as the State debt, which was but $9,109,054, all of which was canal debt but about $122,694, and on account of which there was $2,422,981 in the sinking fund. In 1882 the State raised by taxation only $6,820,022.29, as against about 28 millions raised by the city for the same time. The total ordinary expenses of the national government for the year 1881, including over 50 millions for pensions, 82 millions for interest on the public debt, 55 millions for the army and navy, 41 millions for public buildings, light-houses, collecting the revenue, etc., and 17 millions for civil expenses, was $260,712,-887, or a little more than eight times the expenditure of New York city for the same year. Of the $30,259,205 raised by taxation in New York city for 1881, $13,176,102 were required for the payment of State taxes and the interest and redemption of the city debt, leaving $17,183,103 for administration. For the same year the amount expended by the national government for Congress, the Executive, the judiciary, the government of the Territories, the sub-treasuries, public land offices, inspection of steam vessels and the mint and assay offices, was but $17,941,177, and of which amount $6,878,442 was charged against the Executive alone. Our

The suites of fifty-eight is now larger than that of the nation was at any time from 1791 to 1815. In 1816 the national debt was only 127 millions, and had fallen by 1819 to 95 millions, from which time it gradually declined until it was extinguished in 1836. It was not until the outbreak of the war in 1861 that it rose to anywhere near the proportions of the present city debt of New York and in that year it was only $90,580,873.

These figures show that the problem of problems is the financial government of large cities. The nation and the State must put a stop to the profuse expenditures of local governments. In Missouri and some other States, municipal and county governments are restricted from incurring indebtedness amounting to more than 5 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the real estate affected. This restriction should be in every State constitution, and municipalities should be made to pay as they go. The growth of cities in modern times is remarkable. In 1790, one-thirtieth of the population of the United States lived in cities of 8,000 inhabitants and over; in 1800, one twenty-fifth; in 1810, and also in 1820, one-twentieth; in 1830, one-sixteenth; in 1840, one-twelfth; in 1850, one-eighth; in 1860, one-sixth; and in 1870, a little over one-fifth. The ratio is now nearly one-quarter.

Mr. Horace White, of the Evening Post, it is said, got his impression of James G. Blaine's character when acting during the war as a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune from Washington, where he also served as clerk to the Ways and Means Committee of the House. When the internal tax on whiskey was proposed, White and his friend, Henry Villard, the latter also a newspaper correspondent at that time, put all their money and all they could borrow into margins upon whiskey. When the tax was finally imposed it laid the foundation for both their fortunes. White, with the money so made, became the principal stockholder of the Chicago Tribune, and Villard was enabled to commence his marvellous career in Wall street. To get the tax through the House at the right time required the assistance of the then Speaker, Mr. Blaine, and, it is alleged, the latter was let into the whiskey speculation, by which he made a hundred thousand dollars. This accounts for the attack on Blaine which appeared in the Chicago Tribune when the "Plumed Knight" was first mentioned for the presidency, for White was in a position to know who profited by that famous whiskey deal.

A new batch of scandals against Grover Cleveland is about to be published. It relates to reputed facts of his private life at Buffalo, and since he has been Governor at Albany. They will be backed by affidavits. Between what is said of Blaine's business affairs and Cleveland's private life, the average American voter will not know what to do. This is the most scandalous and painful political contest the country was ever engaged in.

Henry Dixie is an exceedingly amusing performer. He promises to be the most attractive card in the theatrical field for years to come. In the burlesque of Adonis he has a chance to display his many-sidedness as a comic actor. He is a wonderful mimic, but his original drollery is better than anything he imitates. He labors under some disadvantages, one of which is a harsh and inflexible voice, and then it is evident that he has had few advantages in the way of education. It would be hard to define his exact place in the drama. He would not shine in legitimate comedy, yet his range is wide, for he could apparently do anything in burlesque, farce or eccentric personations. This is so sad a world that a performer who can enable one to spend a pleasant evening without loss of self-respect is worthy of particular mention.

There was a great crowd at Sheepshead Bay last Thursday to witness the race between Drake Carter and Miss Woodford. There was a grievous lack of seating accommodations on the grand stand, to the serious discomfort of invalids and elderly persons. This race-course is puffed by the papers, when it really ought to be criticised. Its ladies' restaurant is a contemptible swindle. The prices are ridiculously high, and the articles served are small in quantity and very inferior. The public have learned to avoid this extortionate eating place. The race was a fine one and proved Miss Woodford to be probably the greatest filly that ever appeared on the turf. But what a jade fortune is to shower her fortunes upon people like the Dwyer Brothers. They own all the finest horses and win all the large prizes; but they are reputed to be the meanest and most parsimonious of any persons who have been connected with the turf. They bag all the purses offered by the Lorillards and other generous turf patrons, but never give a dollar in the way of prizes themselves. Sporting men are assumed to be open handed, but the Dwyers do not seem to know what the word generosity or even common decency means.

Widows who desire to have their dower set apart in the lands of their deceased husbands should move promptly in the matter, because, as a life estate, if a widow dies before judgment is entered in her favor, there would be none of the dower estate to go to her heirs, or that she could leave by will. Mrs. Annie S. Freeman began suit to have her dower admeasured, and while the action was pending she filed a consent in writing to receive a gross sum in money in lieu of dower. After that and before judgment was entered she died, and left a will appointing executors, who continued the suit, and it was decided that the action abated upon her death. This decision has been affirmed by the General Term of the Supreme Court in this city, Chief Justice Davis writing the opinion. The Court also say that a different state of things might exist if her right to dower had been determined and the proceedings had reached a stage in which a sale of the premises had been adjudged. This last point, however, was not directly before the Court, and we are inclined to differ with the view of the Court last expressed.

George S. Sickles, the father of Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, has been attracting some attention in the papers recently because of an escapade in his family. This gentleman, who by the way is eighty-four years old, is an object of a good deal of interest just now to large real estate owners in New Rochelle. He owns quite a quantity of land a short distance west of the present depot, a region in which there has been very little improvement for many years. The country thereabouts is held in large blocks by old families who will neither improve themselves nor sell to those who would improve. Mr. Sickles, however, has recently broken the ice by erecting a dozen or more cheap cottages on what has been the most exclusive part of the main street. He finds that they rent very readily at from $10 to $15 a month. The neighboring property holders are very much incensed at the cheap character of these so called improvements, but Mr. Sickles has demonstrated the fact that there is no reason why property in West New Rochelle should remain unimproved. He might, it is true, have either built better cottages or have formed a settlement of picturesque, if cheap residences, back from the main road. New Rochelle ought to take a new departure very soon. The railway company has constructed a very handsome new depot a short distance this side of the old one. When the Second avenue bridge over the Harlem is finished, which it ought to be by next summer, people who reside in New Rochelle should be able to reach any part of New York Island on the east side within forty minutes, for as a matter of course there will be some arrangement made by which suburban trains will run over the Second avenue track. People on the lookout for permanent houses would do well to take a look at the vacant real estate in and about New Rochelle.

The General Term of the Supreme Court in the suit of Siewert vs. Hamel have made a common-sense decision, that if the foreclosure be begun of a second mortgage on property, and afterwards another action is begun to foreclose the first mortgage, and judgment is first obtained in the latter suit, and the premises sold under it, giving a surplus which is applied to and partly pays the second mortgage, and the second mortgage goes on and gets a judgment of foreclosure and sale in the first action, he may have a judgment for the deficiency still remaining due upon his mortgage without going through the form of a sale. Anybody would think that the mortgagor or owner of the property would be glad to have it done this way, thus saving the additional deficiency which would be increased by the advertising and referee's and auctioneer's fees and expenses of the useless second sale.

The directors of the Real Estate Exchange met yesterday and decided to forfeit the monies paid in by the delinquent subscribers. It seems that there are eleven persons who have not paid in full. The deficiency amounts to about $7,500. The defaulting seats will be sold in November. A special committee, consisting of Messrs. Harnett, Scott and Croly was appointed to see if a new charter would not be desirable for the more effective working of the Exchange. The same committee were requested to inquire into the wisdom of organizing an insurance fund. The work on the Exchange building was said to be progressing in a satisfactory manner, but it may not be ready for occupancy before the beginning of the new year.

Richard V. Harnett is first in the field to announce that when the new Exchange is in readiness he will hold all his auctions of houses, lots, stocks, bonds and securities in that building. It is now doubtful whether any sales will take place at the new Exchange this year, but about December next there will be many announcements similar to that of Mr. Harnett's.

Important to Builders and Contractors.

It is remarkable how much there is of the romantic and dramatic in the dry practice of the law. This is well exemplified in the patent suit that is now pending about the validity of the patent of Balthasar Kreischer for fire-proof hollow tile flooring, which is now so largely used in the construction of the large office buildings and apartment houses and of the finest private residences in this city and elsewhere. We believe that this combination flooring was first used in the United States Post-office building in this city soon after it was invented and patented by Mr. Kreischer, and a contract was then made for five years, with a renewal of five years, with responsible parties, for the manufacture and introduction of this flooring. After the expiration of this contract Mr. Wm. J. Fryer, Jr., who had then bought the patent from Mr. Kreischer, was obliged to bring various suits against builders, owners and others for the infringement of that patent, and ultimately the suit brought against the celebrated manufacturer, Henry Maurer, was thoroughly litigated and brought to a final hearing before the Hon. Wm. J. Wallace, judge of the United States District Court of the Southern District of New York. Hon. John A. Foster was counsel for the defendant, having associated with him Hon. A. Q. Keasby, and Mr. Geo. W. Van Siclen was counsel for the plaintiff. Several thousand dollars were expended on each side in obtaining evidence and bringing it properly before the court. After the final hearing, which was in March last, the judge rendered his decision overturning the patent upon the ground that it had been anticipated by an English patent of one Davies, but upon complainant's petition his honor granted a rehearing, upon which it appeared that owing to various typographical errors and other causes a mistaken construction had been given to this Davies patent, which had not really affected the Kreischer patent at all, and his honor decided in favor of Mr. Fryer and sustained the validity of the patent, and would have signed a decree to that effect, but that at this final rehearing defendant's counsel offered a certified copy of a French patent which antedated the Kreischer patent, and which had been received by the defendant through the mail only two days before this final rehearing; the defendant claimed that he had been unable to find this French patent or get it before, because of the confusion of the records of the French Patent Office during the troublous times of the Commune; it was admitted in evidence, and, after careful deliberation, Judge Wallace has lately rendered his decision, declaring that Kreischer's reissue of his patent was valid, but that this French patent last put in antedated and overturned the same, and therefore he dismissed the complainant's bill. Thus the full glass was in the same hour raised to the complainant's lips and dashed to the ground. He is, however, not satisfied with this decision of the Circuit Court as to the French patent alluded to, as that is for a solid floor, made by pouring in cement, or moist plaster of paris, between and over the hollow tiles and iron beams, while the Kreischer patent is for a combination of the hollow tiles forming a flat arch, with flanged iron beams and wooden joists and flooring, and with spaces between the tiles and the wood, keeping the latter from rotting, and making places for gas and water pipes, etc.; he has, therefore, appealed to the United States Supreme Court, and intends to test there also the question whether the issue of an obscure French patent, and this being hidden away or lost in troublous times and never printed, is such publication of a foreign patent as our patent law contemplates, and one which should deprive an independent American inventor of the fruits of his invention; and evidently there is a great deal of force in this point. We shall look with interest for the final decision of the United States Supreme Court in this case, and in the meantime careful owners and builders using this desirable fire-proof flooring will doubtless continue to protect themselves by requiring bonds of indemnity from manufacturers of tiles to cover the amount of damages they will have to pay should the decision of the Supreme Court be in favor of Mr. Fryer.

Real Estate Department.

While there was very little done upon the Exchange last week, and while the volume of private transactions still continues small, there is still a general feeling that we are on the eve of the most active fall market we have known for years. Of course, builders and would-be buyers talk bearishly, as it is their interest to get lots cheap. Owners of costly property feel rather blue at the prospect in the way of rentals, but it is undeniable that there is an unusually large number of buyers in the market who wish to secure good residences at fair prices. Investors of moderate means are distrustful of bonds, stocks and all corporate securities, particularly banks, and they wish to put their money into houses in which they can afford to live or can rent at a fair profit. There is likely to be a large demand this fall for houses ranging from ten to thirty thousand dollars. This class of property is strongly held, as owners do not know what better to do with their money. Vacant property is reported dull.

While the conveyances show an increase over those of last year, it should be remembered that the transactions recorded this week were those of last month. Hence the figures in the table we publish are really those of August. The sales of September will not be recorded until October. It follows that at this time of the year the published transactions look smaller than they really are. We judge there is more doing in the annexed district than is suspected. A number of large transactions are under way; the Suburban Rapid Transit Company have secured a considerable amount of real estate which they have not as yet put upon record. C. P. Huntington, the famous Californian railway millionaire, has bought seventy lots on One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, not far from Willis avenue. This is one of the choicest locations in North New York, and it shows the drift of things, for those lots were sold last June by the Equitable Life for $100,000, and Mr. Huntington paid $125,000 for them. The plot is irregular in shape, being 659.10 on One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and 667 on Division avenue in the rear. Its depth is 688.1 on the one side and 605.3 on St. Anns avenue. The region north of the Harlem will be the scene of great speculative activity before five years are over.

Renting is in full swing, and reports of a generally satisfactory character reach us from real estate agents in all parts of the city. Private houses are in great request everywhere, and it is a notable feature of the renting market this fall that the demand is greater than the supply. Not an inconsiderable number of people who have hitherto resided in flats and apartments show a disposition to get into private houses, while those living in the latter and who desire to get into flats are few and far between. The conclusion is inevitable, and capitalists will do well to consider whether they will not find it profitable to build private dwellings in lieu of tenements or flats for the next year or two. The class of houses much needed at present are those renting from about $700 to $1,500 per annum, of which there is a positive scarcity. High class houses seem to be in somewhat better demand than was anticipated after the crisis of last May, and it is a hopeful sign that some high rents have already been paid in choice locations. Flats and apartments, on the other hand, exceed the demand, though suites from $16 to $50 per month are always in quest. There is a fair demand for apartments between $700 and $1,200 and above. Extensive inquiry regarding high class apartment houses so far shows that they are likely to suffer this fall. It is calculated that several thousand suites of apartments, with rentals ranging from $1,000 and above, and under $5,000 per annum, will have been placed upon the market before the fall is over, and the outlook for these is not of an encouraging nature. Still many of them will be occupied, but it remains to be seen to what extent these huge, comfortable, elegant and costly palaces will be successful in returning a satisfactory income to their owners. Store property is in good demand, and here again the supply is not as good as might be desired. Office property fairly holds its own, though it is questionable whether, when the large down-town buildings now in process of erection are completed, next spring will not show a greater supply than needed. There is a growing impression, based evidently on good grounds, that the erection of office buildings is being somewhat overdone.

An improvement has set in in the purchasing market, which will no doubt develop as the season advances. Private dwellings from $10,000 to $20,000 are in good request, as are houses all the way up to $35,000. Comparatively few sales, however, are hitherto recorded, though it is too early in the season to expect many yet. There is a confident feeling among brokers, not that we are going to see a speculative fall, but that there will be a good and solid business done. To judge by the amount of the transfers in 1884 as compared with former years there is reason to believe that this feeling is well founded. Whatever mishaps occur in the general business world there seems to be a continual increase in the volume of real estate sales. It appears as though it had become a generally recognized fact that real property is after all the safest investment, and that the uninterrupted increase in the population of New York city is bound to maintain real estate values and make property in many places even more valuable than it is at present. Auction sales promise to be pretty heavy during the forthcoming season and several large estates will probably be disposed of. The real estate world will enter upon a new era next January, when the new Exchange in Liberty street will be opened. That institution will in time rank amongst the most important in the country and it will "quicken" real estate both in this city and the surrounding country, even extending to remote districts. On the whole, while it is unnecessary to express too sanguine a view, there is every reason to feel confident in the future of real estate in New York city and its vicinity.

There was a large attendance at the auction sales during the past week, but very few transactions took place, some of the property being withdrawn because it is believed there will be a better market in October. The partition sale of Bowery, Hester and Elizabeth street properties, which was to have taken place on the 16th inst., was postponed as there are several parties in interest, none of whom, it is said, wished to buy out the others, and all agreed that their interest would be better served by an adjournment. The sale will certainly take place in October, Mr. H. Henriques being the auctioneer.

An adjourned foreclosure sale of vacant property on East Seventy-sixth street and East River was held yesterday and thirty-one lots and gores were disposed of for $55,755. It is said there is a great deal of rock on these lots.

The past has been one of the few weeks during the current year when the Conveyances were fewer than for the corresponding week of last year. An increase, however, is shown in the business of the annexed district. Here is the table:

The event of the coming week will be the sale of what remains of the Deane property. On Wednesday next, the 24th inst., Richard V. Harnett will then formally open the fall season by the first great sale. It must not be supposed that because these houses, lots and farms have been left over from the summer that they are in any way inferior to those marketed successfully last July. We are assured that the houses average better than those sold in the summer, while the location of the lots tell their own story. Some of the latter are on One Hundred and Twentieth and One Hundred and Twenty-second streets, near Madison avenue. The farm property to be sold is worthy of special attention. Buyers will be attracted to the sale, because it will be absolute, without reserve or postponement. They will certainly get bargains, for property so sold rarely brings anywhere near its full value. The buyers of last summer are more than satisfied, for nearly every sale was a profitable one for the purchaser. Persons looking for investments would do well to scan the advertisement elsewhere, particularly where it tells of the apartment houses.

Mr. Harnett will also sell on Thursday, the 25th inst., a splendid plot of ground and house at Elberon, Long Branch. The land includes three acres, and is situated on Ocean avenue, overlooking Tackanassee Lake. This charming villa is to be sold under order of the executors of the estate of Charlotte Rhodes. This is a fine chance to get valuable property cheap. On the same day the same auctioneer will sell the late residence of Bishop Simpson, on Seaside avenue, at Long Branch. This is in one of the most desirable parts of the village, being near the iron pier. On Tuesday, September 30th, Mr. Harnett will sell the estate of Edward McCabe, situated at the corner of Tenth avenue and Thirty-eighth street.

On Thursday, October 9th, Mr. Richard V. Harnett will sell at auction Tilden Park, an estate of 54 acres, with a fine mansion and out-buildings, and fifty-three acres adjoining Tilden Park, on the Boston Post road, in the town of Westchester, near the Westchester Station, having about one mile frontage on roadways. This is very desirable property.

The six four-story high stoop brown stone dwellings on the south side of Seventy-sixth street, between Madison and Park avenues, are almost completed, and are offered for sale. They are of different sizes, two having a frontage of 15 feet, two 17, one 18 and another 18.8, all being 56 feet deep, with extensions. They are first-class in all their appointments. The carving of the stone work is attractive, while the interior is in mahogany, maple, rosewood and other hardwoods. The plumbing is of a sanitary nature, and the construction throughout is of a substantial character, every detail having been carried out under the supervision of the owner and builder, Charles L. Guilleaume. The kitchens and bathrooms are tiled, and electrical apparatus is supplied throughout each house. The location is highly desirable, being both near the Central Park, the Third avenue elevated road and the Madison avenue cars.

Out Among the Builders.

Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz has the plans under way for a building for the Young Men's Library and Art Society, to be erected on Washington street and Broadway, Buffalo, having a frontage of 307 feet and a depth of 50. The material will be of Philadelphia brick, with brown stone and terra cotta trimmings. The structure will be in Y shape, and contain rooms for the Buffalo Historical Society, the Society of Natural Science and an art gallery, in addition to the library and rooms for the Young Men's Association. The cost is estimated at $225,000.

William Edgar intends to erect a handsome villa in the old colonial style on Beach street, Newport, R. I. It will be three stories high, and have a frontage of 123 feet and a depth of 60. The material will be of Tiffany brick with stone trimmings, the cost being estimated at about $30,000. The plans are being drawn by McKim, Mead & White. The same architects have the designs on the boards for a handsome brick and stone villa and stable, for Henry A. C. Taylor, to be erected at Newport, the cost of which will be about $40,000.

Rossiter & Wright have the sketches for a two story stone and frame house, to be erected for Mr. Shaen, at South Orange, N. J., to cost $6,000, and for a two-story attic and basement frame dwelling, 30x40, to be built at Washington, Conn., for R. S. Barnes, to cost $10,000.

Babb, Cook & Willard have the plans in hand for a two-story basement and attic frame villa, 56x75, to be erected at Good Ground, L. I.; for James C. Carter, and a similar house, 40x40, and extension, to be built for J. P. Farley, at Beverley Farms, Mass.

A. B. Ogden has the sketches under way for eight five-story brick and iron tenements and stores, 25x65 each, to be erected on the east side of the Eastern Boulevard, running from Fifty-fourth to Fifty-fifth street, for George W. Totten at a cost of about $100,000. This is a continuation of the extensive improvement previously announced in these columns.

Andrew Spence has the plans on the boards for four five-story brick and blue stone flats and stores, 25x80 each, to be built on the north side of One Hundred and Third street, commencing 260 feet east of Third avenue, for Caroline Yost, at an estimated cost of $44,000.

Special Notices.

John G. Folsom, successor to the well-known firm of C. J. and J. G. & S. D. Folsom & Co., established in 1847, has been very successful since his successorship to the business at the old stand, No. 14 Bible House, opposite the Cooper Union. Mr. Folsom has the reputation among his real estate friends for energy and perseverance, two qualities which are essential to success in his line. He is a member of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room.

Alfred Zucker, successor to the late architect, Henry Fernbach, has been very fortunate in securing a large clientele since his accession to the business. It will be noticed from another column that he has taken into partnership Mr. John R. Hinchman, who was for two years associated with him in Mr. Fernbach's office in a confidential position. The firm will now be known as Alfred Zucker and Co.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Common Hards have undergone about the ordinary fluctuation on value, but, if anything, the buyers' advantage was somewhat greater than last week, and the market may be considered as 12½@25c. per M lower. For a day or two business was decidedly dull, and receivers in some instances appeared to be getting a little nervous, but latterly the outlet opened sufficiently to exhaust the accumulation, and up to the close offerings continue fairly sold out. As compared with last week we should reduce the average range of value to $5 25@6.25 per M, with some stock selling 25c. less and a few 25c. above the top rate, though it was suggested to us that we say only a "very few" would exceed the above extreme quotation, and then merely to meet some special order. The current line of demand has been very largely from consumers operating against immediate and positive wants, and it is claimed that just such a policy will have to be pursued so long as the workingmen's strikes are not fully determined, yet after all even on the basis named, brick are handled with freedom enough to prevent any surplus piling up, and the weakening of value is moderate as against what some buyers have been calculating upon. From along the Hudson the advices indicate preparations for gradually winding up the production and several yards are reported to have moulded their last pits for this season. Manufacturers will in a great many cases stop work with a liberal amount of their product on hand, but still it is said that few are likely to be so crowded as to compel further shipments for want of room, and supply could be, if it were thought necessary, cut off to a considerable extent at any moment. Pale Brick at the close of last week and the commencement of this found a good demand, but the market is again quiet and the feeling somewhat easy at old rates. Fronts have sold well and on the best lots tend in sellers' favor, an advance having recently been made with the cargo rate for Trentons alongside piers now $22.25@23.00, according to shade, with the usual additions to the above for handling. Manufacturers tell us that the call for best Trentons is in excess of capacity and that orders are constantly booked ahead of the output.

LATH.—There has been a radical and unexpected change in the character of the market since our last, and in place of a further gain on value a sharp heavy decline is shown. A veering around of the wind brought forward the fleet with a rush, and the result was one of those "bunch" arrivals so much dreaded by receivers. As an indication of the condition of affairs it may be noted that cargoes of only five days passage put in an appearance with those that had been two and three weeks afloat, and the result was that the market suddenly became loaded up with twelve or fifteen million lath scattered among all receivers and, with some getting a little anxious, the inevitable followed, prices going all to pieces. Indeed for a time it was next to impossible to find out exactly what the market rate was as it appeared to be a sort of go-as-you-please among sellers, but commencing at $2.50 took a jaggard decline until $2.00 per M. was touched. By that time, however, persistent pushing toward all openings had finally worked off the weight of the stock and the tone steadied up again, with rates now standing at about $2.15@2.20 per M., and sellers feeling more hopeful. It may be as well to add also that confidence in the temporary nature of the weakness has been shown by the piling out of a cargo rather than submit to ruling figures, and buyers themselves while naturally making the most of their advantange have been quietly but steadily absorbing the stock as fast as they could handle it.

LIME.—There is nothing new. Demand has continued good, and the supplies as they came to hand found a prompt outlet, with buyers making little objection to former cost and the market closing firmly at full former figures.

LUMBER.—Demand for consumption continues somewhat moderate and uncertain, but is losing nothing in volume, while in a few cases may be found evidences of a gain. Two or three dealers report an increased call from out-of-town sources, others are picking up a little in their trade with builders, and the manufacturing interest is fairly represented. Against new outlets may be placed the withdrawal temporarily of some customers who have satisfied current wants, but the defection on the latter score is not quite as great as the growth of inquiry from the sources named, and the market is benefited for what it is worth. Sellers secure no better rates, but are hopeful that the distribution will expand until it forms a basis for a stronger market. In a wholesale way the adjustment of supply to demand has assumed a more successful form, and receivers speak hopefully of seeing this advantage increased still further. While it is probably as well not to be oversanguine regarding the market, there certainly appears to be a more cheerful strain in the expression of views this week.

Eastern Spruce still has many conflicting influences to encounter, and there may occasionally be heard quite a difference of expression in the reports of operators. Repudiating exceptional dealings, however, and taking the average run of business, sellers certainly appear to have lost no ground, and for really attractive stock have probably made a gain. Some of the dealers, it is intimated, now commence to see where they made a mistake in not securing stocks at an earlier period and are a little anxious to obtain an assortment in order to be prepared for competition with their better supplied neighbors in the effort to meet such demand as may arise. Quotations continue to be made at $11.50@15 00 for randoms, up to $16.50 asked for specials, but not many of the latter being closed.

White Pine offers little opportunity for extended comment. Really first-class stock receives some attention, and is generally believed to have passed the lowest point of the season as regards cost, but on the general run of stock matters are in the old unsettled condition, and it is largely a matter of chance as to whether the buyer or seller secures the advantage. Of coarse and medium grades there appears to be no doubt that supplies will prove full enough. Exporters occasionally give fair orders, but the foreign demand is of a very erratic character. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do.

Yellow Pine in a spasmodic sort of way is meeting with some demand, and there seems to be an inclination to magnify each sale and contract into even greater significance than it deserves. Still it is very natural that every favorable sympton on this long prostrate market should be given prominence, and operators are fairly excusable for making the most of business that on any respectable degree of general animation would be considered of only passing importance. Offerings appear to be managed with somewhat greater care, but an increase of demand would find supplies forthcoming in greater abundance. Agents are picking up some f. o. b. contracts, but this trade is not as full as it was, owing to the heavy amounts already sent to Southern ports. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19.50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $20@22; Dry, do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $18@15 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $12@14 for rough, and $20@21 for dressed.

Hardwoods on home account are moderately active, and do not appear to be moving very freely for export, but the latter outlet between a pretty good run of small purchases here, and through shipments is exhausting a considerable quantity of stock from month to month. On the general range rates remain about as before, though light fluctuations occasionally take place. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M.; ash, $33@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending September 16 as follows:

There has been a fair attendance of buyers in market, and some considerable sales have been made, one of over a million of feet to a Connecticut dealer. The shipments show an improved trade which is expected to continue for the remainder of the season of navigation. In Canada and Michigan many of the mills have ceased sawing, and others will soon do so. This will curtail the receipts and the effect should be to stiffen prices. The manufacturers, also, intend to lessen the cut of logs in the coming winter to prevent over-production. There is a good stock and fine assortment of pine on the yards here, much of which is well seasoned. Spruce and hemlock are also in good stock and the demand is fair, with considerable shipments through from the mills to the yards of customers on the river and in New York and vicinity. Hardwoods are coming in steadily by water and rail, keeping up a full supply of all kinds. Sales are fair, and seasoned lumber fit for immediate use can be obtained. The demand for shingles is limited and so is the supply. Lath are in good stock with steady sales.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

Manufacturers on the Saginaw River are invariably looking for some excuse to report the market dull, and the extreme heat of last week has been their pretext. The invariable answer one receives on inquiry as to the condition of the market is "dead." Yet in the face of this, lumber continues to float out of the river at the rate of about four million feet per day, and one is constrained to query if the market is "dead" how is this thus. The fact is that about the only criterion by which to judge of the amount of business being transacted on the river is by scanning the clearances at the custom house, the reticence of manufacturers and shippers rendering it impossible to form any accurate conclusion otherwise. Very few sales come to the surface, but among those of the past week we note the following:

Will McGraw to Robinson, of Buffalo, 50,000 feet of Norway at $9 50; 450,000 feet of white pine to Albany parties at $9, $18 and $38; and also 100,000 feet of cull boards; a sale of 672,000 feet was also made at East Saginaw to Erie parties, p. t.; Murphy & Dorr, 200,000 feet of mill culls and two lots, one of 500,000 feet of good and 200,000 feet of coarse, to J. H. Hill & Sons, at market rates; 625,000 feet of good lumber also sold at East Saginaw to eastern parties, p. t.; 300,000 feet at $9, $18 and $38; 250,000 feet at same price, and 250,000 feet at $9 50 straight, all by Saginaw parties; Mosher & Fisher, of West Bay City, report sale of 200,000 feet on Saturday to eastern parties; 800,000 feet was sold at East Saginaw to go east; 650,000 at same place to go to Ohio; 400,000 feet destined to Pennsylvania, and 490,000 feet to C. H. Plummer, who says he has sold $11,000 worth in two transactions during the past week.

As regards prices there is very little to be said; although the only inference to be drawn is that they are anything but firm, from the fact that when sales leak out they are generally reported at going rates, or p. t.

There is an unusually large fleet of vessels in the river, and freights remain as usual, $1.50 to Buffalo and Tonawanda, and $1.25 to Ohio ports.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

CHICAGO.

As many as a dozen cargoes have arrived from Lake Huron ports during the week. These liberal receipts from that quarter excite much comment, and interest is expressed as to what the result will be if lower lake lumber continues to be thrown on this market in such quantities. Considerable is coming from Cheboygan and some from Menominee and Peshtigo—in fact, "from all creation," as one commission man put it. We know that there is plenty of lumber in pile at the different mill points at the northern end of the lake and on the Huron shore, the only reason why it has accumulated being because there has been a dull market. This lumber must come forward some time, but whether it will come fast or slow is a question that vitally affects the strength of the market.

Dimension is still arriving in smaller proportion than inch lumber, and prices of it are relatively stronger. For short green stuff $8.25 to $8.50 are the figures named, a good deal selling at $8.87½. Dry cargoes this week have sold at $9, $9.12½ and $9.25, the lower figures being the price when there was a large percentage of Norway, or the sizes were the least desirable, and the outside figures being realized when there was a large percentage of 2x4 or 2x12. There are surmises of a small drop on piece stuff in actual transactions, but both seller and buyer are so reticent on this point that it is difficult to estimate the actual decline. Our lowest figure on short green piece stuff last week was $8.37½; this week $8.25 is acknowledged to be the bottom of the range.

More dry lumber was in the fleet this week than heretofore. The stuff from the cross piles begins to appear in heavier proportion than earlier. Much of it is but partly dry. There is rather more good lumber being offered than earlier in the season, the decline in No. 1 and good stock rendering it less of an object to hold such lumber back than it was in the spring.

Piece stuff, green	$8 25@ 8 50
Long timbers, green	10 00@11 50
Coarse common	9 00@ 9 50
Boards and strips, No. 2, green	9 50@11 00
" medium, green	11 00@15 00
" No. 1, green	15 00@18 00
High grade	18 00@24 00

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Extreme bad weather in the Northwest has interfered very seriously with shipments of lumber and kept back orders. Minneapolis only got out 353 cars for the week. The local trade is immense and prices are steady, the only cutting below regular discounts being either for low grade lumber or under the whip. The log market seems to be better but what the effect of the floods will be on the price of logs this fall is hard to determine. They are not likely to grow any better.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trade's Journal says:

Cedar.—In this we do not hear of much doing, and not until the consumption shows more activity can we expect to see any special change.

American black walnut.—From what we can learn we gather that this trade shows some improvement, and with judicious action on the part of shippers we think their prospects are brightening.

American whitewood.—There is a fair trade doing in this wood, but there appears to be sufficient stock in the docks now to last some little time.

American oak.—Some parcels of plank stuff have just been landed, and, as nothing of this sort has been sent here lately, we think they have a fair chance of finding buyers.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot since the placing of the regular fall contracts some time ago has had no further large sale. The engagements above referred to were made at 13c., but the ordinary jobbing movement to which business is now mainly confined is conducted at about 13¼c. for Lake down to 12¼@12½c. for other kinds. Manufactured Copper has secured some little attention in the ordinary form of trade orders, but buyers are rarely inclined to invest with freedom. Old valuations are made, but the tendency is in buyers' favor. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary size, over 16 oz. per sq. foot, 22c. per lb.; do. do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 24c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per sq. foot, 27c. per lb.; do., do., lighter than 10 oz. per sq. foot, 29c. per lb.; circles less than 84 inches in diameter, 25c. per lb.; 84 inches in diameter and over, 28c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 25c. per lb.; locomotive fire-box sheets, 23c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz. per sq. foot, 20c. per lb., and Bolt Copper, 23c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig appears to just about hold a steady position, but the demand as a rule is slow, and importers experience some difficulty in making a close adjustment of supply to the outlet. We quote at $19.00@22.50 per ton, according to quantity and brand. American Pig remains much the same as for some time past. Really high grade adapted to best class of foundry work is not plenty and will command a full rate, but low quality and mill irons are plenty enough and easy in tone. We quote $19.50@20.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry, $18.00@19.00 for No. 2 X do. do., and $16.50@18.00 for gray forge. Old Rails not very freely offered here, but the demand not active, and should it improve stock can be brought forward from distant points without much difficulty. Scrap Iron has secured some little attention, but the demand was readily met, and prices have remained easy all around. We quote at $17@19 for old tee rails, $20@21 for double heads, $18.50@19.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap ex ship, $19.50@20.00 for selected do., $16.50@17.00 for old car wheels, and $19.00@19 50 for crop ends. Steel Rails notwithstanding the very low rates ruling fail to secure any unusual amount of attention. Buyers who can see good positive use for stock do not hesitate to invest, and some have made contracts for spring delivery, but demand does not appear to be greatly stimulated. We quote at $26.50@27.00 per ton for heavy sections, according to delivery, etc. Manufactured iron is selling moderately, and in nearly all cases only on basis of early requirements, with offerings fully equal to the outlet, and prices showing no great amount of strength. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.00@2.10c. from store and Refined at 2.10@2 45c.; Rods, round and square 2.20@2.35c.; Bands, 2.50@2.60c.; Norway Nail Rods, 5¼@6c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.70@3.00c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig rarely finds any demand beyond an ordinary run of jobbing orders and the market is slow, with values lacking in positive strength throughout, but no heavy pressure of stock. We quote at about 3½@3⅝c. per lb., according to brand and the size of invoice handled. The manufactures of lead are steady and quoted: Bar, 4½@4¾c.; pipe, 5¾c.; and sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 40c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has found very little sale in round parcels, but a pretty good supply has kept in motion on jobbing orders and commanded steady rates throughout. The amount available is fair and pretty well assorted. We quote at 18¼@18½c. for Straits, 18⅜@18⅝c. for Australian, 19@19⅛ for English, and 19⅛@19⅝c. for Banca. Tin Plates have a somewhat unsettled market on which the buyer is apparently losing no advantage. Most of the business is on the ordinary run of trade orders. We quote I. C. Charcoal, third class assortment, $5.12½@5.15 for Allaway grade, and $5.75@5.80 for Melyn grade; for each additional X add $1.25 and $1.50 respectively; I. C. Coke, $4.77½@4.80 for B. V. grade; $4.85@4.87½ for J. B. grade; Charcoal terne, $4 60@4.75 for Allaway and Dean grades 14x20; $9.50@9.70 for do. 20x28; Coke terne, $4.45@4 50 for Glais grade 14x20, and $9.35@9.40 for do. 20x28—all in round lots. Spelter of ordinary brand is selling fairly and ruling about steady, but the general market without unusual features worthy of note. We quote at 4⅝@4¾c. for domestic and foreign, according to brand, quantity, etc. Sheet Zinc in average trade demand, with no features of unusual interest to note. We quote at 5¾@6⅞c., according to quality; quantity, etc.

NAILS.—Demand has again undergone some fluctuation during the past week, but were it possible to arrive at a footing it is likely the total of business would be found to vary only slightly from that ruling for some little time. Most home outlets are calling for an ordinary quantity and assortment, and as shipping facilities are presented exporters become purchasers. Stocks are still found available to the extent of the wants of the market, with something to spare for extra calls, and cost does not differ to any material extent. We quote at $2.15@2.25 per keg for 10d. to 60d., according to quantity.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business is not up to expectations in all cases, and now and then complaint is quite pronounced in tone. Still, on the whole, the market presents nothing of a thoroughly discouraging character, and the chances are that the most dissatisfied portion of the trade may be found among those who appear to think that a month or two should bring a recovery of all that has been lost on a year of dragging operations. Prices are fairly maintained Linseed Oil has a fairly uniform tone at about 53@55c. for domestic and 56@58c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine in average demand and a shade firmer at 31½@32½c., according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—The movement of supplies is reported fair and the market steady at about the old line of cost. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

J. T. LINDSEY, Business Manager.

SEPTEMBER 27, 1884.

The appointment of Judge Gresham as Secretary of the Treasury is hailed with a chorus of approbation by the press of the country. Why, it is hard to say. He is entirely lacking in the training that would fit him for so exacting a position. He was a good officer in the civil war, and when judge of a local court was without reproach, but what was there in these positions to fit him for the most important office in the government next after the presidency? Hugh McCullogh, whom the President thought of appointing, would have been far better fitted for the place.

Rev. Howard Crosby makes a good suggestion. He calls upon citizens to unite upon a good candidate for Mayor irrespective of party. As this is a Democratic city, he wants the citizens' candidate to be of that party. National politics should have nothing to do with the choice of city officers. There are plenty of good candidates for the Mayoralty, among them are ex-Mayor Cooper, ex-Mayor Grace and the present Mayor, Mr. Edson. These gentlemen have brains, character and experience. If a new man is wanted, there is Mr. E. H. Ludlow, who knows more about New York than any Mayor ever chosen. But it is vitally important that the next Mayor should be a good one.

Within the past ten days steel rails have advanced from $26.50 per ton to $29.50. This would be the most hopeful sign of the times were not the change brought about by artificial means. For some time past the great steel manufacturers have been restricting production so that the demand has caught up with the supply on hand. Steel making is once more profitable, and there are sufficient orders in to insure the employment of two-thirds of the men during the winter months. It has been conceded that the tide would have changed for the better if the iron industry spontaneously revived; but while steel has advanced there is no quotable change for the better in iron. Indeed, blast furnaces are fewer in number to-day than any time since 1879.

In view of the contemplated erection of several new school buildings it seems a pity that the city should not provide for better designs than have been exhibited in the past. Private owners are rapidly learning the true economy of employing a trained architect in the arrangement and designing of their buildings, as well in the immediate disposition of their resources to the best advantage as in the enhancement in value of their property from meritorious structures. The municipality, however, has not yet moved from the orthodox brick boxes with sheet metal cornices which the builder of the past generation affected. Witness the new school building at Eighty-fifth street and First avenue, which might be barracks or brewery as far as its outward appearance tells, and which in internal appointments is behind the mark of modern requirements. Such productions are painful in themselves to look at, and a detriment to surrounding property. At no greater cost a beautiful and imposing building might have been erected which would have been an ornament to the city, instead of the bare and repelling mass of masonry that we can regard only with annoyance. Other cities have adopted a more sensible policy; let New York do likewise.

The telephone suit now before our courts is naturally attracting a good deal of attention. Should Bell and his company be defeated the whole business will be thrown open to public competition, as the patents will have no value. The existing companies will, however, still have a great advantage over rival organizations, as they are in the field and their machinery is ready to meet public requirements. When the sewing machine patents expired in 1879, it was supposed that the old companies would be driven from the field by new competitors; but they have held their own with the public and all their rivals (and there were many of them), save two, have failed to meet with general favor. Telephonic science, however, has more of a future than the sewing machine industry. As there are many improvements yet to be made, these have been kept back because of the claim of the Bell company to the exclusive right of certain essentials in the construction and operating of telephones. The vastness of this business may be judged from the fact that altogether it will pay 6 per cent. annually on a capital of $100,000,000, and yet this enormous business has grown up without checking the steady increase in the number of telegraph messages. The almost sudden creation of this new telephone property has a bearing upon the money supply question. There is a constant need of more gold, silver and paper in which to transact the growing business of the country.

Still Going Ahead.

When THE RECORD AND GUIDE was first published in March, 1868, it aimed to become the recognized organ of the real estate interests of New York and vicinity. In pursuance of this design it gave the conveyances, mortgages, plans for new buildings, the real estate and building market tables, judgments and the like, with fullness and painstaking accuracy, but it contained little in the way of comment, and its editorials were confined strictly to local real estate matters. It had its reward in the unwavering support of a clientele which no opposition has been able to take from it. In the seventeen years since it started, more than a dozen competitors, backed by large capital, have tried to become its rival, but all have failed, and to-day it is the undisputed and exclusive local organ of the real estate and allied interests.

Encouraged by the patronage it had received, the conductors of THE RECORD AND GUIDE in the fall of 1882 resolved on a new departure. The paper was enlarged and improved and the editorial force increased so as to discuss intelligently all public and especially business questions which immediately or remotely affected real property. It is obvious to any one that the mere statement of the local real estate market was not sufficient to guide investors and dealers in forming judgments about the present or future value of realty. There were larger and more vital forces always at work in determining values. The crops, the condition of the money market, the balance of trade, political questions with a business side to them, responsible government—all these were potent factors in the real estate market. From our experience during the last two years we are satisfied that a mere news journal does not fill the bill. There has been a steady increase of our circulation, not only within but outside this city, ever since we have been discussing politics and business in their larger aspects. So marked has been the success of THE RECORD AND GUIDE since its new departure that its conductors have determined upon still further improvements, and will add new features so as to make it the most trustworthy business weekly in the metropolis. But while adding new departments this paper will continue to give the same painstaking attention to real estate, for which it has always been distinguished from the beginning. Land, after all, is the basis of all wealth; its very name, realty, tells the story of its substantiality as compared with possessions based on personal property.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE will hereafter not scruple to discuss any of the vital questions of the day, especially those affecting the business of the country. New York is without a first-class business weekly. We have some excellent railway and technical hebdomadals; but no one publication yet fills the bill for the business man, who does not wish to be wearied by figures, but desires to arrive at correct judgments upon the various economical problems of the time. One feature we propose to introduce which will be of great value. We shall publish extracts weekly from all the leading journals and the best of the dailies which will throw any light on the business situation. Instead of buying a multitude of journals, the merchant, banker, tradesman and investor will find in THE RECORD AND GUIDE a carefully edited compendium from the contemporary press of the wisest editorials on financial and trade topics. This paper will be improved also typographically. Some of the tables not directly relating to real estate will be transferred to another publication in order to make room for the new departments.

All good citizens who have the fair fame of their country at heart will experience a sense of relief when this unspeakably disgraceful presidential canvass is over. There are no vital issues at stake between the two parties, and the contest has resolved itself into a personal one, in which the vilest charges are made on each side, and, it must be confessed, pretty well substantiated. Happily in six weeks' time the worst will be known.

The Cause of It.

The Stockholder in a recent article calls attention to the low prices of everything, including money. Some general cause, it admits, is at work to cut down values, whether of raw material or the manufactured article. It says:

Cheap as the rates for money now are on the New York and London markets, they are not lower than the prices of nearly all commercial articles. The correspondence in decline is very nearly equal all around, and without signs of an early improvement in either. By many leading American and foreign economists, the decline in values, which has been in progress for the past two years, is the result of a more general adherence to the mono-metallic basis, and by many others on both sides of the Atlantic, quite as eminent for observation and judgment, to over-production. The causes on which the reasoning for the former conclusion is founded are not so clear as ordinary comprehension could desire. They are mainly theories that may find more or less application in the long run, but have less application to the present low condition of values than that of production in advance of the demand for consumption. Commercial trade is eminently practical in its deductions, and rarely indulges in occult causes when plain and clear reasons for a change in values is so nearly at hand. Trade argues, and is satisfied with its conclusions, that the price of manufactured goods is low, and the margin of profits the most limited, because goods are thrown on the market in excess of the demand for consumption

But why should the rates for money be low? There is no over-production in the precious metals or in the paper issued by the banking corporations. The sum of the national bank notes has been reduced nearly $40,000,000 from the highest point. The unusual heavy reserves in the banks shows that there is less money than usual afloat in the commercial community. The production of silver is less than it was years ago and of gold very much less, yet, instead of appreciating, the rates for the use of money are depreciating.

The Stockholder says that mono-metallism as a cause of the reduced valuations is not clear to "ordinary comprehension," yet the merest tyro in Wall street knows that when money is poured into the street prices go up and that any natural or artificial locking up of money affects prices unfavorably. If one of the money metals of the world is set aside by force of positive law, does it not follow that the narrower basis of a monetary unit will force down prices? Is it not true that all great silver and gold discoveries in the past in South America, Mexico, California and Australia have stimulated trade and made the world prosperous while the supply lasted? This has been the experience of the commercial world for over three hundred years. Now when Great Britain, Germany and other commercial nations undertake to limit the precious metal supply by demonetizing the most important of the two what can we expect but a shrinkage in values and a blight upon the business of the world? The condition of trade is anomalous. Nature has been generous with her gifts since 1881. There has been no shortage in anything save corn and that this year is most abundant. Yet all raw material and all manufactured articles are selling at the smallest profit if not at an actual loss on the cost of production. There has been no over-production except in the few manufactured articles in this country. The real difficulty has been the under-production of money with which to purchase goods. We have shortened the yard-stick that measures values and there is no hope for better times until the supply of money is increased by rehabilitating silver to its old place as the equal partner of gold. The commerce of the world is now hopping about on its one gold leg. It cannot take its old stride until its silver limb is free to run the race demanded by the contests of commercial interest.

Harper's Monthly, in commenting upon the defects in house drainage and the peril to health caused thereby, says:

"There is a remedy so simple, especially in all new designs, that it is almost inconceivable that it has not already become universal, viz., to confine the closets, bath-rooms, lavatories and all other so-called conveniences within an annex, or within impervious walls at the rear of dwellings, reaching from the cellar to the roof. Such inclosed space may be warmed and ventilated more thoroughly and easily than any other part of a dwelling. Any leakage would not affect the air of the dwelling, while the total cost of the plumbing would be greatly reduced."

This suggestion originally appeared in these columns and has been time and again repeated. The majority of our most palatial mansions, and nearly all our great apartment houses, are defective in this respect. The water-closets are often placed between the sleeping rooms and the kitchen, while the lavatories are universally located in the sleeping chambers. Hence sewer gas and malarial disorders as well as foul smells in or near the living rooms of the house. We must go back to first principles. The old privy was in a house by itself. The water-closets, bath-rooms and washing apparatus must in the future be placed in an inclosed compartment, running from cellar to roof, but completely cut off from every other part of the house. The plumbing could be much more easily attended to if thus separated than when as now the pipes run to all parts of the building.

Our Prophetic Department.

MR. BOVINE—The market still seems depressed; have you no comfort to give to us bulls who expected so much of the corn crop?

SIR ORACLE—You know by this time that I am a bear on the distant future; I think the prices of all commodities, with some exceptions, are destined to a steady shrinkage. Over and over in these conversations I have urged prudent people to hoard money or evidences of debt, such as governments, good bonds, mortgages, undoubted railway securities, everything, in short, which is sure to furnish a certain income, no matter if it seems small.

MR. BOVINE—Oh, yes; I remember your old theory that the efforts of the commercial world to get rid of silver as a money metal, and substitute gold as the sole unit, was constantly adding to the value of gold and its equivalents, which would show itself in the diminished price of every article whose value it measured. But please explain why you except bonds, securities, evidences of debt which cannot be evaded, and fixed incomes?

SIR O.—Because they are paid in gold or its equivalent, which gold is constantly increasing in value, or, in other words, in purchasing power. This depression is a bad thing for borrowers, for all who are in debt, for all who produce or manufacture; but it is a very satisfactory state of affairs to capitalists, creditors, bankers, the owners of the wealth of the world, and to government officials whose salaries are fixed by law.

MR. BOVINE—Granting all this, the increase of the purchasing power of gold is a very slow process. There are a number of secondary causes which create bull markets, such as a temporary abundance of money, large crops, a monopoly of certain agricultural products by a country, such as cotton and corn with us. Is there not some comfort for us in the present situation, in view of the large crops, especially that of corn?

SIR O.—I confidently expect to see a rally in prices on the Exchange when the influence of the present great corn crop is felt in the railway receipts. From January to April, next year, there will hardly be rolling stock enough in the country to transport the corn; and later still the influence of this crop will be felt in the transportation of provisions.

MR. BOVINE—What do you say of the wheat situation; is there no compensation for excessive cheapness?

SIR O.—The farmer is better off even at the present prices of wheat than is generally understood. I have already remarked upon the fact of the relative cheapness of everything else, as well as wheat; and some figures in a recent Bradstreet are interesting in this connection. Here is the table:

	PRICES AT NEW YORK. July 1. 1883.	July 1. 1883.	1884 July 1.	1884 Sept 17.	Dec. over 2 years, pr. ct.

Com. bar, at mill	50.00	44 00	34 00	37 00	36
Nails, per keg	3.35	3.40	2 15	2 00	38
Rails, steel, per ton	58.00	40.00	39.00	26 50	54

* Since July 1, 1883.

This makes a bad showing, as it exhibits an average decline of 31 per cent. in two years and two months. Wool has had the least decline and spring flour the most. As an offset of this, the farmer buys his clothing for about 15 per cent. less. There is no way of getting at the figures of agricultural machinery, but it is known that they are greatly reduced in value. Manufactured cotton goods are 25 per cent. cheaper, and woolens about 20 per cent. Lumber for farm purposes has been greatly reduced in current values; sugar, tea, coffee and other groceries have averaged from 18 to 25 per cent. decline. Thus, while the farmer has suffered undoubtedly in the market price of his small grain, corn and other agricultural products, some of his loss has been made up by the greater cheapness of everything he wears or uses. For one, I believe that wheat has reached its lowest point, and I look for high prices for wheat a year from now, after the crop of 1885 is gathered.

MR. BOVINE—How do you make that out? I thought all the world was competing in the matter of wheat.

SIR O.—The low price of the last two years will, I think, put a stop to much wheat growing in Great Britain, on the Continent, East India, Australia and in every place where labor is dear and land is valuable. Farmers distant from the markets or where land and labor are high will not continue growing wheat at a loss. Hence I think that the good wheat of this crop year kept until another crop year will find a ready market at high figures.

MR. BOVINE—Well, I am glad you think that there is one article in which there is money, even if it has to be kept a year.

SIR O.—I expect to see much better than the present prices next spring; at current figures it pays to feed wheat to stock, and then

I think it will be found that relatively we have not grown a very large wheat crop. In this connection the following extract from the Railroad Gazette should be carefully pondered by those who are disposed to expect a great deal from the wheat crop of the present year:

The agricultural department says that the whole wheat crop this year will vary little from 500,000,000 bushels, which seems to us to be a reasonable estimate. This compares as follows with the production for the seven years previous in millions of bushels:

Thus the crop this year is very nearly the same as in 1880 and 1882, and considering the large increase in population and the larger increase of railroads, it cannot be called a large one, the production per 1,000 inhabitants and per mile of railroad having been:

	1879.	1880.	1881.	1882.	1883.	1884.
Per 1,000 inhabitants....	9,440	9,940	7,338	9,400	7,610	8,782
Per mile of railroad.....	5,600	5,665	3,900	4,668	3,563	4,066

Thus though the crop this year is nearly the same as in 1880 and 1882 and 40, 00,000 more than in 1879, the production per inhapitant is 7 per cent. less than in 1879, 11⅓ per cent. less than in 1880, and 6¼ per cent. less than in 1882, and the production per mile of railroad is 27½ per cent. less than in 1879, 28 per cent. less than in 1880, and 13 per cent. less than in 1882. A failure to take into account the great growth of population and the enormous increase in railroad mileage since 1879 leads people to expect too much from large crops. Their good effect has to be divided among so many more people and railroads than in 1879 and 1880 that there is very much less to be gained by each. If the crop had increased in proportion to population since 1879, it would be 538,000,000 bushels this year; if in proportion to railroad mileage, 736,000,000.

It should always be borne in mind that while the productive capacity of our manufactures can be increased 25 per cent. per annum, our increase of agricultural products rarely exceeds more than 3 per cent. per annum. We have no more wheat this year than we had in 1882, while there are some four million more people to eat it. We shall have less cotton this year than last, and far less than in 1882. Corn and potatoes are the only crops in excess of former good years.

MR. BOVINE—All this is not very encouraging. Can you think of nothing else that is likely to increase in value, and which a person of means could buy with an assurance of an increase?

SIR O.—Yes, I should have mentioned land in this country, it is a fixed quantity and our population steadily increases. You can put me down as a bull on real estate in the United States. I believe in wheat at present prices, and I think good railway bonds are cheap, but I do not think that we will have any pronounced rally in the stock market for some little time to come.

MR. BOVINE—Is there no circumstance apart from the corn crop which will cause a rally in the market?

SIR O.—I am inclined to believe there is something in the theory held in London that the key to the speculative situation is in the relations of the New York Central system to West Shore organization. The final solution of the matter would be the ownership of the West Shore road by the Central company. When that is accomplished then look out for a bull movement led by the Vanderbilt securities.

MR. BOVINE—Is this a possible result in view of Mr. Vanderbilt's repeated statements that he did not want the West Shore road?

SIR O.—The history of railways in this country is one of continual consolidations, merger agreements, and, what amounts to the same thing, pooling arrangements. Railways are monopolies from their very nature. There can never be any permanent competition between transportation lines or telegraph systems. The New York Central must come to some agreement with the West Shore road; it is simply a question of time. The present fight is to get at terms agreeable to both parties. While the quarrel lasts the stock market cannot advance.

MR. BOVINE—What stocks seem to you the most desirable for investors at present prices and at the present time?

SIR O.—Western Union and Manhattan Consolidated. These companies are not affected by bad crops, the weather, the money market, rate wars, the state of business or any of the factors which depress the value of railway securities. As the city grows there will be a steady enhancement in the value of street-car and "L" railway stock; as the country grows its telegraphic business becomes more important and more profitable.

MR. BOVINE—What you say about Manhattan stock seems reasonable, but is not the Western Union forced to keep on fighting opposition lines? Its largest business is of course between the great cities, and it has proved an easy matter to string wires from Boston to Chicago, or from New York to St. Louis, stopping only at the great cities.

SIR O.—Yet it is a matter of record that no opposition company has ever yet paid expenses. They have all so far been forced to come under the sheltering wing of the great telegraph monopoly. As I have just remarked the tendency of the age, in governments as in corporations, is toward consolidation. The establishment of a rival telegraph line that would keep its independence is against the whole experience of telegraph history from the time when the Western Union began to swallow up its rivals in business. The final issue of the telegraph controversy will be its purchase by the government. In the meantime the Western Union will continue to pay large dividends upon the market price of its stock. Never at any time in its history has the stock sold for what it was worth. People will not pay for poles, wires and chemicals as high a price as they will for property which is more substantial even if less profitable. There are plenty of good low priced bonds in the market and many stocks that are cheap at present prices but the latter will be under a cloud until the business of the country revives.

International Silver Coinage Conference.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22, 1884.

To the Editor of the Commercial Bulletin:

I have just received by private dispatch from London the following important information: "At the annual meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, to be held at Wolverhampton on September 30 and October 1, according to the official programme, a resolution is to be submitted (initiated from Birmingham) in favor of a conference on the silver question, to the following effect: 'That Her Majesty's Government be urged to promote a conference with other leading nations with reference to the desirability of re-habilitating silver as international money.'" This will be seen to be all the more important when associated with the following act, making appropriation, &c., of the last Congress: "To enable the President to continue negotiations with foreign governments respecting the establishment of a common ratio between gold and silver, ten thousand dollars." W. M. B.

The above is an important indication of a change of feeling which has long been going on in England, respecting the wisdom of gold being the sole unit of value for the commercial world. The Rothschilds, ex-President Gibbs of the Bank of England, and many of the leading financiers of the British Empire have long been of the opinion that the depression in business the world over was due to the demonetization of silver, and that there was no hope of any general revival until bi-metallism was again the rule in the inter-trade relations of the world. The Hon. George J. Goschen, confessedly the leading financial authority in the ranks of the Liberal party, has delivered some remarkable speeches on this subject in Parliament, and has shown that the steady shrinkage in prices has been due to the adoption of the gold unit by the commercial nations.

It is not at all likely, however, that the Associated Chambers of Commerce will endorse the petition for a change from the present system. It is true that the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce is on record as demanding the full recognition of silver as a money metal, but then the merchants of that city had in mind the grievous losses which they had endured in the East India trade when silver became so greatly depreciated in value by the action of the American and German governments in 1873. But England is the great creditor nation of the world. It is clearly her interest to have her debts liquidated in the most valuable money extant. Then all government employes, holders of trust funds and people with fixed incomes will oppose any cheapening of the standard of value for obvious reasons. Still there will be some curiosity to see what action will be taken by the Associated Chambers of Commerce in England touching this exceedingly important matter. There ought to be something about it in the cable dispatches of next Thursday.

The Building Strikes.

[From The Real Estate Chronicle.]

The public, through the daily press, has evidently obtained a wrong impression as to the cause of the strike of the bricklayers and subsequently of the stonecutters of this city. The true inwardness of this labor revolt lies at greater depth than is generally supposed. The various trade unions connected with the building interests, and particularly the stonecutters and bricklayers, have amalgamated and have entrusted the management of their combined societies into the hands of what they term a "committee of general good." This committee has absolute power to order a strike against any employer they may see fit, without consulting the general body of its members. It thus not infrequently occurs that a strike is ordered without any explanation being forthcoming. This is the case with the stonecutters at present. Many of the men have been asked what grounds they had for leaving work, and have confessed that they do not know what they are striking for and that they have no grievance, seeing that they obtain four-and-a-half-dollars for eight hours' work per diem. "They only knew," they said, "that the strike was ordered, and they were forced to obey, though they understood that it was out of sympathy for the bricklayers, and with the object of assisting them in their endeavor to reduce the time of labor to nine hours a day." This is only one phase of the question, but the "committee of general good" does not propose to stop here. They intend after obtaining nine hours this season to demand eight hours next year, the stonecutters to assist them by refusing to allow any stone work to be set in buildings where the master mason refuses to accede to the demands of the bricklayers. They in turn, after having obtained eight hours, are to assist the stonecutters by refusing to work on any building the stone for which was cut outside of New York city. This is understood to be the compact between the journeymen stonecutters and bricklayers as agreed upon by the "committee of general good." This would give them full control of the building interests of the city, and that arbitrary power they propose to use by driving out of business all employers who might be obnoxious to their respective organizations. All this is very severe on the master stonecutters who have to complete contracts entered into last spring without any knowledge of this contemplated strike. They had thousands of dollars of work out and completed ahead, ready to be placed in various buildings. They are now told that if they persist in sending stone to the buildings the men will be withdrawn. And because the employers have protested against such high-handed conduct on the part of the labor committees the strike has been ordered, and millions of dollars kept back from being invested in one of the principal industries of this city.

Concerning Men and Things.

William K. Vanderbilt is hereafter to be the ruling spirit in all the Vanderbilt properties. He is now and long has been the right hand of his father, W. H. Vanderbilt, in his railroad and Wall street business. The latter is gradually retiring from the active management of his various properties, and in every case his successor is his favorite son, Wm. K. The latter has shown nerve, sagacity, industry, and a thorough knowledge of the situation in all the emergencies of the "street." Indeed, William K. Vanderbilt is worth all the rest of the junior Vanderbilts put together so far as the ability to control large interests are concerned. He is now chairman of the executive committee of the Lake Shore directors, the president of the Nickel Plate road, the ruling spirit in New York Central and C., C., C. & I., and will soon take the place of Jay Gould in the Northwest directory, who has been invited to resign. In all these matters we speak by the card. From this time forth Wm. K. Vanderbilt will be second to no one in or out of the "street," not even Jay Gould, whose star has apparently passed its zenith.

Our city newspapers are becoming untrustworthy. In the race for local sensations they invent interviews and incidents which have no foundation in fact. The escapade of Miss Victoria Morosini led to a swarm of statements and interviews in the various journals which were wholly fictitious. The coachman and his wife declare that the published interviews with them were all untrue, as they never saw but one reporter during the whole time. Mr. Connor, the broker, Dr. Cantoni and Mr. Morosini unite in declaring that nearly every publication made as being authorized by them was totally false. The published letter of Jay Gould to Morosini, on his family misfortune was, it seems, a forgery. It appears that all the journals were tarred with the same stick. The story that Mrs. Schelling was to appear at Niblo's was a fabrication in every particular. Our city daily press is not what it should be. A journal will make its appearance some day which will tell the truth, and nothing but the truth, and it will have its reward.

"I believe," said Mr. George F. Peabody, of Spencer Trask & Co., "that there is a gigantic wheat speculation under way; I think there is conspiracy among the great operators to force down the price of wheat till they can load up, and, when the time comes, it will be found that there is not more wheat in the world than can be consumed. It is an old, old dodge of the operators to magnify the crops of wheat, corn and cotton when these products are first brought into the market; the object being to buy them as cheaply as possible from the producers. This gives them a chance to secure the grain and cotton at low prices, while consumption is at the same time stimulated to the great advantage of the speculators, when they are ready to sell at advanced figures." "Up to this time," continued Mr. Peabody, "I believe the wheat product of the world has been overestimated, and the probable consumption underestimated."

A. M. Palmer, it is said, is negotiating for the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, at the junction of Sixth avenue, Broadway and Thirty-fifth street, as the site for a new theatre. The location is admirable, but unless the intention is to have stores on the ground floor the site will prove too costly for a theatre. Theatres require a great deal of room and they never pay on ground naturally very valuable. They require an entrance, it is true, on a leading thoroughfare, but the history of Booth's Theatre tells the story of the folly of a theatre which requires room, for which ordinary trade will pay a much higher price. Niblo's Garden, the Star Theatre and the Union Square Theatre are well located in this respect, but more than half the theatres in the city are wrongly built in this particular. Among others are Wallack's, Daly's, the Academy of Music, the Metropolitan Opera House, the Casino and the Cosmopolitan theatres are so situated. Eventually it will be found that the newest of these places of amusement will cause their owners to lose money continuously. Mr. A. M. Palmer is, however, too far-seeing a business man to spend his money on so valuable a site as the Seventy-first Regiment Armory for a theatre.

What possesses homely actors to scatter their pictures far and wide? Every show-window in New York has recently contained a lithograph of Joseph Murphy, who has been starring for some years in a piece written by Fred. Marsden and called "Kerry Gow." Mr. Murphy has an extremely common face; indeed, it is coarse—brutal almost—and the lithograph does not flatter him by any means. The picture of a pretty woman might be attractive enough to induce a person to visit a theatre; but surely the reproduction of Mr. Murphy's ugly mug would repel rather than draw to a place of amusement. It is curious, also, that many candidates for office, whose faces are actually repulsive, should distribute their "counterfeit presentments" in the hope thereby of securing votes.

Home Decorative Notes.

—The taste and desire for elegancies are being developed and displayed to a very great extent, the danger being that without forethought we may be carried beyond what is wise and just; many appointments for bedrooms have a regal significance, some very rich hangings prepared for a bed which stands on a dais were of pink satin, bordered by gray plush; inside on the satin is a vine-like ornament made of two gold cords, couched in curves and intersecting at intervals in a small diamond-shaped figure; at the points of intersection are branching leaves in gold thread, between these are flowers in alternate sides embroidered in colored silks, with gold centres; the curtains are lined with thin yellow Japanese silk.

—Crimson and yellow portieres is a new combination.

—High or revolving castors are no longer seen upon the dining-table.

—Inexpensive though quite attractive bed-room curtains are of unbleached muslin; the threads should be drawn out on the sides and at the lower edge for the space of two or three inches; hem-stitch the same with French cotton, and trace over the rest of the drapery in fine crewels of various colors, clustered leaves and flowers thrown on at random; finish the outer edge with lace and small tassels made of the crewels, fastened over the lace at intervals of two or three inches.

—The Russian and German designs in embroidery on linen are popular for borders of chair and sofa backs, the designs run mostly to delineating birds and grotesque figures introduced into bold scroll patterns, the bird or figure is left in relief in the natural tint of the linen, the ground being filled in with darning stitches in wool or cotton.

—Crumb trays are of copper or bronze shaped in the form of a lotus leaf

—Carving cloths are of very fine white linen, square, and finished simply with a narrow hem.

—Stained glass is used largely for fire-screens; the opalescent glass may be used in large quantities, as the fire-light in passing through its milky depths scintillates, as it were, and the glow of a bright fire is beautifully softened and transmitted by it.

—Handsome table-covers can be made with the aid of large-figured velvets; the figures are cut out and applied to cloth or satin and connected by stems and tendrils worked in arrasene or filoselle; the applique figures are sewed down upon the ground invisibly with fine sewing silk, or boldly outlined with gold or silk cord.

—Superb lamps are made with two kinds of metal, or two shades of the same kind; bronze and golden bronze are exquisite when used in artistic combination; a unique style is of hammered copper in the shape of an elephant's trunk, a dragon forming part of the pedestal; there are some specimens of glass lamps with opaque flowers on their bossed stems; a reading lamp is of moon-like satin silver surrounded with a garland of flowers in high relief carelessly applied, the globe is fine pale green cut glass.

—To satisfy the cry for change, a desirable result is produced in iron and silver called Banks ware, the dark dull surface has a decoration more or less elaborate of dark oxidized-silver; a very handsome set is for punch called a "toddy set," the kettle is mounted on a tripod over an alcohol lamp, the sugar bowl has an oxidized-silver decoration of a large lizard looking over the edge, a bottle stand is in shape of a trunk of a tree having silver decoration of foliage and birds.

—Brass chains are used for looping up mantel lambrequins.

—Beautiful vases and bottles in royal Worcester ware are displayed with their soft creamy surfaces, ornamented with berries and other designs, raised in colored enamels and simulating pearls, rubies and turquoise.

—Tapestry cloth is much used as covering for large chairs and sofas.

—A very showy design for a screen or panel is the wild orange red lily, with its brilliant coloring.

—Velveteen, plush and corduroy are still the most popular fabrics used as portieres.

—One of the newest blues this season is the mazarine, and it is seen in all manner of materials, china, glass and upholstery fabrics.

—An exquisitely delicate fire screen of cream satin is adorned with a design of coral, seaweed, shells and fishes; the fishes with spangled scales and jewelled eyes are applique, as are also the tiny golden shells, while the coral and weed are worked in arrasene and silks.

—Two rows of immense round brass nails are placed in diagonal lines on the lower edge of many pieces of plush covered furniture.

—Crocodile and serpent skins, leather, plush, velvet and satin are used and misused with lavish prodigality in the construction of card and writing cases, albums, mirror frames, perfumery and jewel cases, glove boxes, music rolls, etc.

—Covers for little books or portfolios are prettily made of canvas, with a pasteboard lining; they should be bound with ribbon and may be further ornamented by having some pressed pansies or other flowers mingled with ferns painted upon it.

—American skill and genius are working wonders in the manipulation of gold, silver and copper; a silver pitcher and salver is worked in repousse, the surface covered with irregular waves elaborately chased, with seaweed, shells of different shapes, crabs, etc; a unique silver soup tureen is chased oxidized repousse in wavelets, in which sport fish of varied species in tangled seaweed—a crab on each side, with legs extended, forms a handle, and a large lobster with a glint of oxidized gold on the back forms the top of the cover. Many other rich and desirable novelties in silver, copper and gold are displayed by the Gorham Manufacturing Company of Broadway and Nineteenth street.

Cheap Fares and Railroad Success.

Vice-President W. O. McDowell, of the New York and Sea Beach Railway, gave a few particulars about that road to a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. He said: "When I first took upon myself the control of the road I felt that by dexterous management we might convert our large yearly deficit into a surplus. We resolved to reduce our rates below those of the competing lines and by that means increase our receipts. In this we were successful. This year we tried an experiment. We introduced very cheap fares into our system. We ran a train in the morning and evening at hours to suit mechanics and workmen. The first day we commenced we had only three men, and we have since been running several cars. The morning train leaves Coney Island at 6.15, the journey to New York, via Bay Ridge, being accomplished in about forty-five minutes. The evening train leaves New York at 6.10 and arrives at its destination at 7.05. By this means we hope to eventually bring hundreds of workmen's families to reside on the lands on the line of the Sea Beach route, and while thus bringing them away from the crowded cities and into a healthy region we at the same time increase largely the receipts of our road. Our charge on these cheap trains is five cents to Bay Ridge and ten cents to Coney Island. This enables a great many people to live there and get to their work almost as quickly and cheaply as in New York city, while they have less rent to pay, to say nothing of the healthier location. The result of this policy is seen in the fact that when I became general manager of the road two years ago the annual receipts were about $40,000, while they are now over $250,000. In 1880 the gross earnings of our road were $21,000, in 1881 they were $31,000, while in 1882, when I became manager, they amounted to $40,000, there being a large net loss each year—in the latter year amounting to $40,000. In 1883, however, with our new policy, the earnings increased to $99,100, being 147 per cent. over the previous year, leaving us with a surplus of $25,000. This year our earnings have thus far amounted to $210,000, and we expect by the end of the year to swell this between $250,000 and $300,000. I anticipate a surplus for 1884 of about $100,000, being more than the gross earnings of 1883. I think we may therefore claim that the past two years have seen a greater success in our road than was ever before known in railroad management, and this we attribute to our cheap fares. We hope soon to reduce our running time to Coney Island to thirty minutes. Of course we have had to increase our rolling stock and general expenses, such as advertising, additional employes and so forth, but our percentage of operating expenses to gross income has largely decreased. We shall probably endeavor to run an extra cheap train next year, both morning and evening, so as to suit those people whose avocations do not bring them to the city so early and who return later. We believe in the future of the property along the Sea Beach route. We are in communication with many of the owners, and expect to sell large parcels next year for residence purposes, which we hope to see built up by cottages suitable for respectable mechanics and others. The price of land in these districts ranges from $600 to $1,200 per acre or $50 to $100 per city lot. We give free passes to the employes of large firms who wish to inspect the ground, and they are driven over the property and shown the various parcels for sale in the several districts, which they can buy on easy terms. By this we hope to increase the population of Bay Ridge and other places along our line, and so continue to increase our receipts from year to year.

This week has seen the New York Petroleum Exchange and Stock Board inaugurate the European system of dealing in fractional lots of railroad securities. The stocks dealt in comprise the most active of those sold on the Stock Exchange, and with a few exceptions are all dividend payers. The number of sales on Monday were 11,000, on Tuesday 10,000, on Wednesday 15,700, on Thursday 12,200, and yesterday 15,970. The system of clearances is the same as that in vogue at Berlin. Ten shares and upwards can be dealt in, thus giving the small operator an equal chance with the big speculator. A settling price is made on Saturdays and clearances effected every Monday. Of course the Stock Exchange is antagonistic to this new enterprise. Its regulations confine dealings in stocks by its members to Wall street, and this has already caused the withdrawal of some prominent men from the Exchange at the Welles building. There is some probability, however, that the latter institution will steadily increase the volume of its transactions and eventually become popular. It has been objected that the selling of small fractionas lots gives a "bucket shop" character to the Petroleum Exchange. This ie not correct, however, for the clearing department of the latter and the forms adopted are quite different to the ruinous and demoralizing one per cent. margin business of the "bucket shop." There is in fact no more gambling about dealing in ten, twenty or fifty shares on the Petroleum Exchange than there is in speculating in a hundred or a thousand shares on the Stock Exchange. Out of every hundred thousand shares sold at the Wall street institution probably not more than ten thousand shares are bought out and out. How many men who speculate on the Stock Exchange ever see the stock they buy or sell? They simply deposit with their brokers a thousand dollars margin on every hundred shares they deal in, and are just as liable to be "wiped out" as are the small fry who frequent the purlieus of the much condemned "bucket shop." The only difference between the two is that the man who speculates in the one case is a man of more moderate means than the other, and that while the one wins or loses fifties or hundreds the other gains or drops hundreds or thousands.

A meeting took place on Wednesday, at the office of V. K. Stevenson, Jr., No. 661 Fifth avenue, of the owners of Columbia College leasehold property whose leases for the new term of twenty-one years have not been renewed, with the object of taking measures in their interest with reference to the amount of ground rents to be established on the value of the fee simple of the land in the matter of all the renewals yet to be made upon that property. There was a small attendance. Some discussion took place, but owing to the majority of the parties interested not yet having returned to the city, the meeting was postponed till October 15, when it is proposed to organize with the object of making arrangements with the trustees of Columbia College for the renewal of the leases on an equitable basis.

John Russell Young, the American minister to China, has written a communication to the Home State Department with reference to the petroleum trade and the proper means of popularizing it in the Chinese empire. He says that only oil of a high grade should be sent to Asia. In the course of his official communication he pays a well-deserved tribute of commendation to a gentleman who is well known in business circles in New York. Minister Young says: "The petroleum interests at home have been well served by Mr. W. H. Libby, an American gentleman, who came to Asia to represent the petroleum interests. Mr. Libby entered upon his work with intelligent enthusiasm, and, judging from the many conversations and communications with which he has honored me, he seems to possess the true idea of pressing this most important interest in China. I attach much value to the work which that gentleman has done in China, and therefore deem it worthy of special commendation to the Department."

In the suit of Martin, Kedian & Co. vs. Joseph B. Hoyt, the General Term of the Supreme Court have lately decided that if a trustee orders work upon the property for which he is trustee, he can be made to pay for it individually; and that where the plaintiffs, who were plumbers, were employed by him to make repairs on such property, and they employed mechanics in other lines of business, they could recover the amounts they had paid to such other mechanics, and that the bills furnished by the latter and paid by the plaintiffs could be properly received in evidence; but that it is wrong to allow plaintiffs to charge the full face value of such bills when they had been allowed a rebate of ten per cent. upon the same, although they proved on the trial that the receipt of such a rebate was the custom of the trade. The Court say that such a custom is vicious and unlawful.

Numbering Streets.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The confusion arising from the want of system in numbering the houses in New York is a great evil, and one which is increasing with the growth of our metropolis. In the upper part of the city, where the streets and avenues are designated by numbers and where the blocks are of nearly uniform width, we have the basis of the simplest and most accurate system that could be devised or imagined; and yet in practice the defects are serious and embarrassing. Ask the first ten persons you meet and I doubt if two of them will be able to say within half a mile, or even a mile, where any given number of an avenue may be found, except perhaps on that avenue that may be nearest his own residence. When the city increases so that numbers well up in the thousands become common, the inconvenience will be greatly increased. Who, for example, will be able to tell with any certainty where No. 2000 in any particular avenue can be found, or say that it may be found within ten or twenty blocks of the same number on the adjoining avenue?

Another evil is dividing the streets by Fifth avenue and designating them as East —— and West ——. This is cumbersome and inconvenient and, as every one must know by experience, a cause of frequent and vexatious mistakes.

The reforms I would suggest apply to that part of the city wherein the streets and avenues are designated by numbers. In numbering the houses on the avenues I would allow twenty numbers to each block and make the rule inflexible. Beginning with First street, the first avenue number should be No. 1; at Second street should be No. 21; at Sixth street should be No. 101; at One Hundred and Fortieth street should be No. 2801, and so on. This is simplicity itself. Twenty numbers to a block, five blocks to 100 numbers, 400 numbers to a mile. By this method the most stupid citizen or the greenest stranger would in an instant know exactly where to find any number he was in search of and his distance from it.

As to the numbering of the streets I would banish the useless and cumbersome designation of east and west, and would give to each block exactly 100 numbers, beginning at the east. To the block east of First avenue I would give the numbers from 1 to 100; the first number west of First avenue should be No. 101—not 100, for logically that number belongs to the first and not to the second hundred. At Fifth avenue should be No. 501; at Tenth avenue should be No. 1001, and so throughout. Of course Lexington and Madison avenues would divide their blocks into fifties. The streets running east of Avenue A might be changed to East First street, etc., and numbered according to the present system. These, however, are so few and unimportant that they need not interfere with the adoption of the general plan.

The simplicity and accuracy of this plan cannot fail to commend it to the attention of every one, and it must be adopted some day. The longer it is delayed the greater the difficulty in making the change. Will you not advocate it, or at least call for an expression of opinion on the part of your readers respecting it?

The same plan might be applied to the streets south of First street, but at present I would not urge it, since it would be more difficult of application, and to agitate the question might embarrass the consideration of the more important measure above outlined. The entire city might be divided by certain imaginary or arbitrary lines with numbers set apart for these divisions. Wherever a street begins it might take up the numbers appropriate to its position, and these might for convenience be the same as those on Broadway. Numbers running east and west might be fixed on a like principle, allowing, as in case of the avenues, 20 feet to each house number, and measuring in all cases we will say from Broadway. So that when one hears of No. 401 East Broadway one would know that the house indicated was just, or approximately, one mile from Broadway, No. 801 would be two miles; No. 500 Jay street we would know was a mile and a quarter from Broadway, No. 670 Lewis street we would know was on a line with No. 670 Broadway, etc. This seems complex, but I could make it perfectly clear if I thought it worth the while. At present, however, it is of no practical account, and I do not care to occupy your space with more than the suggestion. Some day it may possibly bear print.

REFORM.

During the year 1883 21,110 houses were built in London, forming 361 new streets and one new square, covering a distance of 56 miles, 84 yards. This is a decrease on the preceding year, but three times as great as the number in 1873. The number of fatal accidents in the streets which came under police notice were 106, and the number of persons injured in the streets were 3,532.

That Causeless Stonecutters' Strike.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The Master Stonecutters' Association was organized to facilitate the collection of debts, which owing to the great delay, cost and uncertainty of the law, were practically uncollectible, and this we consider to be a great advantage to the artisan, mechanic and laborer, as well as to those who employ them, as it renders the payment of their wages more certain and sure. This has been and will continue to be the principal aim of our organization. It has been charged against us that we are monopolists and are endeavoring to increase the cost of stone work for our own gain. In reply we would say that we are fully aware that an advance in the cost of production of our work would cause an abatement in the demand for it, which in the end would counterbalance many times over any benefit that we might derive from a temporary corner in the market, and if persisted in would drive our work out of the city to be cut in adjacent towns, which is already being done to a considerable extent, and would also lead to a more extended use of brick and terra cotta than is the case at present. Although we do not object to the journeymen having an organization of their own, nor to the number of hours that they now work (eight hours), we cannot recognize their right to impose fines upon our members and enforce the collection of said fines by withdrawing their labor, as they have frequently done. Nor do we object to the admission of new members into our association, providing they are willing to comply with our constitution and by-laws. It has also been said of us that we have formed alliances with those employing mechanics in other trades for the purpose of oppressing those in our employ. Such reports have no foundation in fact; we simply desire to manage our own legitimate business.

Touching the position that the journeymen stonecutters have taken we wish to say that they made an agreement with the journeymen bricklayers, in which they promised to sustain and aid the bricklayers in obtaining a reduction in their hours of labor from ten hours a day to nine, and although we do not object to the bricklayers working nine hours we do not want to be made parties to their quarrels. In the fulfillment of the compact made between the journeymen stonecutters and the journeymen bricklayers the walking delegate of the journeymen stonecutters stopped all stonecutters who were working on buildings where the bricklayers were working ten hours a day. This was done to force the owners and contractors to employ nine-hour bricklayers in order to get their stonework up. All this was done without giving the members of our association any notice or warning whatever. Consequently we were unable to proceed with our work, although in many cases the stone had been for the most part cut and paid for at eight hours per day. In this situation we remained for three or four weeks without taking any action in the matter, as we hoped the men would see the folly of the course they had taken. Finally some of our members were notified by the owners and builders to proceed with their work at once or be held accountable at law for loss and damage due to delay. In this condition of affairs some of our members went themselves to these jobs to cut and fit stone in order that the work might proceed, and thereby save themselves from a long and expensive litigation. As soon as they attempted to do this they were notified by the journeymen stonecutters that unless they stopped working and refused to send out any more stone to the buildings and keep their horses in the stable their labor would be withdrawn from their shops and all their work stopped. We thereupon sent a delegation to the journeymen stonecutters requesting them to permit our men to proceed with their work. They were told to withdraw from the room and that word would be sent to our organization as to what action they would take in the matter. A committee was sent from the journeymen to our organization and they stated that they intended to stand by the bricklayers notwithstanding any loss that we might incur. To show the tone and bearing of these men and the insults we have borne, a committee from the journeymen society a short time ago in our own rooms told us that what they wanted to know was: "Who were the bosses? Whether they were the bosses or we sons of b—s the bosses?" After they had told us that they intended to stand by the bricklayers we notified them, giving them ten days to think the matter over, that unless they would permit us to go on with our work we would have to suspend all work in our shops, as we could not proceed under the circumstances. This step was forced upon us by their own actions. If we did not go on with our work we would be sued, and if we did proceed with our work the men would strike. Either alternative meant ruin. In a couple of days after we had notified the men as to the action we proposed to take they came to us and said that as our association was odious to them they would not work for us under any circumstances, unless we would withdraw from our association and leave ourselves completely at the mercy of their unjust exactions and demands. This we would not do, and, consequently, they refused to work for us and withdrew their labor from all the shops in the city. Thus, trusting in the justice of our cause, we place our case before the public.

By order of Master Stonecutters' Association.

ROBINSON GILL, President.
J. HAMILITON YOUNG, Secretary.

Frederick J. Stone sold the property Nos. 5, 7, 9 and 11 Broadway, running through to Greenwich street, subject to three mortgages amounting to $550,000; the first being $400,000, the second $100,000 and the third $50,000. The total consideration has not transpired, but we understand it is considerably in excess of the above and at a substantial advance over the figure at which it was transferred to Mr. Stone and others several months ago. It is stated that the large office building which it was announced was to be erected on the site will now not be commenced for some time. It had been the intention of the late owners of the property to begin that structure during the summer. A mortgage of $650,000 on the property had been arranged for with a prominent life insurance company, which was to be forthcoming on the day after Grant & Ward's failure. Owing to the latter circumstance the insurance company failed to make good its arrangement. Had it done so, the building contemplated would now, it is said, have been up to the third story. The purchaser of the property is M. C. Mengis, of No. 61 Broadway, the broker being Charles S. Holmes.—Real Estate Chronicle.

Some of our native woods cannot be equalled or superseded by any foreign woods; in all our knowledge of natural history there has been found nothing possessing the excellent qualities of our native hickory. It is not, as commonly supposed, that good hickory must be grown in the north to be of the best; its habitat extends from the Green Mountains, in Vermont, following the coast range, the Alleghanies and the Blue Ridge through the Carolinas and even to Upper Florida. And, contrary to general supposition, the very best of the hickory used in the arts, where toughness is required, is obtained from North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee. "It is wonderful what toughness the hickory timber of that mountain region is capable of," said a wheelmaker, recently. "We can turn a piece completely around a circle without breaking a fibre."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

About Pullman.

The administrative economy of the model town of Pullman furnishes a worthy exemplar for the thousand and one young communities which now flourish throughout the United States. One of the most recent experiments in that place is the utilization of sewage for fertilizing purposes. The Sanitary News states that the Pullman sewage farm has 890 acres under cultivation, which is equal to about 1 acre for every ten inhabitants. Of this 400 acres have been used for oats, corn and grass, 320 acres for pasturage, and 170 acres in gardens. Among the latter is a single bed of 300,000 cabbages, another bed containing half a million celery plants. Sewage has been used on English farms, but those at Pullman seem to have been more successful, owing to the proportion of sewage per acre being less than in England. It seems that the use of a superabundance of sewage produces rank-growing crops, while, if applied in proper quantity, satisfactory results are obtained. Speaking about Pullman, it is curious to read the letter of a workman who once resided there, and who left on account of what he termed its inquisitorial system of local government. The place is practically "run" by Mr. Pullman. The rents of houses are paid monthly in advance by the employer of the tenants, who deducts the amount from the latter's wages. The sanitary inspectors are allowed to enter the houses at all times, and no repairs can be made to any dwelling without a written request to the association. The writer is one of those men who is evidently unused to the regulations of large cities, where the same conditions exist, though in a larger degree. It is for the sanitary good of the whole community that the inspector should be admitted when the drainage is suspected of being faulty, and we doubt not but what the numerous regulations enacted by the authorities in Pullman are as necessary to the well-being of its residents as they are to the financia success of an undertaking which has won the admiration of every intelli gent man who has visited that place.

Real Estate Department.

It cannot be said that real estate was remarkably active during the past week. The continuance of the warm weather seemed to have a depressing effect, and there was a general agreement to postpone operations till October. It is now very certain that there will be but little demand for very costly dwellings or high-priced suites in apartment houses. It is the very rich who have suffered most from the shrinkage in values during the past three years. Another fact is well established. There are too many offices down-town for the wants of that section of the city. Landlords who get good offers would do well to accept them, and secure long leases if they can. Next May will see an unusually large number of offices unlet. Of course, there are some sections in the lower part of the city where the offices are always occupied and at high figures. This is the case near all the exchanges. Speculative builders are somewhat depressed at the outlook. They say the mercantile class and the rich capitalist are not in the market to purchase real estate. The merchants require their ready money in their business ventures because of the reluctance of banks to afford them any accommodation. Hence they have no such surplus for investment as they had when the banks were more liberal in their advances. At the same time these very banks are in a certain way helping the real estate market. Depositors and owners of their stock distrust them so greatly that they are inquiring for real estate investments of a modest and moderate kind. It is the people of small means who will principally be in the market this fall, and hence a medium class of houses will sell for comparatively better prices than fine structures or cheap investment tenements. But perhaps it is hardly fair to generalize so early in the season. The market will in time tell its own story, but we do not know how it will turn out until towards the end of October. Lots are slow of sale, as the speculative builders and capitalists have been frightened off by the labor strikes in the building trade.

The sale of the remaining property belonging to the Deane estate took place on Wednesday and Thursday. There was a good attendance and the amount realized was $169,085 and $53,325 respectively. A number of parcels remained unsold, and will be disposed of October 9.

The conveyances of the past week, as compared with the corresponding week of last year, make a very poor showing. There were fewer transactions and the amounts involved were not half of what they were in 1883. The mortgages are, however, quite up to those of last year. It is curious to notice that while business during the summer increased, as compared to last year, the past two weeks have shown a falling off. The unusually hot weather has doubtless had something to do with this decrease of transactions. The following is the table:

Out Among the Builders.

Jacob New intends to build a silk factory, 50x125, and two five-story tenements, 25x82 each, adjoining, on the south side of Fifty-fifth street, commencing 225 feet east of Eleventh avenue. The sketches are being drawn by J. H. Valentine.

W. H. Payne intends to build a flour mill on the site of his mill recently destroyed by fire, at the foot of East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street.

Geo. B. Grinnell intends to improve, next spring, eight lots on the northeast corner of the Boulevard and One Hundred and Fifty-sixth street.

J. R. Thomas has the designs for a two-story, basement and attic stone and frame cottage, 44x60, to be erected at Tarrytown Heights, for J. Lyons, and for a similar dwelling at the same place, for Lewis Roberts.

F. Carles Merry has the plans completed for four five-story double apartment houses, to be erected on the northwest corner of Fourth avenue and Seventy-third street. The corner will be 44x95, another 44x90, and two 43.6x90. They will be in hardwood trim and contain the modern improvements. The fronts will be of Philadelphia brick, with terra cotta trimmings, the basement and first story being of stone. The owner, John M. Stearns, does not intend to commence this improvement until the builders' strike is completed. The cost is estimated at $175,000.

Charles Lesinsky intends to erect a six-story furniture factory on three lots on the south side of Forty-eighth street, commencing 300 feet west of Tenth avenue.

Charles Baxter has the plans for a two-story, basement and attic frame cottage, to be built for —— Buchanan, at Morris Dock.

Brooklyn.

E. F. Gaylor has plans under way for two four-story brick stores and flats, to be erected on the northeast corner of South Fourth and Seventh streets; the corner one will be 24x51 and the other 23x50.

Th. Engelhardt is preparing plans for a three-story frame double tenement, 25x55, to be erected at No. 83 Melrose street, for Anna M. Armidinger, at a cost of about $4,500; three-story frame double tenement, 31.7x50, to be erected in rear of No. 100 Jackson street, for Mrs. Petit, Jr.; two-story frame machine shop, 20x28, at No. 886 Park avenue, for Joseph Graf; cost, $1,000.

On Tuesday last the Kings County Board of Supervisors opened five sets of plans submitted by architects for the new Hall of Records to be built adjoining the County Court House. The committee in charge of the matter will shortly select the successful plan, for which a premium of $400 was offered. The new building will contain rooms for the County Clerk, Register and Surrogate and for a law library. It will be thoroughly fire-proof and is to cost under $250,000.

Contractors' Notes.

Estimates for repairing Pier 43, East River, for repairing Pier 44, East River, both near the foot of Rutgers slip, East River, for repairing pier at East 31st street, East River, and for repairing pier at East 32d street, East River, will be received by the Commissioners of Docks at No. 117 Duane street, until 12 o'clock M. of Wednesday, October 8, 1884.

Notes and Items.

Property-owners interested in the proposed change of the grade of Railroad avenue, East, at East One Hundred and Fifty-ninth street, which affects the grades of Railroad avenue, East, from One Hundred and Fifty-eighth to One Hundred and Sixtieth street, and One Hundred and Fifty-ninth street, from Courtland avenue to Railroad avenue, East, are requested to call at the office of the Topographical Engineer of the Department of Public Parks, at the Arsenal building, Sixty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, Central Park, on or before Tuesday, the 7th October, 1884, and examine plan of such proposed change of grade and file any objections thereto before final action is taken by the Department in relation to the same.

The receiver of taxes gives notice that the books for taxes on real estate, personal property and bank stock for the year 1884 will be opened for payment at his office on Wednesday, October 1.

Wire laths are said to be taking the place of wood laths in the erection of new buildings. It is claimed that a building in which they are used is absolutely fire-proof, so far as taking fire from inside is concerned, and that no building can be considered fire-proof in which wood laths are used, no matter how else constructed. Wire lath would no doubt be an improvement on wood lath. But that its application would make a building absolutely fire-proof, so far as taking fire from inside is concerned, seems to be fallacious.

Special Notices.

The card of Messrs. Crane & Clark appears in another column. This well-known firm of lumber dealers have been established over thirty years, during which they have gained the confidence of a large clientele. At their yards, at the foot of Thirtieth street and North River, they keep on hand, under cover, a large and well-seasoned assortment of spruce timber and pine lumber.

We wish to call the special attention of architects and owners to the card of S. H. Mapes in another column. This gentleman is well known among west side builders. He can point to some very excellent work, and can be relied upon to execute his contracts faithfully. His office is at No. 1577 Broadway, between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets.

Among old builders we may mention James O'Toole, who has been established for many years and has done first-class work in all parts of the city. He can be communicated with at No. 111 West Sixty-seventh street.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—For Common Hards we note a continued monotonous sort of market, and in no important feature is there a change from last week. Buyers and sellers occasionally engage in a little good-natured controversy over cost, which leads to fractional fluctuation, but neither gain any permanent advantage, and a comparison of reports as obtained from the principal operators suggests to us about old figures for average quotations Thus we should say that $5 25@6.25 per M will cover the range on the great bulk of business transacted, but still a great many common lots, especially of Jerseys, have sold at $5 00 and some exceptional cargoes of Haverstraws at $6.50 per M. Our information leads to the impression that dealers' accumulations have not been disturbed or greatly increased since our last. At the ruling line of values there was no inducement for them to sell and there was little or no surplus in excess of the natural exhaustive capacity of the market to induce to make an effort to secure additional cargoes. The demand, therefore, may be considered as representing actual consumptive wants in the main, and there is nothing at present to indicate any diminution. Indeed, on the contrary, the chances are rather in favor of an increase, for should the difficulties with workingmen become adjusted a great many buildings will undoubtedly at once require stock in order that work may be pushed forward rapidly to get them under cover before cold weather sets in. Manufacturers continue shipping fairly, but are gradually tapering off in the production, and it is thought that a cold storm would result in the complete stoppage of work at all the yards. Pales have met with about the usual demand and underwent little change in values. North River fronts have not a particularly sharp demand at the moment, but remain firm at full former rates. Trenton and Philadelphia fronts in good demand, scarce and well maintained at the gain recently noted.

GLASS.—Business generally appears to be in good volume and satisfactory form. Domestic stock sells so close that standard sizes have to be ordered ahead, and full prices as a matter of course realized without difficulty. Foreign stock also meets with solid favor, and toward both the wholesale and jobbing outlets the supply is moving steadily. Imports appear to be fair, but not enough to lead to any accumulation, and values are firmly supported all around.

HARDWARE.—No great change since our last report. The demand somewhat irregular, but on the whole tends to increase a trifle, and dealers are hopeful that the fall distribution will assume respectable proportions. Buyers select quite as carefully as before, however, and few attractions are found sufficient to induce them to operate beyond quantity and assortment originally decided upon. There is also considerable irregularity on values, and a great many lists quoted nominally unchanged are constantly "cut" when such a course will secure desirable customers. As a rule manufacturers are keeping production down to the lowest possible quantity.

LATH.—The market has been in a less excited and somewhat more uniform position since our last issue, with a small gain made toward the close. This is looked upon as the natural reaction of a market forced down by a combination of depressing influences against which no provision could have been made. Receivers, in fact, are recovering hope and confidence, and seem to feel that they are now free from danger of another excessive run of receipts, and may indeed be a little short of stock. Buyers stand off to some extent, but evidently have not lost interest by any means, and there is a great deal of quiet nibbling all the while with pretty prompt sales when an offering is openly made. The most recent transactions have been from $2.15 up to $2.25 per M, according to quantity and delivery.

LIME.—Business continues steady and uniform, the arrivals finding an immediate outlet, and prices holding to the former level without difficulty. Receivers speak cheerfully of the outlook, and appear to think that the market is now under good control for the balance of the season.

LUMBER.—There appears to be a gradual changing of tone for the better. Some of the trade in fact are really talking strong and going into the prophetic line with considerable gusto. Ignoring, however, the views which seem to expect that in a week or two the market is to recover all the lost ground of a year's drag, the more conservative element among operators simply claim that demand is in better and more promising shape, with the production of several descriptions of stock now showing a closer adjustment to the outlet and more or less recovery on prices made since the commencement of the month. This change on the wholesale market is not altogether a reflex of corresponding increase in immediate consumption, but is the precautionary demand against winter necessities now commencing to set in and may no doubt be accepted as an indication that buyers feel satisfied that no further gains can be obtained on valuation and a few at least realize that they have been too dilatory in getting together their accumulations.

Eastern Spruce in most cases is reported steady. For some unknown reason two or three receivers make the most doleful sort of reports, but the majority appear to be well satisfied with the manner in which their supplies work off as they come to hand, and it is rare that complaints are made about time lost in running around after customers for good stock, while on prices the figures range full for all standard grades of timber. Out-of-town calls are becoming somewhat more frequent. Business, however, is by no means quick, and any important increase of supply would disturb receivers. The range of quotations is from $11.50@15.00 for randoms and $16 00 for specials.

White Pine is not active, nor does there appear any indication that buyers are likely to hurry themselves immediately. Pretty good stocks are already collected here, additions are within short reach when wanted, and the manner in which offerings are made conveys the impression that holders are not likely to make any immediate addition to valuation, especially on the average run of stock. The export trade is of too uncertain character to calculate upon, as all shippers confine operations positively to actual orders. We quote at $16@17 for West India shipping boards; $18@27 for South American do.; $13@14 for box boards, and $16@18 for extra do

Yellow Pine continues to be offered with sufficient care to make the impact upon the market much less decided than a few months ago, and this is one promising feature. As another point of a cheerful character, may be noted an increase of business within a short time in the way of special bills, etc., for both consumption and "stock," and a slight stiffening of value on choice stock is also shown. Operators, however, in most cases do not allow themselves to become enthusiastic, but seem to think it is a great deal accomplished to make the market even "feel" better. Two or three difficult specials are said to be floating around with no one to bid on them owing to the poor terms offered. We quote as follows: Randoms, $17@19.50 per M; Specials, $19.50@21 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $21@22; Dry, do., do., $22@23; Siding, $20@22 do.; Cargoes f. o. b. at Atlantic ports, $13@15 for rough, and $18@20 for dressed. Cargoes f. o. b. at Gulf ports, $12@14 for rough, and $20@21 for dressed.

Hardwoods in good average demand and ruling firm for attractive stock, with offerings of such still quite small. We quote at wholesale rates by car load as follows: Walnut, $65@100 per M.; ash, $33@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; chestnut, $25@30 do.; cherry, $40@75 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $45@52.50 do.

Shingles meeting with about an average run of orders and the market showing no new features of a decided character. We quote Cypress at $8.0 @8.50 per M. for 5x20 and $11.00 @ 12.00 do. for 6x20 regularly assorted shipping. Pine shipping stock $2.00@2.50 for 18 inch, and Eastern saw grades at $2.00@2.50 for 16 inch, as to quality and to quantity. Eastern shaved cedar $4.00 @4.50 per M. Machine dressed cedar shingles quoted as follows: for 30 inch, $15.00@20.00 for A, and $23@28.50 for No. 1; for 24 inch, $13.00@15 for A and $18.50@20.50 for No. 1; for 20 inch, $8@9.50 for A and $11.00@12.50 for No. 1.

NOTE.—Attention is called to the general marking down of Albany prices on White Pine, etc., as shown in tabular quotations given in our prices current in adjoining columns.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending September 23 as follows:

There has been a fair attendance of buyers in the district and the shipments show considerable sales The supply of pine in market is large, and it is very well assorted. All sizes and qualities can be found seasoned fit for use. Some kinds are somewhat lower in prices, as will be noticed in our corrected list. The receipts continue in good volume, and although some mills are holding their stock back, and intend keeping it over winter, a sufficient supply will be maintained on the yards for winter and spring sales. Spruce and hemlock are coming in steadily and are in good stock, while a considerable quantity continues to be shipped through to the yards of customers Hardwoods are in fine assortment and all kinds can be found in the district. Shingles and laths are in good supply and fair demand.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE,
BAY CITY, MICH.

The developments at the meeting of the lumbermen at East Saginaw on Saturday last, where some of them "spoke right out in meeting," betrayed the fact that the lumber market in the Saginaw Valley is in a much more depressed condition than has heretofore been apparent on the surface, and that lumber has been selling at lower prices than has been admitted by the manufacturers heretofore. It also appears from the proceedings of the meeting alluded to that the Tittabawassee Boom Company, for the purpose of making a record to beat that of any preceding year, has been greatly instrumental in bringing about this condition of things by forcing logs on the manufacturers which they were unable to care for in any other way than by forcing their mills to the utmost capacity. In order to do this and to make room for the mill cut, the owners have been absolutely compelled to force their lumber on the market at such prices as they could obtain, in many instances regardless of cost. It is therefore certain that sales have been made at prices which the manufacturers were desirous should not be published, and hence the reticence in regard to sales which the Gazette has so often alluded to in the past month or two. Although we believe the policy of practicing this deception has increased rather than avoided the difficulty, from the fact that the impression which gained currency thereby that the quotation prices were being adhered to, kept buyers from this market, there is no person to blame but the manufacturers themselves, who were alone responsible for the false impression

The action taken at the meeting alluded to, however, will tend to strengthen the market; because as soon as buyers understand that no more logs are to be rafted by the boom companies this season, and the mills must close earlier than usual thereby, the fear of a still further decline must vanish, and there will be more inclination to stock up the yards of the country. We believe the meeting on Saturday last will be productive of good. "An open confession is good for the soul," and the gentlemen who met together for consultation in regard to the situation seemed to appreciate this fact, and were evidently desirous of applying a remedy for the general unsatisfactory conditions existing, and they evidently took the surest method of accomplishing so desirable a result.

There is nothing worthy of particular note to report in regard to the market during the past week. Very few sales have come to the surface, and those which have been fished out of the general indisposition on the part of the manufacturers to make them known, appear without prices being named, which is an indication that they are far from satisfactory, to say the least. Mosher & Fisher, of West Bay City, report the sale of 500,000 of bill stuff, and 150,000 feet of good pine to eastern parties. A. T. Bliss, of Saginaw, also sold 500,000 feet at $13 straight; the A. W. Wright Lumber Company sold 2,500,000 feet of Norway bill stuff to Cleveland parties, and J. H. Hill & Sons, 500,000 feet of bill stuff at prices not named. Shingles and lath appear to be as dull as lumber, and we believe as satisfactory prices for purchasers can be obtained just at present on the Saginaw River as will be had during the remainder of the season.

Freights remain in statu quo, $1.50 to Buffalo and Tonawanda, and $1.25 to Ohio. There is some bluster about some vessel men refusing to load at these prices, but they are all accepting them just the same.

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The situation in the lumber markets of the West has been somewhat changed by reason of the recent floods on the Chippewa and other Wisconsin streams. The effect will be to reduce the cut over 50,000,000 feet this year at Eau Claire and other points. This shortage will be partly made up by increased sawing on the Wisconsin and at Minneapolis. The result is already felt in a firmer feeling among holders. There is considerable lumber being forced on the market from Wisconsin, but leading houses are still resting in hopes that the railroad rates may be readjusted so as to give the Northwest a chance to sell to the Southwest at a fair competitive rate as against Chicago. We confess after looking the ground all over that we have little expectation that the change will be made until after all the cream of the fall trade has been taken off by Chicago.

Trade along the river is picking up at all points. Hannibal, Quincy, Burlington, Clinton and Dubuque advices for the week lead us to the conclusion that they are fully determined that if Michigan lumber comes into their territory it must be sold cheap. St. Louis receipts have been heavier and the stocks are now heavier than ever before at this time, but we are assured that the trade is steady and prices regular.

A number of log sales are reported from the St. Croix at previous prices. Buyers take hold a little freer because they can get the towing done cheaper on present stage of water. The mills along the river will carry over a better stock of logs for spring sawing than usual. The preparations for logging this winter, though carried on quietly, indicate that last year's cut is nearly to be duplicated.

SOUTH AMERICA.

This week's mail from Rio Janeiro reports:

Pitch Pine—There have been no arrivals and the market continues firm at our last quotation, 40$000@41$000 per dozen.

White Pine—The Cintra from New York brought about 64,000 feet, part of which was sold at 120 reis per foot. Brokers quote the market firm at this price.

Swedish Pine—Arrived Brodrene 489 dozen from Memel. This was an excellent red cargo and fetched 39$500 per dozen to arrive. The quotations furnished us are: 34$@35$ per dozen for white and 36$@37$500 for red deals. Market steady.

Spruce Pine—Nothing whatever to report.

ENGLAND.

Referring to the hardwood trade the London Timber Trade's Journal says:

Excluding the cargoes lately landed, the stock in the docks is generally of a very poor character, being largely made up of small and faulty logs; and as it is long since this description has been scarce, it is not likely to be cleared away very rapidly.

We still seek in vain for any manifestation of the long hoped for revival of trade. This was clearly shown by the result of last Tuesday's sale, when so large a proportion of the wood then offered was bought in. No doubt, however, if the cargoes had been of a better character more buyers would have been brought together.

Cedar.—This trade continues very inactive; we can hear of nothing doing, and we notice that the parcel of Cuba wood per Preciosa is not to be offered in the catalogue with the mahogany by the same vessel. We should interpret this to indicate an expectation of better times later on.

American black walnut.—In this there is some sign of improvement, and we hear it has been selling more freely of late.

American whitewood is still dull, stock of logs and cut stuff being considerable.

NAILS.—The general movement of supplies makes a very good showing in most cases and the market is probably quite as active as could be expected with all the governing influences considered. Buyers have not as yet made up their minds to invest with freedom and this keeps a great deal of the business on the basis of early wants, and the efforts to bring the supply down to well-controlled amounts do not fully succeed. Sellers, however, manage to make a fair showing of steadiness on values and about old rates remain current. We quote at $—@— per keg for 10d. to 60d., according to quantity.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—The irregularity in business is shown by the continued variable tone of current reports, but still the indications are that taken in the aggregate the movement keeps up to the average for a long time current. Buyers all wait for the pressure of immediate wants to stir them into animation, and the uncertain manner in which those wants develop is reflected all the way through the market to the first hand parcels. Supplies fair and about former rates ruling. Linseed Oil remains under fair control and steady at 53@55c for domestic, and 56@58c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine moderately active at a shade easier rates. Quoted 31@32c., according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.—Demand has been moderately active only and the market without new features of special interest. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl.; Tar, $2.50@2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.
